

Anders Feted At St. Aug.'s

Purdie Anders, former director of Public Relations and associate professor of biology at Saint Augustine's College, was honored by the Office of Development and Public Relations personnel and the Saint Augustine's College family, Tuesday, June 30. Anders assumed the post of Assistant to the President of North Carolina Central University, Durham, as of July 1.

"Not As A Black Person, As A Person," Wins 1st Prize At Fest

ATLANTA, Ga.—"Not as a Black Person, as a Person," a unique industry-education documentary film produced by Ford Motor Company, won first place in the public service category of the Atlanta International Film Festival.

The goal medal was accepted by Richard Ruddell, manager of the Ford Educational Affairs Department, at the awards banquet here Saturday (June 27) culminating a week of final judging of 927 entries from 20 countries. More than 10,000 persons attended the event.

"Not as a Black Person, as a Person" records highlights of a Ford Educational Affairs Department program which brought members of Ford management together with educators and students from five Atlanta University Center colleges in a series of in-depth meetings and seminars.

The 25-minute, 16-millimeter color documentary was filmed at Ford's World headquarters in Dearborn, Mich., and on the campuses of Clark, Morehouse, Morris Brown and Spelman Colleges and Atlanta University.

"The main objectives of the person-to-person discussion," Mr. Ruddell said, "were to lessen the credibility gap between black students and industry, to convince the students and their administrators that Ford and other large corporations offer vocational opportunities for Afro-American college graduates and, most importantly, to hear the views of the black students concerning Ford and industry in general."

Ten students and faculty members from the five schools visited Dearborn to become acquainted with Ford operations. Then, the Ford management team went to Atlanta for 16 lengthy discussions with 350 students, faculty members and administrators.

Ruddell said that since its release for limited distribution in April of this year, "Not as a Black Person, as a Person," has proven to be "part-

9 Major Changes Are Listed At S.C. State

ORANGEBURG, S. C. — Nine major academic and administrative changes have been made at South Carolina State College.

The three academic and six administrative changes became effective July 1, according to Dr. M. Maceo Nance, Jr., president of the college.

Dr. Ashriel I. Mose has been elevated from dean of the School of Education to dean of the faculty.

Dr. Amelia S. Roberts, director of the Felton Laboratory School, has moved up to dean of the School of Education. Dr. Alba M. Lewis, associate professor of education and assistant supervisor of directed teaching, has been named director of Felton Laboratory School.

On the administrative level Thomas J. Crawford, director of admissions, has been named director of admissions and records and Henry N. Vincent, dean of student affairs, has been elevated to assistant to the president.

Dr. Oscar P. Butler, who formerly served as dean of men before taking a year's leave of absence, has been appointed dean of student affairs, replacing Vincent.

Dr. Robert L. Hurst, director of institutional research, has been promoted to director of development, planning and research.

Dr. Douglas T. Tate, formerly professor and chairman of the Department of Psychology at Alabama A&M University, has been named director of counseling and testing, and Willis Ham, a '69 graduate of South Carolina State College, has been appointed director of student activities and coordinator of the Student Christian Center.

Dr. Mose has been at the college since 1953 and has served as dean of the School of Education for 11 years. A native of Trinidad, he holds a bachelor's degree from Wilberforce University and the master's and Ed.D. degrees from New York University.

Dr. Roberts, a native of Sumter, S. C., has been director of the Felton Laboratory School for seven years. She is a graduate of S. C. State College and received the M.A. degree at Columbia University and the doctorate of education degree from Oklahoma University.

Dr. Lewis earned both the B.S. and M.S. degrees from South Carolina State College and the doctorate of education degree from the University of North Carolina.

A native of Beaufort, S. C., she has been associate professor of education and assistant supervisor of directed teaching since 1968, although she has served at the college for 14 years.

Thomas J. Crawford has been a member of the faculty and staff since 1934. He earned a bachelor's degree at South Carolina State and a master's degree at Cornell University. Immediately before becoming director of admissions two years ago, he served as director of student activities, public relations and placement.

Henry N. Vincent has been dean of students for five

Job Corps Costs Go Down Now

WASHINGTON - The Department of Labor recently announced that it has lowered the cost and at the same time improved the effectiveness of the Job Corps in the year the agency has operated that program.

Before the Labor Department took over operation of the Job Corps on July 1, 1969, the average annual cost of services for an enrollee was $6,725 for the previous two fiscal years. So far this year, the annual cost has been reduced to $6,274—a reduction of about 6 1/2 percent.

At the same time, the proportion of youth placed in jobs, school, or military service within 90 days of leaving Job Corps has risen from 77 percent in fiscal 1969 to 80 percent during the first half of fiscal 1970.

Much of the increase in job placement is the direct result of the closer working relationship Job Corps now has with the rest of the Manpower Administration and the network of State Employment Security agencies.

Now it is easier for a youth to be transferred to advanced training in another Manpower program, or to be helped by the local State employment office in finding a job, entering military service, or continuing schooling.

Another factor in the reduced operating costs is that the Labor Department has been able to operate the Job Corps at virtually full capacity. This has lowered costs by spreading fixed overhead costs over a wider group of trainees. Cost include travel, room and board, education, job training, medical care, counseling and financial allowances.

For 7 of the 12 months before it was transferred to the Labor Department, the Job Corps was operated at 90 percent capacity or lower.

FSU Summer Enrollment Has Increased

FAYETTEVILLE - Fayetteville State University's Summer School enrollment has soared more than 25 percent over a similar period last year, according to information released by President Charles Lyons, Jr.

President Lyons said that 526 persons are enrolled in the regular summer school session. In addition, there were 42 students enrolled in the College Preparatory Institute and 50 children in the Early Childhood Education program. Also, the University is cooperative with the Work Incentive (WIN) program and there are presently eight persons enrolled.
