"We haven't reached the mountain top yet," he said.

Churchmen Ponder Question

Does Non-Violence Work?

Disciples Of Christ Wondering

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Does non-violence work for the black man?

This was only one of the thorny questions that faced black members of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) as they gathered in a dozen workshops here at Columbia College during their biennial meeting last week.

The workshops were part of a School of Faith and Life at the National Convocation of the Christian Church, which opened August 19 and continues through August 23. The convocation is an organization that devotes its attention to issues of particular interest to black churchmen.

More than 200 persons from various parts of the country are attending the convocation. Drawing the largest attendance at the opening Thursday of the simultaneous daily workshops was the one on non-violence. More than 15 per cent of the total workshop participants showed up at that one.

Dangerous Mythology On Black Colleges: Dr. Blake

"There is a dangerous mythology now developing that black colleges are anachronistic and not very useful anymore. This is a dangerous and destructive mythology, fed by the great publicity attending the inability of major elite institutions to be responsible to small numbers of black students." This is what Dr. Elias Blake, Jr., president, Institute for Services to Education, Washington, D. C., said at the opening address of the Saint Augustine's College Faculty - Staff Orientation and Planning Conference, which began August 20.

Dr. Blake stated that, for the last hundred years there would have been almost no college graduates among black Americans except for black colleges, which were and still are the foundation stone of much of what is called racial progress in America.

Junior colleges are considered the most important things now on the horizon. They are the places where the black group can go and later go on and get a degree. In the education bill 43 million dollars goes to the junior colleges.

In 1968, the black colleges produced 20,000 baccalaureate, graduate and professional degrees. The 17,000 B. A. and B. S. degrees, according to the best available estimated represent 4 out of 5 of the baccalaureate degrees awarded to black Americans in that year and 7 out of 10 of all level of degrees.

Yet there are serious problems in the black colleges de-

Criticizes R. Nixon's Planning

NEW YORK — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff warned Monday that government approved de facto segregation is leading the nation down the road to apartheid.

The Connecticut Democrat, in a signed article in the current issue of Look Magazine, said recent actions by President Nixon and Congress "have strengthened my conviction" that the country is moving toward a strict separation of the black and white races.

He termed the desegregation program of the President deficient since it only provides financial help to de jure school systems which have to desegregate. Nixon, Ribicoff said, has called de facto segregation "undesirable" but said that this administration would make no moves to end it.

Nixon's program on de facto segregation, the Senator said, "doesn't require anything of anyone. It is purely voluntary. If you want to desegregate, fine. There will be money to help you over the hurdles. If you don't, that's OK, too. It's not illegal. The decision is yours.

Hope Funds Will Pour In For The Wesleyan First Church Of Deliverance, Inc.

THE WESLEYAN FIRST CHURCH OF DELIVERANCE, above, is nearing completion. Funds are being sought at this time for its completion. Raleigh's well-known Sister Mable Gary is the pastor.

Several hundred dollars has been raised for the Wesleyan First Church of Deliverance, Inc.'s drive to raise funds for its roof and other facilities, necessary to complete the church, which was started by the Rev. Sister Mable Gary about nine years ago in this city. This amount does not include any monies sent to Mechanics and Farmers Bank, 113 E. Hargett Street, the official collection agency for the drive.

All of Raleigh's and Wake County's citizens are urged to rally to this worthy cause. Many businesses have already expressed much interest in the drive. THE CAROLINIAN is hoping that the amount of $5,000 can be raised by the middle of next month.
