DR. JAMES E. CHEEK
Dr. Cheek's Inaugural Challenging

Editor's Note: Dr. James E. Cheek, 37-year-old 15th president of Howard University, Washington, D. C., delivered a resounding inaugural address on Saturday, April 25. He came to Howard from his alma mater, Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C. Cheek earned his divinity degree at Colgate-Rochester School of Divinity, and his Ph. D. degree at Drew University. His address follows in its entirety:

Our nation just seven years away from the two hundredth anniversary of its revolution for freedom and human equality, is required to fulfill for our generation and in our time the promise it made to the world almost two centuries ago. Having fought on foreign shores several wars to defend, preserve and protect its beliefs, our nation is now required to wage a harder struggle within its borders to make those beliefs a reality for all of its citizens.

What we do as a nation in the next six years will be watched around the world by friend and foe alike to see whether this republic is willing and able to honor in practice what it proclaims in principle.

At no other time in American history has the danger to the American society been so great. Today, the real danger to the American ideal does not lie among the people on foreign shores; it lies within our own midst and is represented by those who seek to preserve a system that is oppressive by those who attempt to defend a society that is fragmented and by those who try to preserve an ideology that denies human liberty.

In the initial years of this new decade the critical struggle of the nation will be at home and not abroad, and the effectiveness of our foreign policy will be determined by the character and substance of our domestic practices.

How a nation allocates its resources and to what issues it

The Coastal Plains Regional Commission in North Carolina may be asked to lend a hand in helping to develop Soul City in Warren County, it was brought out Monday following a meeting held in Governor Bob Scott's office.

G. Bryant Deputy Of Century

G. W. Bryant, Deputy of the twelfth district of the North Carolina Prince Hall Masons, Selma, who in 1961, at the 91st Annual Communication, held in Raleigh, was hailed, as the "Deputy of the Ages," will again be presented as the "Deputy of the Century," at the Centennial Communication, which will be held in Raleigh, October 5-7.

A ceremony honoring Bryant will be held Friday night, May 22, at Raleigh's First Baptist Church, where a citation will be presented and testimonies made recognizing him for a service of merit during his forty three years of services as a deputy.

Mr. Bryant was appointed deputy by the late Dr. L. B. Capehart, Grand Master in 1967, when the Grand Lodge was held here in Raleigh. At the time of his appointment, there were only five lodges in his district and approximately 175 members. Today there are 19 lodges and more than 2000 members.

The twelfth district is regarded by Grand Master Clark S. Brown as one of the most progressive district in the Grand Lodge. Likewise, Mr.

Decision On Riley Hill School Looms

RILEY HILL-The final decision on what to do with the all-black Riley Hill School is expected to be made sometime this week by the Wake County Board of Education.

The controversy about grade assignments for that school has brewed since April 6 when the school board voted to convert the school to an integrated K-3 school drawing students from parts of Rolesville, Knightdale, Wendell and Zebulon.

The following week white parents groups protested the

With Scott for more than one hour were civil rights leader Floyd Bixler McKissick, originator of the Soul City plan, and two of his associates. Also present was Dr. Leigh Hammond, N. C. State Director of the Coastal Plains Commission.

Accosted by newsmen following the session in the governor's office, Dr. Hammond acknowledged that possible financial assistance for Soul City from the Regional Commission was discussed. He also said "A lot of other things were talked about."

"We are looking at all of the alternatives," Hammond related.

When asked whether he was seeking help from the Commission, Attorney McKissick stated with a chuckle, "We need help from anybody we can get it from."

Just last week, a federal official said that the government will finance the Soul City project, "but it is going to take some time to make final plans."

Suicides Of Blacks On Rise

CHICAGO, Ill.-Black males, ages 20 to 35, commit suicide twice as frequently as whites of the same age. This fact was reported in a study of black suicidal patients in New York by Dr. Herbert Hendin, psychiatrist and author of the book, "Black Suicide."

The May Issue of EBONY magazine has revealed some alarming statistics and causative factors on the rising black suicide rate in this country.

Until recently, suicide had been popularly considered a problem, mainly of the white mass culture. Reports of random suicides by blacks were so small that they scarcely warranted attention by the newspapers and other media. But last year, New York psychia-

NCNW Calls For Black Ladies Day

WASHINGTON, D. C.-"Black mothers cannot afford the luxury of accepting idly the customary idolization of Mother's Day (May 10) when the uncertainty of their children's future calls for united social action," according to the president of the National Council of Negro Women.

This is the realistic philosophy of the times that prompts the National Council of Negro Women to call for the observance of the annual day of maternal devotion as "Black Woman's Day", and the week following as a period commemorating the life of the late Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, the Council's founder who died May 18, 1955.

"Work For Society"- Mayor Lee

"Black Power," is not separation, but the ability to survive system and effect change; not isolation, but working with decent people for decent society; not domination, but development of a partnership; not destruction, but a building up to raise blacks out of depression; not riots and violence, but understanding and acceptance; not enslavement, but freeing all men to choose own bondage. This is what Howard N. Lee, mayor of Chapel Hill told Saint Augustine's College students on the fourteenth annual Honors Convocation, April 28, as he spoke from the subject, "Black Power-The Struggle to Achieve."

He said that Black Power is putting things together in such a way that black people are able to influence the direction of system to meet needs of blacks squarely and fairly; and as a change agent to build a system of true democracy.

"We ought to build a base of power, but be concerned about people on the basis of content of character rather than color

He addressed a two-day conference on combating racism sponsored by the Academy of Religion and Mental Health and the Metropolitan Applied Research Center, Inc. Some 300 professionals in religion, psychology, psychiatry, and education are attending the sessions at the Hotel Roosevelt.

The Rev. Timothy S. Healy, S. J., vice chancellor for academic affairs of the City University of New York, told the conference that "the racial dilemma for higher education is just beginning." He called the City University's open admissions policy the most massive compensatory education job in the history of Western education.

Father Healy emphasized that open admissions although a "temporary and costly expedient" can produce results. He noted that the policy will provide an influx of black and Puerto Rican teachers and counsellors who can communi-

Executive Says War Is Obscene

NEW YORK, N. Y.-Foundation executive and former Federal official Roger Wilkins declared that the nation must end the "obscene" Vietnam War and halt the erosion of all citizens' freedoms, if it is to deal realistically with racism.

Wilkins, former director of the U. S. Community Relations Service, and now social affairs program director of the Ford Foundation, said the nation's "crisis of belief is so severe" that to talk about racism beyond the current crisis is "unrealistic."
