Pelvic Region Injured As Local

Man Shot In Hip

Following Ayden Protest March

More Than 100 Jailed

Shotgun Used To Shoot Man

A 55-year-old Raleigh man, with a local police record stretching over a 31-year span, was arrested last Sunday and charged with shooting a much younger man in the pelvic region of his hip, using a .12 gauge single barrel shotgun.

Police arrested John Wesley Barnes, 311 E. Worth Street, after 22-year-old Thomas Earl Wardwick, 313 E. Worth Street, suffered wounds in his lower body.

Officer C. Troublefield, who answered the call at 12:32 p.m. that day, was informed by Wardwick that he and "a subject named John Wesley Barnes got into an argument" over Wardwick's billfold.

Wardwick told "the law" that Barnes stole his wallet and all of his money. Barnes, however, stated he knew nothing about it.

As the argument intensified, Wardwick declared, Barnes grabbed a .22 gauge shotgun and "shot me in the pelvic region of my body."

Mr. Barnes was arrested and placed in Wake County Jail. Wardwick was treated and admitted to Wake Memorial Hospital.

Witnesses to the one-sided shootout were listed as Miss Christel Bobbitt, 736 Ellington Street, and Miss Minnie Martin, 315 E. Worth Street.

Barnes was scheduled to face a judge in Wake District Court whenever Mr. Wardwick is able to appear in court to offer his testimony.

Priorities Of Finance Criticized

Say Blacks Turning To Israel Aid

NEW YORK, N.Y. -- A black cooperative movement in the U. S. South, convinced that the co-op system is a means of "bolstering the black self-image" and "stemming the exodus to overcrowded northern cities," has turned to Israel for training and technical aid.

The story of the unique exchange of visits and expertise was told in a pamphlet reprinted this week by the American Jewish Congress from an article in Tuesday magazine.

It described how leaders of rural southern cooperatives went to Israel, a country which knows about "integrating the poor, unskilled and uneducated into a community -- upgrading individuals' skills and making them and a long-neglected land

Family Is Strong, Says NC Expert

Over the years, sociologists, psychologists and Federal statistical agencies have consistently claimed that the Black family is seriously deteriorating. But a local citizen and a national Urban League report refute these claims.

Wild-Horse Economy Cited By Minister

NEW ORLEANS, La. -- The Rev. Leon H. Sullivan, black founder and organizer of Opportunities Industrialization Centers (OIC) throughout the United States, in support of the current wage-price freeze, said here Monday that "such a move was necessary to halt a 'wild-horse' economy."

The Rev. Mr. Sullivan, a resident of Philadelphia, Pa., made the comments at a press conference before addressing the 72nd annual Grand Lodge convention of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World (IBPOEW) at the Fairmont Roosevelt Hotel.

"President Nixon's price-wage action was a good move," he said. "We had a runaway economy and had to put reins on it or we would have gone over the cliff."

Criticizing George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, for opposing the move, the Rev. Mr. Sullivan said "Meany's unions have been hurting black people for years keeping them off of building trades jobs and other jobs with segregated racist discrimination."

In ceremonies at the convention, the Rev. Mr. Sullivan was presented the IBPOEW's highest award the "Lovejoy Award," which is presented to the individual whom the order feels has contributed "to the progress of people regardless of race, creed, or color in human rights and better relationship."

Past recipients of the award are President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, U. S. Associate Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall, and the late National Urban League director Whitney Young.

US Elks Took Over N. Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. -- This glamorous town, with its exotic flare and reputation, boasts of its Mardi Gras and gayety, but the inhabitants, from the governor of the state to the revelers of Bourbon Street, will tell you that the members of the Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks put on a show here, from August 21 to August 27, that will be hard to beat.

Hobson R. Reynolds and his advance guard moved into the Fairmont Roosevelt Hotel early and by Friday morning every room was taken and many of the delegates and well wishers were napping on their luggage in the lobby of that ancient hostelry. The management was being ridiculed, taunted and cursed about failing to honor reservations. The management stood its ground, battling with the largest group of black guests its ever had and in some instances gave the potential guests just about as much as they could stand, from telling them they could

Gov. McKeithen, in brief remarks, told his audience he was proud that New Orleans had been chosen as the convention city by the Elks order.

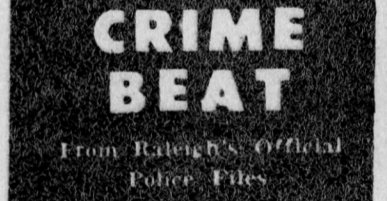

"I have heard it rightfully said that it is hard to be a Negro in America," Gov. McKeithen said. "But I tell you it is just as hard to be a poor white, but we do have hope and the power to express our desires by that great power -- the vote."

The Rev. Mr. Sullivan, in his convention speech, said that there must be planning by the black man for the future. "Nothing works for long without a plan," he said.

"Black men everywhere want the world to know that no longer will we be satisfied with things as they have been, and that we will not be satisfied with anything less than full equal opportunity, equal recognition and equal rights."

The plan according to the Rev. Mr. Sullivan must call for the "strongest possible emphasis on education. The key of opportunity in the future will be education."

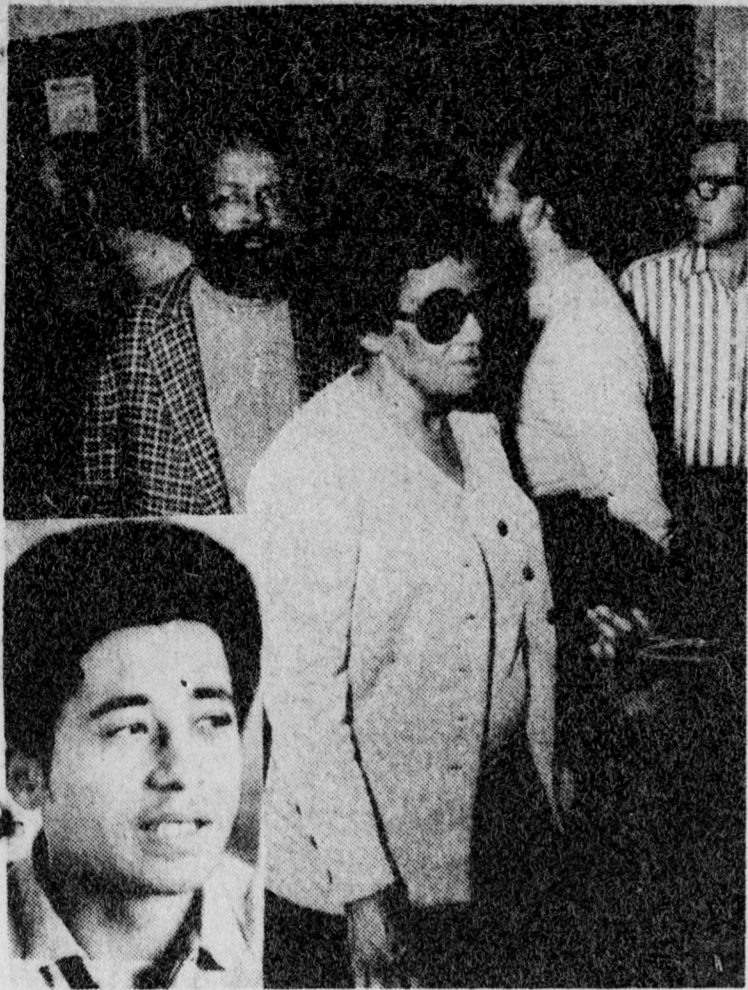

Dr. R. Irving Boone, Elizabeth City State University, Elizabeth City, N. C., and pastor of the First Baptist Church, A-hoskie, N. C., shared Grand Lodge honors. Dr. Boone was appointed Grand Chaplain, by Hobson Reynolds, to furnish the religious guidance for the largest fraternal body in the world.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat Columns, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "blotter" and you won't be in The Crime Beat.

INQUIRING REPORTER THEY SAY BY CURETON LEE JOHNSON

Students are pouring into Raleigh's two predominantly Black colleges and the freshmen, "green," but unabashed, were the first to arrive. QUESTION: Having four years of college before you, what do you expect most out of the experience and why did you choose to come here? (Shaw or Saint Augustine's)

John Kirby Philadelphia, Pa. Shaw University

"I'm looking for education and excitement. I had offers to go to Temple or Shaw, but I didn't want to stay in Philly, around home. So far, it seems pretty hip here and a new place ought to prove to be exciting."

Beverly Bailey Henderson, N.C. Saint Augustine's College

"I figured I had to go to college in order to get a job I really liked, rather than work just to be working. I didn't come looking for a husband, but I would like to eventually get married and have a family. I could have gone to South Carolina State, but that was too close to home, so I came here to meet new people."

Tom Brown Harrisburg, Pa. Shaw University

"To 'get over.' I came to get over, cause everybody knows that the Black man is doomed without a quality education, and that's what I want. Education is what's happening. I applied to several white institutions, but they tried to "shuck and jive" with me. I wanted to be around my people, so I came here to a Black school. Here you don't have to put on a front. By the way, I play football and I'm the Black Dick Bucks (at Shaw University)."

Loretta Jackson Hartsville, S.C. Saint Augustine's College

"I figured I had to go to college in order to get a job I really liked, rather than work just to be working. I didn't come looking for a husband, but I would like to eventually get married and have a family. I could have gone to South Carolina State, but that was too close to home, so I came here to meet new people."

"I'd never been down South and I figured it would be nice to get away from the Mid-west and North. I'll be working hard in school, but I've also taken notice of all these "phat" hammers. (See THEY SAY, P. 2)
