

Two Young Raleigh Natives Die On The Same Day

RONALD R. WALLACE

R. Wallace Dies On Grid Field

BY CHARLES R. JONES

Tears flowed freely down the cheeks of young Rev. David L. Morrison, pastor of the Saint Matthew A.M.E. Church, 805 E. Davis Street, as he eulogized his friend, faithful church worker and honor student, Ronald Ray Wallace, who died last Wednesday on the athletic field at Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte at the tender age of 19.

The services were Sunday at 2 p.m. The congregation was moved by the fervent message delivered by Rev. Morrison, who died.

Children May Benefit From Ruling

BY DR. JAMES E. ALSBROOK
A recent decision by the California Supreme Court could become national policy and drastically improve the quality of education for black children throughout the nation.

The high court of the Golden State has decided by a six-to-one vote that the "equal protection" provisions of the 14th Amendment are violated when school children in different districts do not have equal educational opportunities.

This new-found violation of the 14th Amendment, the court said, was a result of the present system of financing public education. Schools in most communities are financed through local property taxes with supplementary funds coming from the state.

When some communities are poor and others are wealthy, the court found, the amount of money spent per pupil varies up to 50 per cent. The difference in available funds is

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat columns, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "Blotter" and you won't be in The Crime Beat.

ASSAULTED BY SON
Mrs. Lucy McClain, 60, 9 Saint Augustine's Avenue, told Officer D. W. Martin at 3:10 a.m. Saturday, that she is the mother of Angelo McClain, 32, same address, and said that on that date at about 3 a.m., he assaulted her by striking her in the side with his fist. She said he also knocked her to the ground in front of her house, causing her left side to be scratched and bruised. She further stated that her son "had been drinking all day." She signed an assault and battery warrant and Angelo was "hauled off" to Wake County Jail on an assault and battery rap.

Feltonville To Get Water

Group Receives 67Gs

Wake Area Gets Loan And Grant

BY EARL MASON

Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, the weather outside the Wake County Courthouse was beautiful. The sun was shining and the temperature was in the seventies. The chance of rain was nowhere in sight.

But on the seventh floor in the office of Clifton L. Wood-Heff, the county supervisor for Farmers Home Administration, the "sound of water" could be heard, not from rain falling on the outside, but in the minds of the representatives from the Feltonville community.

James T. Johnson, state director for FHA, presented two checks to James Laster, president of the Feltonville Community Organization, totaling $67,000. This money will be used to get running water for the predominantly Black community.

One of the checks was a grant from FHA of $30,000, and the other check was a loan of $37,000 from the same organization. With this money, the engineers and other people responsible for establishing the water system in Feltonville can go ahead and institute the new water system, which will be hooked on to Holly Springs.

According to one of the engineers attending the presentation ceremonies Tuesday, Feltonville should have running water within six months.

For the people of this 90% black populated community, running water will be the fulfillment of a dream started in 1968. At this time, the community organized as a non-profit organization. One of the main projects for the Feltonville Community Organization since its organization was seeing a running water system put into effect in the community.

Need Action To End Unrest, Says NAACP

NEW YORK - A Special Committee on Campus Troubles, created July, 1970, by the National Board of Directors of the NAACP, released its report today.

Prepared through seven months of hard work, the booklet entitled "College and the Black Student," speaks directly to the needs and problems of the campus.

"Before the next round of disorders erupts, self-analysis and corrective action could remove racism from the list of causes for these campus troubles," NAACP Executive Director Roy CHECKS PRESENTED-James T. Thomas, state director of Farmers Home Administration, presents one of two checks to James A. Laster, president of the Feltonville Community Organization, while Mrs. Ada Farrar, secretary of the organization, looks on Tuesday morning at the Wake County Courthouse. This check, along with another check, totaling $67,000, will be used by the residents of the Feltonville community to install a running water system.

Justice In Dixie White, Says Expert

WASHINGTON, D. C. - A noted southern legal authority today charged that "from top to bottom, Southern justice is white" but that the South shows more promise than any other region "in realizing legal justice for blacks."

In a copyrighted article in the current (Oct.) issue of Ebony magazine, Dr. Kenneth S. Tollett declared, "From jurors to lawyers, from prosecutors, constables and sheriffs to judges, from councilmen and mayors to state officials and legislators, there has been grossly inadequate participation by blacks in the machinery of justice in the country as a whole, but especially in the South."

Painting a grim picture of the situation today, however, is Dr. Tollett, who has just assumed the post of lecturer in constitutional law and distinguished professor of higher education at Howard University, in Washington.

Inmate Sues To Prevent Interference

TEXARKANA, Tex. - A black inmate has sued to stop officials at the federal prison here from interfering with his mail, reading matter, and visitors.

Walter Collins charges that Warden L.M. Connett and William C. Storm, supervisor of education at the prison, have kept him from getting certain books. He says they told him he had "already received too many books."

Collins also says that he has been barred from mailing certain letters on the ground that they are "undesirable." The prisoner, who is a draft resister, has been getting mail from all over the United States and has been trying to send replies.

E. Carson Challenges Right Of S. Mitchell

At the beginning of the session of the Raleigh Citizens Association Thursday night, September 16, the meeting was stymied when Edward Carson refused to recognize Attorney Samuel Mitchell, who moved to suspend the agenda, and permit the body to make its own agenda.

Mr. Carson insisted that Mr. Mitchell was out of order. Then Mr. Mitchell appealed for a ruling from the chair. After a reading from "Robert's Rules of Order" by Mr. Harold Webb, Councilman Clarence Lightner persuaded the president to vacate the chair.

J.J. Sansom presided and untangled the business. The body voted to hear the report of the executive committee and to proceed with the agenda planned by the executive committee.

Since there had been a statement in the newspapers that the executive committee had voted not to support the bond issue, members of the executive committee corrected this statement. The president also denied telling the reporters that the committee had voted any such statement.

At this point, a motion was passed to go into executive session. Mrs. Margaret Hinton, member of the Wake County Opportunities, Inc. gave the background of a problem concerning the transfer of the NYC program to the City of Raleigh. Mrs. Hinton reported that a representative from the Labor Department had visited Raleigh, and said that the NYC program was being placed under Wake Opportunities. Why the board members and Wake Opportunities were not advised about the transfer to the city was a mystery.

Ralph Campbell designated by Mrs. Allen, also gave a background of the matter. The body disturbed by the report and the history of poor hiring policies of Blacks by the city

Families Of Poor Not Aided

NEW YORK, N.Y. - School administrators, the Board of Education and agencies which distribute Federal funds to local school systems have failed to involve poor children and their families as they planned, developed and implemented programs with funds available under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, the National Urban League declared today in a new manual "Parent Power and Title I ESEA."

Under Title I, well over a billion dollars has been provided each year since enactment of the bill for educational programs for educationally disadvantaged children of low income families.

During its first five years, millions of dollars have been misused and millions more have been used for programs that

INQUIRING REPORTER THEY SAY BY STAFF WRITER

Do you think the election of the Raleigh City Council should be changed to the ward system rather than the present open system? Why?

Mrs. Janet Marchena
"I think the city council should be elected according to the ward system, because this will give every community better representation on the council. A person elected from a certain area will have more interest in the conditions in that area rather than a person elected from anywhere in the city. A person elected from a certain ward would be more aware and have a deeper concern about his area, because he lives in the ward himself."

C.E. Brown
"I think the ward system should be adopted because I believe this will give Blacks or minorities more power in electing officials to the city government."
Bobby Keith
"I think the ward system should be adopted because I believe every section should be represented. Everybody should have the right to vote for who they want to but the ward system will give everybody representation in the city government."

Oscar Smith, Jr.
"If the ward system is going to be the true ward system, then I think this is the greatest democratic system in the world especially as far as Blacks are concerned. In a

MISS PATRICIA MARSHALL

P. Marshall Studying For Ph. D

Miss Patricia Yvonne Marshall, 25, 936 E. Hargett Street, was a native of Wake County. She died on Wednesday, September 15, at Wake Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Martin Street Baptist Church, conducted by her pastor, the Rev. Dr. Paul H. Johnson. Interment was in Carolina Biblical Gardens.

She was the daughter of Mrs. Nora H. Marshall, and the late James Marshall, who preceded her in death.

Miss Marshall attended the Raleigh Public Schools, and was a graduate of John W. Ligon High School. After graduating from high school, she enrolled at St. Augustine's College in 1963 and was a 1967 Cum Laude (honor) graduate of that institution, majoring in Sociology. She furthered her education at Penn State University in Pennsylvania, 1967-'68, where she received a master's degree in sociology. Later, she enrolled at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J. to work toward a Ph.D. degree and did part-time work as an instructor.

In 1970, she was employed at Winston-Salem State University, as a Sociology instructor, until her illness, in February.
