

DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW

DEAR SALLY: After eight months of what I had considered a wonderfully happy marriage, I have just found out that my husband regularly drives two of the girls in his office home from work. I knew that he did this before we were married, but assumed he had discontinued it afterward. The fact that these girls live on the way home has nothing to do with it, because I think it's still improper for him to be seen in public with other women. Should I have this out with him? SHOCK.

DEAR SHOCK: Chew on him about this, and I'll bet you'll really upset that "wonderfully happy marriage!" What a silly, misguided person you sound! There's nothing in the world wrong with giving fellow workers (either sex) a ride if they live on the way.

DEAR SALLY: I'm a guy of 20, in love with a girl of 18, who has always given me to believe she loves me, too—until just recently. I'm working my way through college and so my spending money is very limited. The best I can do is take my girl to a movie now and then. This formerly was all right with her, she said—but now she's beginning to complain about the dullness of our dates and that she's getting fed up on not going anywhere gay and amusing. So, what do you think about this? THIN WALLET.

DEAR THIN: If your girl's love were for real, how could she ever find a date with you dull—whether at the movies, in a gay spot, or just plain being with you? From all appearances, her love has cooled simply because you are unable to entertain her in the manner to which she would like to be accustomed. A "love" like this isn't worth trying to hang on to.

DEAR SALLY: I'm 23 and married to a man 18 years older than I. He was a widower, is a very wonderful man, and I love him dearly. However, his son, who is the same age as I am, was recently transferred by his company to our town and is now living with us. The thing is, he and I have fallen hard for each other—something we were unable to prevent. Neither of us wants to hurt my husband, but we must do something about this. Believe it or not, I still love my husband very much, but I love his son, too. What in the world can we do about this sorry situation? TORN BETWEEN.

DEAR TORN: The young man, if he has any regard at all for his father, should pack up and move out. "Out of sight, out of mind"...and you're out of yours if you permit this to go on any longer!

DEAR SALLY: I'm in bed with my parents. Last weekend I had a dozen girls in for a slumber party, and we were popping corn, listening to records, and gabbing, when about 10 o'clock three cars of fellows arrived. We were all in our pajamas, but thought it was all right to let them in. Then when my parents arrived home at about 11, they hit the ceiling. Now I'm not allowed to go out for a month. Do you think this is fair? GROUNDED.

DEAR GROUNDED: You, as the hostess of the party, should have met the boys at the door with, "Sorry, fellows, but this party is strictly for us chickens goodbye." And yes, your parent's treatment is fair.

SOLVE-A-CRIME

BY A. C. GORDON

You Are The Detective

As you enter the office of Michael Murray, sprawled back in the huge leather-upholstered swivel chair behind the desk facing you is the body of the wealthy attorney. On the edge of the desk nearest you lies a .38 gun. After glancing at this, you circle to your right around the desk, look at the bullet wound in the victim's temple then your eye travels to the arm hanging stiffly down over the side of the chair encased from the elbow down in a huge plaster cast.

"Mike broke his arm last week... thrown from the saddle by one of those spirited horses he breeds," volunteers Clay Morrison, junior member of the law firm, who phoned you of the tragedy twenty minutes previously and who is now setting nervously in one corner of the office. "A terrible, terrible thing, this I was busy in my office when I heard the sound of the shot. I rushed in here and found Mike... dead! I just can't understand why he..."

You break in at this point. "Have you touched or moved anything at all since this happened?"

"No... only the phone when called you."

You begin an examination of Murray's desk top and immediately find the typewritten letter: "Sorry. Life holds nothing more for me. Living isn't worth anything at all without you, Katherine."

"Who is Katherine?" you ask Morrison.

"Mike's wife... or rather I should say his estranged wife. She walked out on him a week or so ago. Maybe that's the reason for his having done away with himself. I know he was very depressed since the breakup—but still I had no intimation that he was even thinking of such a thing as this!"

"As a matter of fact," you then say, "I'm sure Murray did not kill himself, but was murdered—and I'm sure you know much more about this than you have told me!"

What has led you to this conclusion?

SOLUTION
In the first place, the gun lying on the edge of the desk nearest you and farthest from the victim. He would hardly have shot himself and then placed the gun where you found it. In the second place, and most conclusive, the man was shot in the LEFT temple—but his LEFT arm was encased in a plaster cast!

The Veteran's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: Below are authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to some of the many current questions from former servicemen and their families. Further information on veterans benefits may be obtained at any VA office or your local veterans service organization representative.

Q - The savings and loan institution which gave me my GI home loan notified me recently that the interest rate on my balance would be raised because of the rising cost of money. Is this legal?

A - No. Veterans Administration regulations do not permit interest rates to be increased above the contract rate agreed upon at the time the loan was made.

Q - In 1967, while in service, I injured a leg while on approved leave, and lost it above the knee. Even though the accident was adjudged in line of duty, I was denied the $2,800 grant toward the cost of a car. Why?

A - The automobile grant is available to veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict discharged under other than dishonorable conditions, even if the disability is not incurred in performance of duty. For veterans with qualifying disabilities incurred after January 31, 1955, however, the disability must have resulted directly from performance of active duty, unless application for the grant is filed before release from active duty.

Q - I understand that the Veterans Administration, among other Federal Agencies, is giving priority in consideration for jobs to returning Vietnam veterans. Is this true?

A - Yes. During May, VA hired 1,000 Vietnam Era veterans under the Veterans Readjustment Appointment Authority. This brought to 2,330 the number of Vietnam Era veterans employed by VA under this special program. As of July, 6,400 Vietnam Era veterans were on VA rolls, including the 2,330 in the VRA program.

Computers are used to speed and improve hospital planning in the Veterans Administration nationwide hospital system.

Photo Class Will Begin October 14

Photo classes will be offered by the Raleigh Parks and Recreation Department starting October 14 at the Army on Pullen Road. The evening classes will begin at 7 p.m., and last for 1 1/2 hours. If there are enough people to begin a second class, it will start at 8:45 p.m. The fee for the course is $10.00 with a $3.00 charge for materials. Each course is six weeks long.

The first course is basic photography-giving the students a background on the use of the camera, lights, composition, and film. The other courses that will follow will be film and print processing, color photography, movie making, titling, and creative photography.

For further information, please call the Raleigh Parks and Recreation Department at 755-6640.

SHOW SOLIDARITY AT PRESS CONFERENCE—Wilmington: Ben Chavis (r), of the N. C. Committee on Racial and Social Justice, and Roderick Kirby (l), show their solidarity at a press conference here Saturday in the wake of Wilmington racial incidents late Friday night. Kirby alleges that he was beaten unreasonably by police Friday night when they attempted to arrest him for disorderly conduct. (UPI).

Beat the bland bread habit with Cheddar Nut Bread. Sharp Cheddar cheese melts through the nut-studded dough as it bakes. This no-knead quick bread is made tender and moist with velvety evaporated milk. Your family will love the change.

CHEDDAR NUT BREAD
(Makes 1 loaf)

1 slightly beaten egg
1 cup undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon salt

3/4 cups buttermilk biscuit mix
1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Combine egg, evaporated milk, water, salt, biscuit mix, cheese and nuts. Mix vigorously 30 seconds or until blended. Spoon into buttered 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 55-60 minutes. Cool. Serve warm or cold.
