(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) captain jumped out of his car and ran after the soldiers. The captain said the reason he started chasing them was because they didn't salute him.

"When the captain finally caught up with the soldiers, he dressed them down for sloppy dress. They are firemen and had just come from heavy work. Only Private Johnson received any charges because of the incident.

"Johnson's friends who were with him, say he stood at attention when asked to do so. The disrespect he supposedly showed to the captain was his allegedly saying 'My name is Mr. Johnson and, as far as Private Johnson, it's damn private' after the captain admits cursing Johnson.

"More charges arose out of another incident in which Johnson is being charged with offering violence against Capt. Thomas Duval and assaulting Sgt. Michael DeMaio, Duval's first sergeant. Supposedly, Johnson came towards Duval in a 'threatening manner' with DeMaio then getting into a fight. Duval and DeMaio say Johnson started the trouble, while two other witnesses, not involved in the scuffle, say Duval first cursed Johnson and then came after the soldier.

"Johnson has been in trouble before with the Army for standing up for his rights. When he was stationed in Germany, he was handcuffed, chained, and then beaten for twenty minutes by prison guards, for protesting his arrest. Later, at Fort Knox, he had a group of soldiers on a march on the base MP station to protest the arrest of a brother who had been arrested on trumped-up charges, which were later dropped."

Attorney Allison is staff counsel for the Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF), a Louisville-based civil-rights group, which is providing his services to Johnson without charge.

NEW PROJECT

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) to locate reputable credit agencies in their own neighborhoods, or who are the victims of hard-sell tactics or shady contracts. A series of spot announcements, such as planned by UBC would alert consumers to questionable business practices.

In response to a request from Pierre Eaton, Vice President of UBC and General Manager of WINX (Rockville, Maryland), Mrs. Knauer said her staff will provide the UBC with case histories to individuals who have been victimized by fraudulent business practices.

Mrs. Knauer also has written to officials of various business firms and associations, asking for shopping advice for low-income consumers and other information that could be used on the radio programs.

NOT ENOUGH

"We are looking for something innovative," she said, "so we decided on learning by doing. Normal classes usually focus on anthologies, but don't give young teachers a chance to handle books."

With that in mind, Mrs. White, who directs the reading laboratory at A&T, sent the 15 teachers to research the libraries in and around Greensboro.

"We wanted to find sources of books by and about blacks," she added "and to see how wide the coverage is for black children."

The teachers' instructions were "to examine the books, read them, that is, do exactly what a child would do." Then each teacher had to produce an original story or book for a specific age group.

PYTHIANS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) Chamber of Commerce, school and religious leaders of the community, a special feature was the talk by the Rev. Joy J. Johnson of Fairmont, who won the Democratic nomination to become the second Negro in the Legislature of Tarhele next January, unless a write-in candidate appears on the horizon prior to the November election.

Johnson won the nomination in a run-off, second primary, when the Negroes, Indians and many Whites banded together to give representation to the Blacks who compose a near-majority of the Robeson population. Just an example for other counties to follow. Rev. Johnson has for many years been a strong advocate of the NAACP in his pastoring.

Other officers elected with Hudson and Reynolds included: Wilbur W. Griffin, 248 East Saunders St., Maxton, grand keeper records and seals; Rev. H. E. Edwards, grand prelate; W. W. Hoover, grand master of the exchequer; Rev. John A. Mehane, master of works.

All sessions were held in the Community building, where meals were served by an active committee of a dozen local area Carolinians and the St. James AME Zion Church, the Rev. B. W. Jenkins, minister. Mr. Jenkins says the 400-member congregation is nearing completion of an edifice valued at more than two hundred grand ($200,000) with only about $15,000 now owing due to a pay-asyou-go program which, of course took several years to complete.

The Pythians and Calantheans go to Charlotte in 1971, and are expected to launch a drive to rebuild the sagging membership early in the Fall. The Rev. J. R. Person of Farmville was one of the more active delegates present, along with J. Archibald Jovner, A. C. Coffield, George L. Jenkins, Samuel Spell, Floyd W. Speight, Count Mehane, H. A. Atwater; and the host lodge officials: Alton Pittman, James Brown, Mrs. Tretha Pittman, Mrs. P. V. Graham, Mrs. Aggie N. Simpson; also Deputy Howard L. English.

King and Queen of the 1970 Institute will occur Saturday, August 1st, following the Theta Nu Sigma and Sigma Nu Theta annual dance in the Shamrock-Hilton Hotel where the convention is headquartered.

The 39-year-old ("I'm proud to be a grandmother") Mrs. Jordan operates her own beauty shop; has been employed as school crossing guard; is active in church and community relations; was member of Rocky Mount's "All-American City" delegation which helped bring the honors to the community; and is expected to be connected with an area technical school soon.

The New York J. K. Brick Junior College (now Franklinton Center) alumni club got together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Powell, in Westbury, Long Island, N. Y., recently. The Brickettes expect to bring a bus-load of 40 to the convention the last week in August at Bricks.

The Rev. and Mrs. James Hutten (Melva Wilson) Costen visited briefly at the Mt. Pisgah United Presbyterian Church, scene of his first pastorate and delivered the sermon July 26. The Costens, now of Atlanta, Ga., were enroute to Africa on "safari" for theological students for J. C. Smith Seminary now a part of the International Theological Center (ITC). Costen is dean of recruitment at building the Church of The Master in Atlanta.

The achievements of the school have not impressed all Kentuckians, the article reported. It cited State Sen. Mack Walters who objected to the Lincoln cost of $5,000 per pupil, terming it a "luxury," while his own nearby town of Shelbyville spent only $500 per pupil.

Cost of running the school "is only part of the reason" why the state legislature decided to close down Lincoln, believes the Rev. Kirk Neely, a white Southern Baptist and the school's chaplain.

"There is suspicion on the part of the people in this area," he is quoted in the magazine, "of any program where blacks and whites mix freely. Part of the feeling is against poor people getting such a good education, but part is just plain racism."

C. C. Paschall will preside at the opening session on Wednesday.

MUSLIMS'

"It has given us great pleasure to fulfill the request of so many in this area to have the convenience of attending a Mosque in the City of Raleigh. Its location lends further convenience to it by most means of transportation with the added service of a courtesy car upon request/ the interior is beautifully decorated with all modern facilities and comfortably cooled by air condition/ The private dinner room sparkling clean, attractive designed and gaily colored offers the best in food and service.

"Again, we greatly appreciate the high regards you have shown us for our initiative and determination to help bring about better conditions within the Black community. However, we know that with your knowledge and concern so much more can be accomplished. This is more effectively related to us by the most honorable Elijah Muhammad who says, "Up you mighty Race, you can accomplish what you will."

"So on behalf of the staff and Muslims in the Raleigh-Durham area, we extend a warm and sincere invitation to our grand opening," next door to The CAROLINIAN Newspaper.

Come and bring your family and friends.

JOURNAL PLANS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) has traveled extensively in Africa. Jenkins and his film crew will roam throughout the continent reporting on the social, political and economic aspects of the African nations.

The opening of the bureau will be officially announced at a reception Friday, July 31, in Washington, D. C., at the office of Johnson Publishing Company, Inc., 1790 Pennsylvania Ave. The bureau will be opened August 1. African ambassadors to the United States and U. S. Government officials have been invited.

"Black Journal" will devote one segment a month to information about Africa. The films will also be made available to African countries for use on their television stations.

Tony Brown, executive producer of "Black Journal," notes that Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, was chosen as the location of the new bureau because it is the center of operations for the Organization of African Unity.

Commenting on the need for an African bureau, Brown says, "We, as Africans in America, need to see the positive side of Africa so that we can develop a much needed psychological identity with Africa to develop our roots of identifications."

SWEEPSTAKES

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) it is important that the persons who have these lucky tickets understand that he or she SHOULD NOT go to the businesses involved but first present them to THE CAROLINIAN for verification. Deadline for submitting any winning house number to this office is Monday, August 3, at 5 p.m. If no one claims the merchandise the week that it is offered, then when that particular merchant's number is drawn again in the revised Sweepstakes feature, amounts indicated will be added to it.

STATE ELKS

With this phase of the program over Jack Faison, Grand Auditor and the sponsor of the program took over as the master of ceremonies. He introduced the visitors. He announced that a bus load of "bills" and "daughters" had come from Reidsville on Saturday night and had exemplified great enthusiasm.

Alexander Barnes, Director of Civil Liberties, was the first speaker. He outlined a viable program and praised the people in the area for having nominated Faison as the black candidate to serve on the Board of County Commissioners.

Earl Lewis, who holds a high position with the Belk-Tyler Company, in Rocky Mount and Ahsokie, who got the nod for County Commissioner in Ahsokie, told how he won the primary and urged the assembly to continue the fight for Black representations on all levels.

Representatives from Reidsville, Ahsokie, Elizabeth City, Henderson and Franklin also praised the planners of the annual meet.

Will Brown, special assistant to Grand Exalted Ruler, Hobson Reynolds, brought greetings from Reynolds and the Grand Lodge. He introduced S. T. Entloe, state president, who pointed out that the affair was one of the greatest displays of the principles of Elksdom that happens in the state.

The Rev. M. F. Boone, pastor of Shiloh Baptist Church, Emporia, Va., delivered the sermon. The meaning of the fellowship of the meeting was stressed very strongly by him. Music was furnished by a special Elks Chorus composed of members of Unity Temple and local women. Others taking part on the program included Melvin Drew and Mrs. Minnie Stedje.

The affair took on the air of reunion when it was found that many former residents and members of the Elks were in attendance. A free lunch was served all the persons who attended.

COFFEEHOUSE

"When the GI coffeehouse was opened a year ago, it served two functions. One was to raise the awareness of GIs that there existed a struggle against the oppressive conditions of the Army and to provide a center for that struggle. Things have changed in that year and we now find that we no longer need that coffeehouse.

"The awareness of the need to struggle and the context for that struggle is provided daily by the brass on base and by the war fought only to strengthen the American empire. The brass created rebellion among GIs and with every attempt to control it the rebellion grows.

"The coffeehouse has helped to break the fear among Ft. Knox GIs, necessity has done the rest. The need now is not for a visible center for the GI movement. GIs see it all around them, in their companies and in the field in Vietnam.

"What is needed are strong underground organizations in every company, in every unit, in which GIs can join together and defend themselves against the lifers and brass that try to mess with them. Everyday we hear of new resistance, sometimes by individuals, sometimes by companies.

"The GI movement now must turn its attention to building an organization that relates to and concretely aids the struggle on base. No longer do GIs need a place to get together off base, because the struggle is on base."

The reason truth makes such slow progress in the world is that it is in competition with pretense.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.-A new program designed to recruit more young Black men and women into the dental profession has been announced by the National Dental Association.

The announcement was made jointly by Dr. F. A. Chowning, chairman of the Recruiting Committee of the NDA, and Kelvin A. Wall, vice president and manager, Market Development Department, Coca-Cola USA, which is supporting and developing material for the program.

According to Dr. Chowning, a past president of the National Dental Association, there are less than 2,000 Black dentists in America and less than 400 Black students currently enrolled in dental schools.

Entitled "Dentistry as a Career," the program's major tool is a kit containing a 7-minute sound slide film which describes the needs, opportunities and rewards of the dental profession. It also features brochures and posters on dentistry and was prepared in cooperation with Howard and Meaharry Dental Schools.

SBA Loans Increase

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Loans approved by the Small Business Administration to minority-owned franchise businesses are now triple that of the average monthly rate of the last two fiscal years, SBA Assistant Administrator for Minority Enterprise Arthur McZier, said last Thursday.

McZier represented SBA Administrator Hilary Sandoval, Jr., at the formal opening this morning of Fleming's Davis Paint Store, 6127 Georgia Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"Our loans to minority franchise owners are now averaging 55 per month, McZier said, "as compared to an average monthly rate of less than 15 during the previous two fiscal years."

Owner of the new Davis Paint Store in Washington is Alfred H. Fleming, 41-year-old Black American, who was employed by the General Services Administration as a painter for 15 years. He received a loan of $14,000 from SBA to help start the new business.

Fleming will receive management and technical guidance from the Davis Paint Company, which is one of more than 70 national franchisors who have joined hands with SBA in making more business opportunities available for minority individuals.

In addition to the new store opened in Washington today, the Davis Paint Company has assisted in establishing successful minority-owned stores in Kansas City, Missouri, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Kansas City, Tulsa, Oklahoma and Laredo, Texas. Several others will open soon.

Too many geniuses make for inefficiency.
