

DR. ROBINSON (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

Augustine's College. Miss Esther Boyer, a junior of Raleigh, presided, Father Clyde E. Beatty, chaplain of the college, gave the opening prayer. Addison Reed of the music department sang, "God Is My Shepherd," by Dvorak. The speaker was introduced by Dr. Joseph Jones, Jr., vice president for academic affairs.

CREDIT UNION (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

George Fleming, chairman of the nominating committee, made his report. Nominated for board members were D. T. Hough, P. R. Jorvay, Joseph Whitaker, W. F. Cumbo, Edward Curtis, J. O. White, George Fleming, Mrs. Mary Hooker and Mrs. L. B. Freeman.

Officers elected for the new year were D. T. Hough, president; Mrs. L. B. Freeman, secretary; George Fleming, treasurer; and Joseph Whitaker, chaplain.

The Credit Committee will be composed of C. Davidson, T. Glascoe and A. Watkins. The Supervisory Committee will be made up of B. Bethea, T. Jiles and W. C. Achebe.

A motion was made by Whitaker, seconded by Watkins, and carried by the group to accept the report of the nominating committee.

A discussion on the topic, "Ways To Attract New Members" followed the business portion of the meeting. Each member was asked to make himself a committee of one to attract as many new members as possible.

The new members were introduced and asked to take whatever steps necessary to broaden the participation in the union. Hough thanked all the attendees for their presence before the meeting was adjourned.

The People's Credit Union now has more than 500 members and 187 shareholders. Total assets are near $10,000. The union has made loans totaling more than $18,000.

HOLD TWO (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

charged, along with Chapman, with robbing a service station of approximately $250. Horne is also charged with auto theft by officials in Cumberland County.

Both Chapman and Horne are accused in South Carolina of kidnaping and raping a housewife there last Sunday night. It was reported that the woman was freed after the ordeal.

Police captured the two youths in Marlboro County in South Carolina in an abandoned church after using bloodhounds to track them down.

Chapman is accused of murdering James M. McDonald, 47-year-old man of St. Paul in Robeson County. McDonald's body was found last Monday with his throat and left wrist slashed and his pockets turned inside out.

Police were unable to identify McDonald's body at first because he had been stripped of his identification. He was finally identified through initials on his glasses and a tattoo.

NUL HAS (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

for her life, and while we reject violence and Communism, we demand that her trial be based solely on the evidence, and not on her beliefs or political affiliations.

The State of California has the responsibility of seeing to it that Miss Davis is given a scrupulously fair trial; that she gets every legal right due her; that she be tried by a jury of her peers including black people, and that she receive all courtesies and rights due her during her period of pre-trial imprisonment.

It is imperative that all Americans, regardless of color, politics, or philosophical outlook, join in demanding a fair trial for Miss Davis, for when the rights of but one person are compromised, then the liberties of all are endangered.

STABS WOMAN (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

Scott, 40, 527 S. Blount Street.

According to a report at 2:08 p.m. by Officer A. C. Munday, his unit received a call at 2:03 p.m. from the Lenoir Street address. "At the time we arrived, Mrs. McCoy was bleeding severely about the neck and face. At this time, she stated that Eddie Scott had stabbed her. I investigated around the house and was unable to tell what happened. The complainant was at home by herself. She was taken to Wake Memorial Hospital where we questioned her and again, at this time, she stated that she was stabbed by Eddie Lee Scott. She was unable to answer further questions because of her condition.

Mrs. McCoy, who was listed in serious condition, suffered several lacerations of the face and throat.

According to police identification records, Scott's record began in 1958 when he was charged with being drunk and disorderly. Since that date, he has been jailed on such raps as driving under the influence, carrying a concealed weapon, assault and battery, breaking and entering and assault with a deadly weapon. His last "brush" with police was in Oct. of 1970 when he was jailed for driving under the influence. Mrs. McCoy's record only runs between 1956 and 1962. She was a material witness in an armed robbery case, statutory vagrant and has been charged in three counts of being drunk.

INMATE HELD (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

According to its president, Alexander Barnes. At the Coroner's Hearing, it was allegedly revealed that one fifth of intoxicating beverages was found in or near the bed of the deceased. Both men were reportedly at Butler to receive treatment for alcoholism.

"Something blunt collided with his (Hatch's) head. It was not a fist. He was knocked to the floor, his head striking the floor," related Dr. Page Hudson, the State's Chief Medical Examiner, who performed an autopsy on Hatch's body.

FILES SUIT (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

is Cole, charged with murder of Alex Gray Bryant two weeks ago, became involved in an argument with Bryant's two sisters.

CONTRADICTORY (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) cipal only as a "joke," but Taylor did not call Terry's home.

SHAW'S NEW (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

cause he knew they all wanted to know what "this guy Hargraves was like - what made him tick."

Placing his top priorities on consolidation of already existing programs at Shaw, change when necessary and fund-raising, Dr. Hargraves held his audience spellbound as he constantly chopped at the air with his right hand while resting the other in his belt.

He immediately made an appeal to alumni, the corporate community, the church and laymen alike for more contributions if Shaw is to survive and thrive.

Hargraves said he had always made it a point to where the action is, because "that's where it's at," he said, (speaking of change).

"I have dealt with all types of 'cuts'," said the silver-haired chubby faced educator, "and I think I completely understand the impulse to survive" (speaking of the Black American's struggle).

"Society is in a mess," he said, "and Shaw has the unique and comprehensive role of teaching, promoting societal changes, conducting research and 'mind blowing' to help change that mess," he said. Dr. Hargraves said "mind blowing" applies to "wrestling with society to change what it is to what it ought to be, and that's what education is all about," he added.

The 5'6" articulate urbanologist said he had worked in political, social, economic, religious and cultural areas for the past 22 years as an executive, clergyman, innovator, developer, reflector and enabler.

"I see involvement in the community and creative fund raising among my most important tasks at Shaw," said the native North Carolinian during an interview with the media after his speech. "My philosophy is one that believes in the role of the university not only in terms of education, but also in encouraging our faculty to do research and to perform community service," he said.

Hargraves said he saw the Ph. D. as we know it now dying in the next 20 years, and colleges and universities serving the total community with education that meets their needs.

"Shaw has done well in the past with its innovative programs," the Chicago-based educator said, "and we will have to capitalize on those programs for the future." He praised Dr. King V. Cheek, Jr. for the daring and "ahead of his time" leadership which he had given Shaw and thanked him for leaving him (Hargraves) a base upon which to build Shaw's future. Hargraves, who received his Doctor of Philosophy degree in Theology and Religion from the Chicago Theological Seminary, has been working in the Chicago area for the past 20 years, spending time in the New York area where he headed several social action agencies and served as a minister.

He is currently chairman of The Black Center for Strategy and Community Development in Chicago; Associate Professor of Urban Missions and Director of the Kenwood project at the Chicago Theological Seminary. He also is serving as chairman and developer of the Chicago Center for Black Religious Studies-Association of Chicago Theological Schools.

He told the Shaw family he could not tell them specifically in which direction he would take Shaw. "Consider myself a freshman," he said, "with all of the humble traits attached to that position." He inferred that the only thing he could tell his listeners was that he was sincere and concerned and that he intended to exhaust all of his energies to continue to move Shaw with the vitality that its past president had.

His predecessor, Dr. King V. Cheek, Jr. has accepted the presidency of Morgan State University in Baltimore, Md.

Shaw's board of trustees named Cleon F. Thompson as the University's first Provost the same afternoon. Thompson will serve as interim president until Hargraves assumes his duties fulltime. Thompson will also coordinate all five major areas at the university after Hargraves arrives freeing him to perform fulltime chores of the office of president.

Dr. Hargraves received a standing ovation from his audience, and was greeted eagerly and warmly by students, faculty, alumni friends and administration at the conclusion of his address.

RCA HOLDS (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

tures of city governments, etc. were mentioned. Miss Latham also assured other chairmen that the programs would not overlap. She will, however, work closely with the publicity committee in presenting the radio programs.

Robert Williams, urban affairs. The main idea will be a study of various programs to determine whether there is any discrimination.

All citizens of Raleigh and Wake County, 18 years old and up are invited and urged to attend the monthly meetings of the association.

SWEESTAKES (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

$15 in merchandise at BRIGGS Hardware, 220 Fayetteville St., and number 09632, third prize, will bring its bearer the sum of $10 in trade at Roses, Cameron Village.

The Sweepstakes Spotlight this week is on National Pure Food Market, 208 E. Martin Street, where a complete line of quality meats, fancy groceries and produce await you.

It is important that the persons who have these lucky tickets understand that he or she SHOULD NOT go to the businesses involved but first present them to THE CAROLINIAN for verification. Deadline for submitting any winning house number to this office is Monday, February 8 at 5 p.m. If no one claims the merchandise the week that it is offered, then when that particular merchant's number is drawn again in the revised Sweepstakes feature, amounts indicated will be added to it.

'70s Will Aid Blacks, Says Jones

ORANGETOWN, S. C.—"The 60's were given to rhetoric and searching for ideologies, but the 70's will bring black people together and will unify us," declared Dr. Jones, noted writer and Black Nationalist.

"There is room for all of us within the scope of the philosophies of Dr. Martin Luther King and Malcolm X," he told a group of more than 300 attending a Black Culture Seminar at S. C. State College last week.

Jones pointed out that Dr. King told him shortly before his assassination, "We should stop being separate as the fingers on the hand but come together and become as first." Jones said the nationalist philosophy allows black people to "determine what they will do with their lives."

"Everything a nationalist learns and does is to help raise the consciousness of his community," he added.

Since the races are already separated, he said, black nationalists merely want to control the land and the institutions which they occupy, and nothing more. "Unlike other cultures and races, we do not want to impose our culture on anyone else. We want to gain power in order to have self determination, self respect, and self defense," he said.

But before black people can ever hope to determine their own destiny, they first must organize and find ways to liberate themselves, he said. "Organization is the key to the effective use of the four political powers: elections; community; organizations; coalitions; and disruptions," he said.

He claims the hope of the black man lies in his ability to learn as much as possible in college and his willingness to apply his learning in the community, helping to raise the consciousness of the black community.

Commission To Clarify Big Debate

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The U. S. Commission on Civil Rights is seeking to clarify the national debate on school integration. "Understanding School Desegregation," a Commission publication released recently, outlines, in non-technical terms, the legal, human, and educational issues at the heart of efforts to achieve racial integration in the schools. The 16-page booklet explains in direct, non-technical language the problems and promise of providing a desegregated, quality education for every American child.

Howard A. Glickstein, Staff Director of the Commission, said recently, "Emotionalism and rhetoric have for too long clouded discussion of our schools. This booklet represents an attempt to address the real issues without resorting to slogans or catchwords."

The Commission's survey of the legal basis for desegregation efforts extends back to a 1938 Supreme Court decision which held it unlawful for the State of Missouri to provide law schools for whites while only offering financial aid to blacks for legal education in neighboring, non-segregated states. The Commission credits much of the recent progress in the South to the 1964 Civil Rights Act, and particularly to Title VI of the act which threatened school systems that refused to desegregate with court action and a cut-off of Federal funds.

A major concern of the publication is the questions left unanswered by Brown v. Board of Education, the 1954 Court ruling repudiating the "separate but equal" doctrine. For instance, the Commission recognizes that although the courts have not explicitly addressed themselves to the problem of "de facto" segregation, growing in the North and West, recent court opinions do provide a basis for challenging racial isolation wherever it exists. The publication points out that although school desegregation in districts outside the South may appear to result from purely accidental factors—de facto—"courts have found upon examination that Federal, State and local governments in a variety of forms—especially in affecting housing patterns—have been responsible for this existing school segregation."

"Understanding School Desegregation" argues that there are, in fact, few cases in which school segregation has resulted solely from "accidental" factors. It claims that actions of zoning boards, urban renewal agencies, and City Councils are often responsible for racial segregation. In the schools and cities, a Commission statement of April 1970 which concluded that "There is probably little legal substance to the concept of 'de facto' school segregation."

Recent court decisions holding governments responsible for the effects of their actions on the schools, "despite the absence of laws expressly requiring or sanctioning it," are pointed to with approval by the Commission.

St. Augites Take Part In Drug Program

Miss Phyllis Harden ("Miss Saint Augustine's College"), a senior from Norfolk, Va., and William T. Farrow, a senior from Danville, Va., participated in the state-wide TV Drug Information Project: The Turned On Crisis, on Feb. 1.

The TV Drug Program: The Turned On Crisis centers around fourteen hours of television programming to be seen in this area on WUNC-TV, Channel 4, from Feb. 1, to March 1, University of North Carolina Television will offer a nationally produced series on drug abuse. "The Turned On Crisis," Sunday and Monday evenings at 7 p.m.

Following the Monday evening telecast at 8 p.m. each Monday, North Carolina Citizens in the UNC-TV studios at Raleigh, Chapel Hill and Greensboro and via telephone will square off the drug issue in this state in live, spontaneous television programs. These programs will provide a means for North Carolinians to become aware of the drug crisis as a national and local concern, and to join with local organizations in search of solutions to drug problems.

Help him start the day right? Most men are grumpy when they wake up—so why add fuel to the fire? Make sure he feels a pretty sight—hair neatly combed, lips enlivened with a trace of lipstick, and soft skin he'll love to touch. And remember, this is the time of year that wind and weather team up with water and detergents to dry your skin. Do use special care preparations, like A and D Cream, to protect and restore its softness.

Entertain to do him proud? Treating his family and friends royally when they come to visit is a supreme compliment to him—and it's easier and less costly than you might imagine. Ampli portions of simple fare

Advertisement for Carolina Builders Corp. listing services like Building, Remodeling, Repairing, etc. and contact information.

Shaw's Academic Dean Named To Provost Post

The Shaw University Board of Trustees announced Thursday, Jan. 28, that Cleon F. Thompson had been unanimously appointed to the position of Provost at Shaw.

CLEON F. THOMPSON According to Dr. Paul Johnson, chairman of the Executive Committee of the University's

Mother Of POW, Held In Hanoi Will Testify Soon

DETROIT—Mrs. Virginia R. Warner, the mother of Captain James H. Warner, who has been held for more than three years as a prisoner of war in North Vietnam, stated last Thursday, that the Nixon Administration had used the prisoner of war families "to help gain support for the war." She told a press conference at The Veterans Memorial Hall, Freedom Shrine room, that she and her husband would both testify at the Winter Soldier Investigation, organized by Vietnam Veterans Against the War, in Detroit on Monday, Feb. 1.

Mrs. Warner called upon President Nixon to "set a date for the withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam." She said, "I am sure Jim (her son) is being treated just fine because his letters are great. If the American Government agreed to end the war, I know that Jim would come back to us safely. I wish the letter writing campaign were 'reversed,' I just wish everyone who wrote to Hanoi, would write to Washington now."

James H. Warner, now a Captain in the Marine Corps, was shot down over Vietnam on Oct. 13, 1967.

Mrs. Warner said, "The last thing in the world I want is any more bombing in the North" or, she concluded, "any more raids like the one at Song Tay." The Winter Soldier Investigation, an inquiry into U. S. war crimes "committed as the inexcusable result of national policy," according to the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, will take place at Howard Johnson's New Center Motor Lodge, Detroit, Michigan and will be open to the public.

HOW TO HANG ON TO A HUSBAND

How do you rate as a mate? Are you great—or are you a louse as a spouse? Though your best friends—including friend husband—may not want to tell you, you can arrive at a pretty accurate answer by quizzing yourself about the things you do and say.

Here are some questions to which you should be able to answer "I do." But do you? Spend his money wisely? Many a husband feels that one more "final sale" will be the last straw! Remember, a bargain is something you want and need, available at a lower-than-usual price, if it doesn't meet this test, it isn't a bargain. Remember, too, that there are times when the higher-priced of two items is the real buy, since costs more than earthenware, but a much less breakable.

Cook his favorite foods often? Even if he likes something you consider bad for him, he should be able to digest it once a week without dire effects. Besides, many low-calorie cookbooks offer non-fatening, nutritious ways to prepare old favorites.

Keep yourself energetic and even-tempered for him? He'll enjoy his leisure hours more if you are smiling and unfrazzled at the end of the day. No matter how hectic your schedule, make at least one hour of rejuvenating relaxation a part of it—either an afternoon nap or a feel-up-on-the-hessock "rest period."

Help him start the day right? Most men are grumpy when they wake up—so why add fuel to the fire? Make sure he feels a pretty sight—hair neatly combed, lips enlivened with a trace of lipstick, and soft skin he'll love to touch. And remember, this is the time of year that wind and weather team up with water and detergents to dry your skin. Do use special care preparations, like A and D Cream, to protect and restore its softness.

Entertain to do him proud? Treating his family and friends royally when they come to visit is a supreme compliment to him—and it's easier and less costly than you might imagine. Ampli portions of simple fare

Board of Trustees, Mr. Thompson will be responsible for the Academic and Administrative functions of the University—coordinating all five major areas at Shaw until Dr. J. Archie Hargraves, newly elected President assumes his full-time responsibilities in July of this year.

Dr. Hargraves appointment was effective Feb. 1, rather than July 1st as previously announced. The change took place after intensive sessions yesterday with Dr. Hargraves, Mr. Thompson and the University's Board of Trustees. However, Dr. Hargraves will not be able to assume full time duties until July 1st due to previous commitments.

Thompson, a 1956 graduate of North Carolina Central University at Durham, has earned the Master's Degree in both Biology from NCCU and Bacteriology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He joined the Shaw University team in 1964 as Associate Professor of Biology after serving on the academic faculty of North Carolina A&T University at Greensboro and Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Ala.

SCORES FROM IN CLOSE—St. Augustine's Collins Vincent scores from in close despite the defensive effort by James Valentine of Shaw. The Bears extended their winning streak to five games by turning back the Falcons, 94-87 last Saturday night in the Broughton High School Gymnasium.

him for what he was—or did you?

Tell him the good things that happened during the day? Avoid a long recital of the day's problems and woes—especially if there's little or nothing he can do about them. Chances are he's had a heck of a day too.

Try the same flattery you used before you married him? It worked then—why shouldn't it work now? Try it again—and really listen when your husband speaks. Both actions are good remedies for domestic headaches.

committed to research as a means to develop quality products and scientifically resolve the many unanswered questions that remain in controversy—a group of eminent tobacco chemists was told recently.

Rose R. Millhiser, Philip Morris U.S.A. President, made these comments before a group of several hundred scientists attending the 24th Tobacco Chemists' Research Conference in Montreal.

Addressing himself to Tobacco Industry critics, Millhiser illustrated the industry's commitment to research by pointing to the $6 million Philip Morris Research Tower, currently under construction in Richmond, which will double the Company's tobacco research capacity.

Millhiser appeared before the tobacco chemists' conference to present the Philip Morris award for distinguished achievement in tobacco science to Dr. Alexander Spears III. Dr. Spears is Director of Research and Development of Lorillard Corporation.

NEWS OF SCIENCE

Dr. Alexander White Spears, III accepts the Award for Distinguished Achievement in Tobacco Science from Rose R. Millhiser, President, Philip Morris U.S.A. More Research Planned "The Tobacco Industry is

Advertisement for ACME REALTY CO. listing Real Estate, Insurance, and contact information.

Advertisement for HAYWOOD FUNERAL HOME INC. listing services and contact information.

Advertisement for ESSO fuel products, listing services and contact information.

Advertisement for Eye Glasses, Contact Lenses, Hearing Aids, and Prescription Ridgeway.