MISS FUNDERBURKE

These 10 contestants were presented to an appreciative audience at Convention Center Friday night and gave the judges a lot of trouble trying to pick the queen. When all the scores were in, it was found that Miss Bonnie Jo Funderburke of Charlotte had been named the winner. This made history, in view of the fact that 1971 was the first time that a white girl had been listed as a contestant.

She was entered by Rameses Temple, No. 51, and gave the Queen City the winner for the second consecutive year. Miss Yvette Walker took the honors in 1970 and went on to Boston to win the national crown. The sponsors and the Shriners hope that Miss Funderburke can also top the 1971 contestants and leave Houston as the Na-

CRIME BEAT

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat Columns, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "Blotter" and you won't be in The Crime Beat.

Clayborne at 1:02 a.m. Monday of this week, that Ralph Lee Rogers, 52, 513 Alston Street, assaulted her at his residence by striking and cutting her with a bottle "when I refused to go to bed with him." The woman was taken to Wake Memorial Hospital for treatment of bruises on the left side of her head and a three inch cut on the upper left arm. Mr. Rogers was "hauled off" to Wake County Jail, charged with assault with a deadly weapon. He was placed under a bond of $500. (See CRIME BEAT, P. 2)
