Credit Union Will Occupy Teachers' Assoc. Building

Morgan Beckons K. Cheek

BY ALEXANDER BARNES
Persons close to Shaw University are really in a dither to determine why James Cheek and his younger brother, King, decided to leave Shaw University for Howard and Morgan State College, respectively. They were glad to note that their accomplishments at the Baptist institution had gained them such attention that they were sought by more affluent colleges, however.

Teachers' Credit Body Takes Over Ex-Quarters

Persons who have watched old landmarks here for a number of years will be gratified to learn that even though the building, long occupied by the North Carolina Teachers Association lost its sign, the new insignia is now North Carolina Teachers Credit Association.

It should be remembered that this association has been a vital part of the NCTA, for a number of years. It is now headed by Prof. W. R. Collins, retired principal of Johnson County's largest predominantly Negro High School, in Smithfield. Aside from having charge of the Credit Union, Mr. Collins has been responsible for the program at Hammocks Beach.

There are those who look toward the Credit Union as the one symbol of Negro solidarity and its service to the teachers of the state. It now comes as welcomed news that any and all CARTHAGE - Patrolman John Chambers, 21, a rookie Black policeman here, was jailed Sunday in this Moore County town in connection with the shooting death of a white restaurant owner earlier in the day.

Carthage Police Chief Allen Benner said that Gerald Rosser, 29, owner of the Wagon Wheel Restaurant, was shot to death by Chambers, a member of the five-man police force for the past five weeks.

Benner said Chamber was not charged in connection with the death but was jailed pending a second coroner's jury Wednesday or Thursday. The first coroner's jury failed to reach a verdict Sunday.

Benner said the jury of three whites and three Negroes failed to agree on a verdict. Benner said the verdict was: one for homicide; two for manslaughter; and three for justifiable homicide.

Testimony of witnesses to the shooting said Chambers had stopped at the restaurant and instructed two white teenage youths to leave "and go home." Witnesses told the coroner's jury that Rosser took exception to the policeman's actions and told him "I don't want you or your kind at my place."

The two youths told the coroner's jury that a scuffle broke out between Rosser and Chambers after about 15 minutes of arguments. According to the white boys, Chambers said, "Stop it or I'll blow your brains out."

Witnesses said chambers (See BLACK COP, P. 2)

He added that blacks are "being sold out in the integration program." (UPI).

Saint Aug.'s Gets Over 117,000 Gs

Dr. Prezell R. Robinson, president, Saint Augustine's College, has announced that a $17,500 grant, for two years, has been received from the Ford Foundation.

The funds are to be used to relocate the institution's business office, and four officers to the business and management staff and install modern office equipment—all for the purpose of improving the handling of the financial operations of the college. These operations are presently impeded by the business office's remote location, lack of space and a short-

Malcolm X. U. Plans Expanded Operations In Its New Facility

GREESBORO - Greeted warmly by a host of Black community leaders, Malcolm X Liberation University (MXLU) expanded its operations last week from Durham to Greensboro.

Howard Fuller, Mwalimu of MXLU made the announcement at a press conference here on Friday, August 28.

Originally founded on Oct. 25, 1969 the school began its independent Black educational operation in a converted warehouse on Durham's E. Pettigrew Street. Since then, expanded enrollment and a broader projected program have necessitated a larger physical facility.

According to Fuller, the Durham operations will continue primarily in the form of an early learning center, a high school forum and some special adult seminars.

But, he explained, the main operation will be here in Greensboro.

Aside from inadequate facilities, Fuller said that the Black community of Greensboro offered great potential support because of its high degree of political awareness and ability to unify, mobilize and act.

Giving evidence to Fuller's statement, close to a dozen community leaders and prominent citizens appeared at the press conference with him. Rev. Julius T. Douglas of the Black Minister's Pulpit Forum read a statement on behalf of the group.

The community delegation took the opportunity to welcome the university to Greensboro. "We look forward," Rev. Douglas said, "to a wholesome working relationship with both the administration and student body of the university."

The fourteen signers included four ministers, two Black bank executives, two high ranking members of A&T State University and representatives of many community groups.

At the press conference, the Mwalimu (Kiswahili for "teacher") explained that the institution was governed by the ideology of Pan-Africanism—the

O'Brien To Stump For Candidates

WASHINGTON - Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien will leave this week on a two-month, nationwide campaign tour in behalf of Democratic Senate, House and gubernatorial candidates.

O'Brien's schedule will take him to more than 25 states in the party's campaign to retain control of the Congress and increase the ranks of Democratic governors.

Will Air Area Problems

Wake County Opportunities, Inc. will conduct a community action meeting on Monday, Sept. 14, 8 p.m. at John W. Ligon Senior High School Auditorium, 706 East Lenoir Street, Raleigh.

The purpose of the meeting is for public officials, agency heads, businesses, community groups and the general public to have an opportunity to discuss community problems. Wake County Opportunities, Inc. Program Plans and Priorities for 1971 will also be presented at the meeting by the Executive Director, Mrs. Dorothy N. Allen.

Mrs. Allen said, "We hope to gain the cooperation of the total community as a result of the meeting. This will be the first time to my knowledge that such a meeting has ever been held in Wake County. I think it is high time that we set aside personal feelings and political undertones and get down to the business of working together to help solve some of the conditions that cause poverty. The only way this can be accomplished is to work together as a total community. No one agency or community will accomplish any real constructive improvements by working alone. We must work together."

After a pause, Mrs. Allen said, "We've really listened to the poor people and tried in every way to develop programs to meet their needs. One of the most pressing priorities last year and this year is transportation. And now we have five buses to help transport poor people to food commodity stations, health services, employment sites and to take field trips for cultural enrichment. These vehicles can be a real asset to Wake County but we need the support of other agencies and groups. With a little effort and support from all levels of our community there is hope for solving a few of the problems. We need more involvement and commitment from local government, agencies, churches, schools, colleges and all people. We intend to gain total community support. After the cooperation we have received this past year, I have no doubt that great things can be accomplished by" (See PROBLEMS, P. 2)

THREATENS TO KILL - Jerry Bruce Walker, 17, 11 W. Lee Street, told Officer P. D. Lee at 7:52 p. m. last Tuesday, that he was leaving the playground at 1300 Holman Street around 7:15 p.m. when a 1963 or 1964 light blue Cadillac pulled up beside him at the intersection of Holman and W. Lee Streets. He also stated that a subject around 40 to 50 years of age, six feet tall, sporting an Afro hair style, whom he did not know, but had seen around W. Lee Street before, threatened to kill him for getting in his way. "The man was holding either a .32 or .38 calibre pistol in his hand at the time of the threat. Young Walker said he will sign an assault with a deadly weapon warrant against the man as soon as he finds out his name." (See CRIME BEAT, P. 2)

Wesleyan First Church Of Deliverance, Inc.

THE WESLEYAN FIRST CHURCH OF DELIVERANCE, above, is nearing completion. Funds are being sought at this time for its completion. Raleigh's well-known Sister Mable Gary is the pastor.

(AN EDITORIAL)
This editorial is prompted by the fact that the Raleigh community apparently doesn't believe in the biblical adage that it is "More blessed to give than to receive," if judged by the monetary response to the need of Wesleyan First Church of Deliverance, Inc., to the appeal, in its behalf, by this newspaper, in its recent editions.

Certainly, this ignoring is not due to the fact that the community would be unduly taxed or that it isn't a worthy cause. Yet, for some reason, the nickles, dimes, quarters and dollars have been few. The response from Sister Gary's colleagues, (brother of the cloth), has not been indicative of what this newspaper conceives of as (See WESLEYAN, P. 2)
