Jerry Walker Nabbed In City Knife Death

The cops have finally caught elusive Jerry Walker, near 60, wanted in Raleigh since February 8, when he allegedly stabbed a city woman to death. Walker's local address was listed as 212 1/2 W. South Street. The victim was 32-year-old Mrs. Ruby Ann Lanier Horton.

After receiving a tip that Mr. Walker was in Jacksonville, N. C., Raleigh officials sent a description of him and the charge to police headquarters there.

Walker was arrested at the Jacksonville bus station by Patrolman Levi Simmons.

Jacksonville Police said Walker had told them he had been in Jacksonville for six months.

Lt. Russell A. Liles of the Raleigh Investigation Division said two detectives were bringing Walker back to Raleigh.

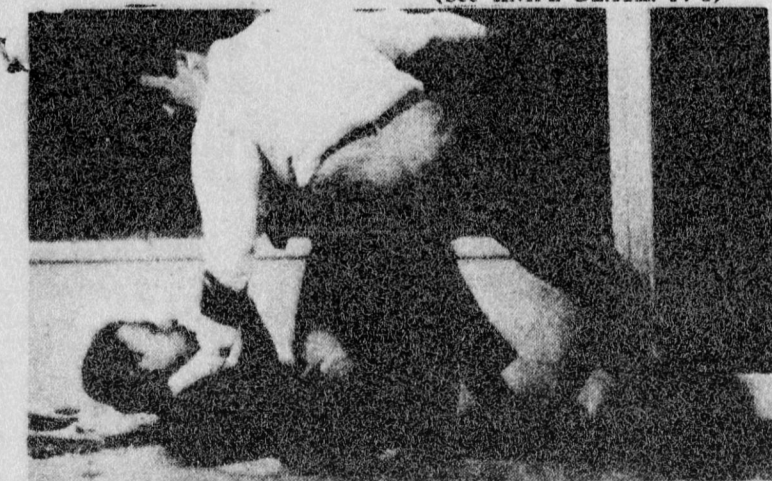

Mrs. Horton, 32, was found dead in her apartment at 508 1/2 East Hargett St. on the afternoon of February 8 by her father.

An autopsy report later showed that Mrs. Horton died of internal bleeding from knife wounds.

Walker, no "stranger" to Raleigh police, will face charges of murder in Waker District (See KNIFE DEATH, P. 2)

Manifesto Says Redress Blacks Now

"Americans created the military-industrial complex and ghetto prisons for blacks in the same way: by failing to ask the right questions at the right time of the right people," writes Arnold Schuchter in his forthcoming book, Reparations: The Black Manifesto and Its Challenge to White America, which Lippincott will publish August 17. Examining the moral and religious failure of white society in America to live up to its declared values and beliefs, Reparations issues a manifesto of its own that projects a vision of what America might be like and, beginning where James Forman left off, offers the churches and other agencies a prophetic role in a program of redress for all disadvantaged Americans.

Because of its paranoid fear to Third World Revolution, wherever it might occur, Mr. (See MANIFESTO, P. 2)

WOMAN CUTS MAN—Harold Watson, Jr., 25, 102 S. Fisher St., was involved in a knifing incident last Saturday near his house. He refused to talk to Officer W. E. Radford about how he was cut. His girlfriend, however, "spilled the beans," by telling the cop how Watson received his wound. She said he was playing cards at 115 N. Fisher Street, when he got into a "fuss" with Miss Lenora Fields, 20, 115 N. Fisher. The girlfriend, believed to be Miss Ora Cooper, who had earlier called "the law," said Miss Fields went into the kitchen, got a knife, then came back and cut Watson on the left hand. He suffered a one and one-half inch laceration. He told Officer Radford that he would not sign a warrant against Miss Fields.

Peebles' Hotel Is Total Loss; Was 49 Years Old

Eye-Witness Describes Fire At Hotel

About to take a shower on the second floor of Peebles' Hotel, 122 E. Hargett Street last Wednesday about 5:10 p.m. was Robert Taylor. However, the shouts of "Fire!" from the third floor apparently changed his mind. Mr. Taylor ran out of the 49-year-old establishment with only his trousers on, and everything he of merchandise, but sustained $4,000 to $5,000 in damages from smoke and water. The first alarm reached the fire department at 5:11 p.m., and two pumps, a ladder truck and the rescue squad were dispatched. By 5:12 assistant fire chief C. R. Puryear had called in the second of five alarms that came in quick succession until 5:26 p.m.

Mr. Green commented, "I went outside and saw the smoke; real heavy smoke. I ran up to the floor, trying to find where the smoke was coming from and kicked open the bathroom door. There were heavy flames in there. It was really bad. No one was up there, though."

"I had told the desk clerk to call the fire department on my way upstairs, and by the time I came down they were here," Frazier said. He said he saved $6,000 to $7,000 worth owned as was destroyed in the fire as was the hotel itself. Mr. Taylor was one of about twenty guests in the hotel when the five alarm fire broke out in the bathroom of the hotel. The hotel was operated by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Peebles, who also operate Peebles' Charcoal Flame, S. Wilmington Street.

NAACP Session Concludes Church Must Save USA

BY ALEXANDER BARNES CINCINNATI, Ohio - The opening sessions of the 61st annual meeting of the NAACP were marked with strong declarations of the purpose and intent of making America the citadel of democracy by three national personalities as the more than 2,000 delegates assembled for the meet, which began Monday and will continue thru Friday.

Roy Wilkins, executive director, in a Sunday release said that he felt that President Nixon meant well, but was receiving devastating advice as it relates to the civil rights movement and the cause of freedom. He was optimistic that not long hence Mr. Nixon would rise to the occasion and take the brakes off the freedom movement and move toward the oath he took as the leader of the greatest nation in the world.

In his annual address Tuesday morning, Mr. Wilkins pictured America as moving toward two societies, one black, one white—separate and unequal. He said, "This deepening division is not inevitable.
