Grambling College, Howard Paved Way

WASHINGTON, D. C .- Forty years ago, the Carnegie Reports castigated commercial football, on campus, as being 'wonderful nonsense.' The nation's prestigious shrines (Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Chicago) began de-emphasizing the type football that had filled their stadium for several decades. On the black college side, Howard University, Tuskegee Institute, Morehouse College, etc., gradually retreated from the respective haloyons they had known, as football powers, in the twenties.

Then, in Sept., 1968, at Yan- National Capital, Sept 19. kee Stadium, a new concept was realized when 64,000 fans jammed Yankee Stadium to see touted Grambling (La.) College beaten by Morgan State College of Baltimore, Md., by

When it later developed that the New York Urban League and secured over 50,000 fans by having community-minded corporations purchase as many tickets, for distribution in Gothan, social welfare had provided black college football with an intrinsic reason for being.

The idea spread to Los Angeles in 1969, when 68,000 fans swarmed into the Los Angeles Coliseum, to see Alcorn (Mississippi) A&M wreck Grambling, 28 to 6. A week later, at Yankee Stadium, Grambling defeated Morgan before 64,000 fans and set in motion a national parade.

The Howard University Bisons, committed by a new administration to purposeful involvement in the community, have invited the Maryland Hawks to the Robert F. Kennedy Stadium, next Sept. 19, to participate in the first annual Freedom Classic-East. That was in order, of course, because the first annual Freedom Classic-West was sponsored, last Sept. 20 (Grambling-Alcorn) by the Los Angeles Urban League.

John W. Mack, executive director of that coastal UL, has communicated with Sterling Tucker--his equivalent of the Washington (D. C.) Urban League. Thus advised, Mr. Tucker and his 20,000 D. C. members eve a sellout (50,000) in the Acting director of athletics John Turpin, Jr., of Howard and Vernon McCain, athletic director at Maryland State College, have signed contracts for the Bison-Hawk clash, An elaborate halftime stadium black-out, with the famed Howard choir mounted on a white disc on the 50 yard line, their manacledarms upstretched, as slaves, singing 'Freedom Songs,' will be a feature. A shafting of rainbow toned archlights, from various vantage points of the huge stadium, promise to provide a spectacular

Lindsay Davis, D. C. football enthusiast, provided the optional $10,000 escrow that Maryland State demanded for its part of the action. The Washington Urban League will devote 80 percent of the net proceeds to proceeds to programs involving dropouts, small business loans and special funds for the both men and women activities of the YM and YWCA. Pepsi-Cola, for one, has been invited to help support a movement already blessed by several large D. C. corporations.

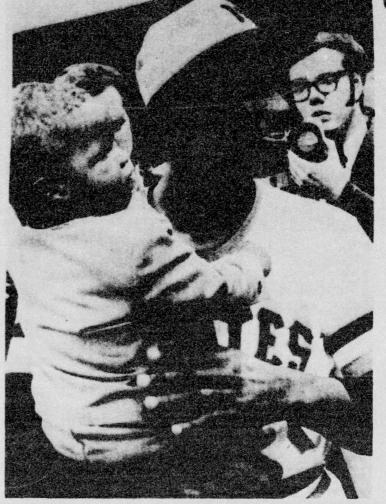

Similar games are planned, principally by Southwest Conference teams, in Philadelphia (North Carolina Central - Alcorn); at Pittsburgh (Grambling-Morgan); at Los Angeles (Alcorn-Tennessee State); at Chicago (Grambling-Prairie View); at New York City (Southern Louisiana-North Carolina A&T) and at Cleveland (Grambling-Jackson State). Howard and Maryland State join the action, Sept. 19, in D. C.

HARRELSON IS CAUGHT - New York: Mets' Bud Harrelson (3) is caught in a rundown in the third inning by Giants' Alan Gallagher and Dick Dietz (2) July 27. He was finally tagged by Gallagher. Mets won the game, 5-3. (UPI).

REDS OUT AT SECOND - Cincinnati: The Reds were out at second often here Monday as is Tommy Helms here after a second try by Milt Ramirez who threw wide at first for an error, but catcher Joe Torre retrieved the ball and threw back to Ramirez to nip Helms trying for the extra base. Julian Javier backs up this play. When the runs were tallied, St. Louis had 16 and the Reds came away with 9. Despite the loss the Reds held firm in the standings. (UPI).

ROBERTO CLEMENTE AND SON-Pittsburgh: Roberto Clemente, holds his boy Rickie, prior to being honored at the Pittsburgh stadium. Many fans came from Puerto Rico to participate in the ceremony. Clemente will turn over the proceeds from the night to a childrens hospital. (UPI).

The Raleigh Allstars Started By K. Battle

This is the story of a good young man that wanted to do something for the welfare of the young men in the community where he lives.

Kenneth Battle, with a few close friends, put together a baseball team that has grown to recognition in the state of North Carolina as well as other states. For several years now with Battles as General Manager, Secretary-Treasurer and Coach, the Raleigh Allstars won 75% of their games. With new enthusiasm Battle, a few men with the help of the ballplayers were willing to help out with the financing of the team. Some new field. equipment was purhased and a better team put together, playing local teams only. Then 1969 season brought out a better team, better equipment and more sponsors and this year they play independent teams from North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia. The team has also been invited to New York Labor Day weekend.

As the baseball season approached in 1970 everything was looking up for the team. With Kenneth Battle as Business Manager, he had additional help to join the club, a Manager, a Captain of a team, two Coachers and one special pitching coach. This has been our best year. With a full equipped team, better and experienced players we have lost only three of 29 ball games. Two of these games were by one runs, a 13-12 loss to the Greensboro Allstars and a 7-6 loss to the Fayetteville Cardinals.

Our extra project this year has been 'Hot Stove Night'. That is when all the little leaguers will be permitted to the game free with refreshment as long as they are in uniform and accompanied by an adult. This applies to little leaguers of all the adjoining cities, Durham, Wake Forest, etc. We give prizes to the lucky ticket holders. These prizes will be cash prizes. $25.00 lst prize and $15.00 2nd prize these prizes will be for the parents

This game will take place at Chavis Park on our own home

We have a very special project this year we will intro players from the Raleigh Triangle professional ballteam and also players from the Carolina Cougars basketball team.

Our last but not the least project is to help raise money to buy insurance and equipment for little league football. Age 14 and under, 10 yrs. and under. These two teams will be at Chavis Center.

The Raleigh Allstars will be playing baseball every Wednesday and every Saturday night to help raise money for these lit-

We invite all our friends to come out and enjoy the fun and entertainment.

Our sincere thanks go out to all individuals who have helped financially and who have given valuable time to make this worthwhile project a suc-

Roy Foster: Super Rook In Tribe

PITTSBURGH, Pa.-Roy Foster, who has sort of a "cool it" manner, is a hot prospect for the "Rookie of the Year" honors. Although Foster is in his first season in the majors, he has been shuffled around fairly often at the trading table. He went from the Pirates to the Mets and on to the Brewers. Finally, he found a home with the Cleveland Indians.

Roy has fitted well in Coach Alvin Dark's youth movement. He is the only regular outfielder, but you never know at what outfield slot as six other players, including Vada Pinson, are platooned with one another.

Foster is making a good show at the plate. Currently, he owns a .285 batting average with 11 homers and 30 RBI's. The only Tribe players out-hitting Roy are veteran Vada Pinson, .307; and the Indians' young catcher Ray Fosse, .309. Foster, who is nicknamed "Super Easy" because of his easygoing manner, prefers not to even look at his batting average, or think of his 'Rookie of the Year" possibilities. Roy says, "I don't like to talk about being the rookie of the year because I don't think that's good to do. I don't even like to keep track of my batting average." "Super Easy" went on to say, "If it's up, I have a tendency to lag a little, and if it's down, I have a tendency to press, and that's not good eith-

Roy Foster may have the secret to being a consistent hitter. Foster may even have the secret of how to beat out such outstanding rookies as Yankee Catcher, Thurman Munson, Red Sox outfielder, Billy Conigliaro, White Sox pitcher, Jerry Janeski, Twins' pitchers, Bill Zepp and Bert Blyleven; and Tiger third baseman; Elliott Maddox for "Rookie of the Year" honors on the American League circuit.

Olympic Boxing Coach Will Become Author

Olympic boxing coach for four years and National AAU boxing coach for five years is currently busy on the final draft of his forthcoming book Teaching The Fundamentals of Boxing. Mr. Gault comes well-prepared for this task not only from his professional boxing experiences but also from as far back as his college days when he engaged in the manly art of self-defense for the Univ. of IIlinois.

A recent testimonial dinner for the current Director of Physical Education for the Lundeberg School of Seamanship, in honor of his years of dedication to American youth and their physical fitness, was attended by Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay); Bobby Mitchell, football great; Rayfer Johnson, former Olympic decathalon champion; Hal Greer Marion Motley; and Bobby Foster, current light-heavyweight boxing

The Harry Lundeberg School at Piney Point, Marylandtrains young men between the ages of 16 and 21, in classrooms and on vessels, for careers in the U. S. Merchant Marine. There are no tuition charges at the school. The trainee receives free edboard and $15 a week in spending money. When he ships out. after 60 to 90 days, he is guaranteed union-wages of about $400 per month, plus overtime, good working conditions insurance benefits and vacation

The President of the AFL-CIO, which supports the school, says of it, "Piney Point is the most impressive place I've seen in many years. . . Here you are taking young men, a good many of them underprivileged, from poor families, and you're teaching them how to take care of themselves as they go out into the world. . . " Despite the honor of his 1970 appointment to the NAIA College boxing and National AAU boxing chairmanship circles 'Pappy' feels the School of Seamanship post is one of the most important of his Tickets for Fayetteville State's ofur home games will go on sale July 1. The FSU Athletic Department has signed an agreement with a major credit card company and ticket purchases can be charged on credit cards.
