A&T Holds Model Program For Ghettoites

GREENSBORO—An A&T State University summer program of activity and learning skills for 650 ghetto children from Greensboro is being pictured as a possible model for similar programs elsewhere in the nation.

of this kind in the state," said Dr. Roy D. Moore, director of the National Youth Summer Sports Program, "and we are considered one of the top programs in the country." Five afternoons per week, the energetic youngsters swarm on the A&T campus for an ambitious program of games, personal enrichment classes and various kinds of tests. Funded by nearly $50,000 in funds from the federal government, the Piedmont Triad Criminal Planning Agency, the City of Greensboro and the North Carolina Special Food Program, the project attracts busloads of children from Spring View, Morningside, Smith Homes, Hapton Homes and the Claremont Homes area. Our program has attracted attention because it is instructional in nature," said Moore, who also serves as chairman of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at A&T. "We instruct the kids in gymnastics, dance, swimming, track and field, basketball, tennis and football, but we also work with their parents." On Wednesdays and Thursdays, Moore and his staff meet with the parents in one of the recreation rooms at the housing projects.

"We talk with them about such things as developing family solidarity, effective food-buying practices and food preparation," said Moore. One of the highlights of the program at A&T is a full-course evening meal, served at the conclusion of the activity period in one of the campus cafeterias. In addition, the youngsters receive special classes in personal health, career goals and the benefits of staying in school. Although staff members are coaches and physical education majors, the program is assisted by social workers and other specialists. If things work out, Moore envisions an even larger program next year.

"One thing we are extremely happy about," he said, "is that the project is truly a community program. In order to transport the kids to and from the campus, we have been provided buses by Shiloh and St. James Baptist churches, the Hayes-Taylor YMCA and A&T." Last Friday, the youngsters were guests at the Pan African-U. S. International Track Meet in Durham.

GOLDEN TOUCH OF HOSPITALITY
BY JANE ASHLEY
Celebrate Summer With Plum Cobbler

Old fashioned cobbler is still one of the best desserts in which to use summer fruits. Italian plums are especially good for cobbler. In a proper plum cobbler, the sweet purple-red juices are thickened delicately with just the right amount of corn starch and the fruit is baked under a rich biscuit topping. The recipe may be adapted easily for making Peach Cobbler.

Plum Cobbler
Rich biscuit dough
3/4 to 1 cup sugar
1/4 cup corn starch
1/4 teaspoon salt
6 cups sliced Italian plums (about 3 pounds)
2 tablespoons margarine
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Mix together, sugar, corn starch and salt. Stir through plums and spoon into 1 (10 x 6 x 1 1/2-inch) baking pan. Dot with margarine and sprinkle with vanilla. Roll biscuit dough to 1/2-inch thickness and cut out a 10 x 6-inch rectangle to fit just inside dish. Cover over fruit. From remaining dough, cut decorative shapes and place on biscuit covering. Bake in a 425 degree F. (hot) oven until crust is well browned, about 25 minutes. Serve warm with or without cream.

For Peach Cobbler, follow recipe for Plum Cobbler, decreasing corn starch to 3 tablespoons.

Jackson St. On Drug Project

JACKSON, Miss.—How do we approach the problem of drug abuse in a drug oriented society? Jackson State College has been awarded a grant of $41,000.00 to conduct a Community-Oriented Drug Education Project College Based under the direction of Dr. Melvin I. Evans, head of the department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and Dr. William H. Brooks, director of the counseling center. The program will be divided into three phases: developmental, for the planning and development of a drug education program; operation, involving the college and its community; achievement and evaluation of the Project's goals. The drug problem in the State of Mississippi is becoming acute. In order to deal with it, one has to put the problem in proper perspective. Today's society is a drug oriented one. It is very complex and ambivalent in its basic orientation toward drugs. This Institute, through various activities and experiences hope to serve the useful function of bringing into prospective the drug dilemma. The Jackson State College Drug Abuse Institute will be conducted on the campus of Jackson State College.
