HENDERSON

HENDERSON NEWS

BY L. B. RUSSELL

HENDERSON - Mr. C. R. Frazier, general merchant on Spring Street spent the weekend in Greensboro and High Point. While there he visited his son, William, and sister, Georgiana Matthews and also his daughter. His visit, he says "was a delightful and a pleasure to be with his son and sister" in their home.

Mr. Lawrence Fuller and his wife, Betty, spent the weekend here visiting relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller are living in Brooklyn, N. Y. and were also on a business trip. They are natives of Henderson and Vance County. His many friends rejoiced to see them back.

This reporter worshipped last Sunday morning with the Mt. Moriah A.M.E. Zion Church of which the Rev. F. F. Booker is the pastor. In spite of the hot, sultry weather, the service was well attended. The music was rendered by the junior choir which sang with all the glee and melody that was in them. They were at their best and the spiritual atmosphere was shown among the congregation. The pastor delivered a very inspiring message from the 22nd chapter of St. Matthew, verse 42, "What think you of Christ?" He pointed out what Christ's worse enemies thought of Him and finally he said, "the enemies said He (Jesus) was innocent and Pilate said, I find no fault in Him. If His enemies could say He is just and innocent, what ought you who are his true friends think of Him?" Rev. Booker stated he will be leaving for two weeks on his vacation and the Rev. Morris Taylor will be in charge of the service until his return.

Seven children were present at the reunion, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The family message or sermon was delivered by the Rev. Sylvester Williams, pastor of the Mountain Spring Baptist Church. He based his sermon on what the Bible speaks about regarding the home and family from Ephesians 5:21. Rev. Williams commented on the four principal institutions which make up our society. First, the home, secondly, the church, thirdly, the school and fourthly, the state. Of these four institutions, the minister said the home was the most important because it is God's first institution. The Bible reveals the divine origin of the home. It contains the divine laws to protect it and guidelines for wholesome and creative family relationship. After the closing song, "God Be With You Until We Meet Again," and the benediction, the family adjourned and dined on the grounds of the church.

On July 11, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Brown of 1900 Julia Ave. left the Raleigh-Durham Airport enroute to Freeport, Grand Bahamas Island. There, they spent their vacation as the guests of Mr. Cedric A. Sweeting. The visit was superb as they found that the summer in the Bahamas is a different kind of summer. It's more than sunshine and beaches and golf courses and friendliness and moonlight and casinos. It's all the fun and laughter and excitement you have been looking for. Sightseeing tours included the Rand Memorial Nature Center, the International Bazaar, the native villages, beaches, sports and recreational facilities, shopping arcades, resort hotels, casinos, and beautiful residential sections and many industrial enterprises and other points of interest too numerous to mention. We worshipped at the Church of God, pastored by Rev. John Lewis. Mr. Cedric Sweeting spent the holidays here with the Brown family. They returned home on Saturday safely with lovely souvenirs and wonderful memories of their trip aboard.

Labor, HEW Combine On Job Safety

WASHINGTON - The Departments of Labor and HEW have moved to tighten their teamwork in administering the Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. The law has been in effect a little more than two months.

George C. Guenther, assistant Secretary of Labor for Occupational Safety and Health, and Dr. Marcus Key, director of the new National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health in HEW, announced the assignment of R. Denny Dobbin of the Institute to assist with coordination of the two departments' work in administering the Safety and Health Act.

Dobbin, an electrical engineer and industrial hygienist, is a commissioned officer in the U. S. Public Health Service. His activities will supplement those of Dr. Edgar Seagle, P. E., sanitary engineer director, USPHS, and special assistant to the director of the Institute, who will continue to serve as the principal liaison official between the departments.

Mr. Guenther and Dr. Key said Mr. Dobbin's assignment was made to help insure continued close coordination during the evolution of state-federal relationships in achieving the highest possible degree of safety and health environments in work places. The two departments have worked closely together during negotiation of interim agreements between the Federal government and 46 States on planning grants to those States.
