OXFORD-Feelings of mistrust and uneasiness are the predominant emotions here in the wake of nearly two weeks of disturbances. During the lull of a strained calm, many of Oxford's Negroes are planning a Saturday "March Against Death" on the state capitol to protest the judicial system in this county seat of Granville County.

The marchers will arrive in Raleigh Sunday at 3 p.m. according to a spokesman at a meeting Tuesday afternoon in a local church, those taking part in the march and the following protest will be mostly the poor people of Oxford, who suffer the brunt of the town's injustice. He also indicated that there is a decided divisiveness among the Blacks in Oxford, with the line of division being drawn more or less between the haves and the have-nots. The State Good Neighbor Council and the Oxford Human Relations Council also came in for criticism. These two groups are charged with being responsible for dividing the community by attempting to placate the situation without addressing themselves to the grievances of the people. "I would like to point out that the Good Neighbor Council and the Human Relations Council do not represent the consensus of the people, especially the poor people in Oxford," the spokesman said. Saturday's march, originally planned for Friday, is being called "A March Against Death." The stated purpose of the march is to present Governor Scott, or someone in authority at the capitol with a list of grievances drawn up by the aroused (See CITIZENS OF, P. 2)

Get Long Terms In Robbery
After two former Shaw University students pleaded guilty to robbery here Monday in Wake Superior Court, they were sentenced to serve from 12 to 20 years in prison.

The two, Charles Franklin Davis and Alexander Thornwell Young of New York reportedly pleaded guilty to the January 22 armed robbery of Watkins Brothers Grocery Store on the Wake Forest Rd. At the time of the robbery, they were Shaw students, it was further reported. "This is a stickup," J. E. Watkins testified that the two defendants said to them. They were armed with pistols, the brothers concurred. As the two men were taking money from the cash register, C. R. Kirby, former Raleigh (See EX-STUDENTS, P. 2)

Morehouse Session To Protest Deaths, War

ATLANTA, Ga.-Dr. Hugh M. Gloster, president of Morehouse College, has called an emergency meeting of black presidents and student leaders at Morehouse College on Sunday, May 24.

The purpose of this meeting, according to Dr. Gloster, will be to prepare for President Nixon a statement giving a description of the pressing problems of Negro colleges and students today as well as an account of the reaction of the black academic community to the extension of the war in Southeast Asia and to the recent shootings of Negroes in August, Ga., and at Jackson State College. In commenting on the forthcoming meeting, Dr. Gloster said: In recent months very little attention has been given by the executive branch of the national government to the special problems of black colleges (See EMERGENCY, P. 2)

JUSTICE HAS PNEUMONIA-Washington: U. S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall is suffering from pneumonia after being hospitalized May 15 with a respiratory ailment, according to a report from the Court's press service, May 19. He is being treated with "a broad group of antibiotic drugs" after failing to respond to penicillin. (UPI).

New Program Is Offered

NEW YORK-A ten-point program to help New York and other cities avert clashes over planned school decentralization, like that which shook blacks, Jews and others in New York City in 1968-'69, was offered Sunday at the closing session of the American Jewish Committee's 64th annual meeting, at the Hotel Americans here.

At the same time, the Committee made public a proposal for a training institute on school affairs, designed to help groups identify the real issues in controversies over education, and to discuss them rationally. The two programs were made public as the New York City Board of Education was taking steps to give more power to locally elected community school boards, preparatory to the beginning of decentralized school operations this summer. The ten-point program, drawn from a detailed study of tactics used by the parties to the 1968-'69 school conflict in New York City, was prepared by David N. Barus, a specialist (See PROGRAM, P. 2)

CME Church Considering Union Plans

MEMPHIS, Tenn.-The Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, at its centennial General Conference here, has unanimously received for study the proposed plan of union of the nine-denomination Consultation on Church Union (COCU). The church, numbering about 300,000 members, is the second of the denominations participating in COCU to agree to study and respond to the plan of union offered to the church (See CHURCH, P. 2)

Shriners Break Records At Goldsboro Convention

GOLDSBORO - The Prince Hall Shriners of the Desert of North Carolina broke all previous records when they met here May 15-17, in the 1970 annual Gala Day Ceremonies.

The first record that bit the dust was that of being bale to house the many who crossed the sands from not only N. C., but from Virginia, D. C. and New York. Many of the visitors had to travel to Smithfield, Selma, Kinston and Wilson for hotel and motel space. Lodging accommodations became acute as early as two months ago and the entertainment committee, headed by C. L. Bland, arranged with out-of-town facilities to take care of the anticipated overflow. Another record was broken when it was announced that the big bras, led by Imperial Potentate Charles Dargan, New York, immediate past-Potentate, John Hester, Atlantic City, N. J., and past-Potentate, John F. Poag, Winston, along with Booker T. Alexander, Imperial Recorder, Detroit, Mich., were in attendance. This led many to believe that North Carolina was being viewed as a possible sight for a national meeting of the high Masons. The three-day session got (See SHRINERS, P. 2)

CRIME BEAT

From Raleigh's Official Police Files
MAY 22, ATTACKED
A. B. Harley, 86, 22 N. Carver Street, told Officer Gabriel Sanders at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, that Obie Evans, 22 1/2 N. Carver, came to his house to get change for a five-dollar bill. Mr. Harley said he gave the suspect the exact change for the bill. Later, however, Mr. Harley said, Evans returned and claimed he has been swindled out of one dollar. He then attacked Mr. Harley with a hawk bill knife, ripping his shirt and trousers. The complainant defended himself by striking Evans with a hammer. Mr. Harley suffered no physical bruises, but the extent of Evans' wounds could not be ascertained. (See CRIME BEAT, P. 2)

Raleigh Girl Drowns In Neuse

A 12-year-old Raleigh girl fell into the Neuse River, below the Millbourne Dam and drowned about 7:30 p.m. Monday. The victim was Miss Deborah Bagley, daughter of Mrs. Betty Louise Bagley, 107 E. Lee St. According to Wake County Coroner Marshall W. Bennett, the river was so swift and dangerous that rescue operations for recovery of the body were postponed until Tuesday morning. The body was recovered about 2 p.m. Tuesday after six hours of dragging the river by members of the Raleigh Rescue Squad. A fifth grader at the Washington Elementary School, Deborah slipped into the rain-swollen Neuse and was "sucked under" by the swift current. (See GIRL DROWNS, P. 2)
