Bleeding

A young Raleigh man came home at about 12:15 a.m. Sunday and discovered that his 20-year-old wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Robinson, had been severely beaten about the head and face by a man, who, at first, was standing in the same room, but who later "split the scene" on foot.

Thomas (Tom) Robinson, the husband, reported to Officer A. C. Holt, Jr., at 1:01 a.m., that when he came home, both of the doors were locked at his apartment, 19 Nash Terrace, so he entered the house by way of a window.

Once inside, Mr. Robinson stated, "I went upstairs, where I found my wife lying on the floor, bleeding, and a man (See FINDS WIFE, P. 2)

Jackson Appointed By MLK-Expo Is Cited

The fate of the late Dr. Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference is being weighed by many, due to the walkout of the Rev. Jesse Jackson and the entire staff of "Operation Breadbasket."

Many observers have watched developments very closely since Jackson began coming to the fore so rapidly.

It is to be remembered that Jackson is the father of non-violent action as it relates to the present generation. The movement started when he and a group of A & T College students decided to stage the first sit-down in the city of Greensboro. The movement gained momentum and it was not long before it had spread all over much of the United States.

Upon graduation from the North Carolina school, Jackson went to New York to further his education by taking courses at Chicago University. When Martin Luther King decided to put some new flavor in his program, he tapped the young budding leader and put him in charge of "Operation Breadbasket." It is to be remembered that Jackson was with King on that "Dark Day" in Memphis when King met his death. There were many who thought that Jackson should have been given King's mantle at that time.

Abernathy is said to have gone along with Jackson with far less enthusiasm than that given him by King. The break is said to have come when Abernathy is alleged to have suspended Jackson for his participation in the successful promotion of the "1971 Black Expo" in Chicago, last September. Speculation was rife that Abernathy was peeved over the overall promotion and the handling of the huge profit that is said to have been made.

The venture drew large crowds and attracted business executives, manufacturing firms, stage and screen stars and leading politicians. Even though Jackson had bucked the "Daley Machine" and tried to run as an independent candidate for mayor, the exposition had the approval of Daley. (See REV. JACKSON, P. 2)

Hooker, Servance Concerned

At least two Raleigh Black Cab owners have said they will file suit against officials of the Raleigh - Durham Airport if they cannot obtain satisfactory answers as to why no cabs other than the Yellow Cab Company are able to pick up passengers from the port.

Abram Servance, owner of the Independent Cab Company and Daniel Hooker, owner of the United Cab Company, told THE CAROLINIAN this week that they have made several attempts to get an appointment with Henry Boyd, manager at the airport, but every try has been unsuccessful.

One of the last attempts to get a chance to talk to Boyd was made Saturday, when Servance sent a telegram to Boyd and asked him to respond. However, as of Wednesday, Servance has not heard from Boyd. (See CAB OWNERS, P. 2)

Community In County Gets Water

Impressive dedication ceremonies held last Sunday afternoon in the Felton Grove Church for the newly installed water system in the Feltonville community, marked the realization of a dream come true for the 90 families who will use the water system. Feltonville is a predominately Black community, located almost three miles from Apex on highway 55 between Apex and Holly Springs.

Special guest speakers, visiting guests and friends of the surrounding area made the community one of the most highly lighted areas of the event. (See GETS WATER, P. 2)

Scholar Is Dead At 67 In NY

NEW YORK - Dr. Ralph Johnson Bunche, 67, who died last Thursday, was given last rites on Saturday in New York City. His life was one of the most illustrious ever accepted by a predominantly white society in this century.

In 1945, while in San Francisco when the United Nations began, for the next 25 years nothing short of very serious illness kept him away from the quest by the UN for world peace.

"I very much doubt if there is any better way to serve humanity, one's country and the community," Bunche said in 1952 while turning his back on attempts to get him to run for the U. S. Senate.

Bunche died Thursday, two days after he entered New York Hospital.

The 1950 Negro Nobel Peace Prize winner had been in and out of hospitals for several years, suffering from kidney malfunctions, diabetes, heart trouble and near blindness. It was these illnesses that forced him to retire in June as U. N. Undersecretary.

The family announced tentative plans for a funeral service at noon Saturday at Riverside Church. Bunche's body reposed at the Campbell Funeral Home.

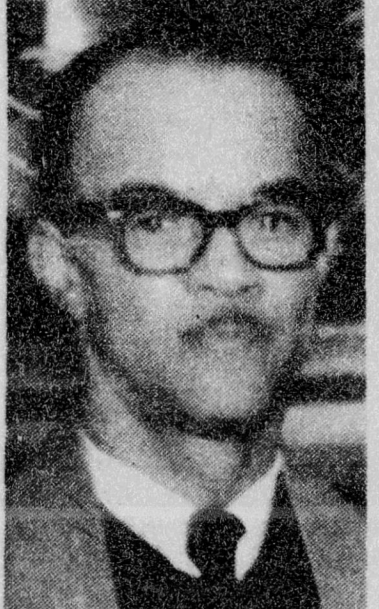

"Dr. Bunche never relented in his persistence to advance the cause of brotherhood and cooperation among men and nations," President Nixon said in Washington. "America is deeply proud of this distinguished son and profoundly saddened by his death."

Secretary General Thant announced the death of Bunche to the U. N. General Assembly saying, "I myself have lost an incomparable friend and colleague. Ralph Bunche was an international institution in his

Mrs. Alfreda Stewart First Black Appointed By Demos To NC Assembly

With both major parties trying to build better images in the black community, a new black party said to be emerging and George Wallace looming more and more as a presidential candidate, things are happening.

With both major parties trying to build better images in the black community, a new black party said to be emerging and George Wallace looming more and more as a presidential candidate, things are happening.

The biggest boost to the Democratic cause was the announcement by the Guilford County Democratic Executive Committee that Mrs. Alfreda Stewart, one of its vice presidents, had been recommended to become the first black woman to sit in the General Assembly. She was selected by the committee to fill the spot made vacant by "Skipper" Bowles deciding to run for governor.

In Charlotte, where Dr. Reginald Hawkins has decided to make his second bid for the state's highest office, Fred D. Alexander, mayor-pro-tem, and believed to be the best vote-getter in the city, has shown an interest in running for the senate.

On the Republican side, the Black Caucus, headed by D.D. Pollock, a Winston-Layman, is planning a meeting at the Ramada Inn, Greensboro, 11:00 a.m., Saturday. It is expected to discuss the naming of a black, by recently-elected chairman, Frank Rouse, to head a minorities division. The meeting will also explore the possibility of fielding candidates in the most formidable counties, for the 1972 election.

Quite a few black representatives attended a meeting of the Concerned Afro-American Republicans in Washington recently and report that they will join with the national organization.

The sixteen parents in the initial program--all below the federal poverty level--are being given both classroom and in service training and will receive stipends from a grant given St. Augustine's by the Campaign for Human Development.

The grant is one of more than 188 awarded so far this year by the Campaign, a massive effort by American Catholics to strike at the roots of poverty in this nation.

Sister Genevieve Brown, director of the program, said the parents--eight Blacks and eight Puerto Ricans--have been "a great help in the classroom because they know the children and their home conditions and they understand them so well."

Parent-teachers who come from the community have a special rapport with the children based on their common background. (See CENTER IS, P. 2)

Golden Frinks Given Two Jail Sentences

WILMINGTON - Things are happening so fast in this port city until local persons are perhaps at a loss to determine what will happen next. The sentencing of Golden Frinks to two prison terms by a local judge Monday for incidents attendant to civil unrest this summer, the sentencing of a teenage girl, in connection with the same incidents and the arrest of a black youth for the shooting of another black youth, are being eyed with much concern.

The shooting of the youth last summer is said to have been the cause of the unrest. It happened, according to reliable information when a rapa at front door of a local home resulted in a shot being fired shortly after the door opened and one youth was mortally wounded. Investigating officers have worked relentlessly, due to the fact that it was thought the death was the result of racial unrest.

The two prison terms, meted out here, coupled with the arrest of Ben Chavis, on conspiracy charges, growing out of the Oxford unrest, in Raleigh Friday, and the calling of a grand jury, in Pitt County to probe the death of an alleged black laborer, by a highway patrolman, have had a tendency to cause much concern among blacks. The trial of the more than 100 persons arrested in Pitt County is being watched with interest. It had been hoped that race relations in the eastern part of the state had improved and that the people in that area could look forward to a new life of brotherhood and understanding.

Three Men To Analyze White Racism

Three noted black intellectuals--a Harvard professor of psychology, a magazine editor, and an activist poet--will analyze white racism in terms of culture, colonialism, and psychological development on Tuesday, December 21, at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 4. (See TO ANALYZE, P. 2)

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat Column, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "Blotter" and you won't be in the Crime Beat.

MAN "PUSHED AROUND"
Allen Carl Sealey, 55-year-old white resident of 2505 S. Saunders Street, told Officer J.D. Potter at 12:57 p.m. Wednesday, that he was in his shop (kind, not related), when two men came in and asked for wire. The man said he told them that he didn't have any wire. "They began to talk ugly and push me around," stated Sealey. The two men, James Mitchell Bialock and Walter Larry Williams, were arrested for assault and public intoxication. Sealey, who suffered no injuries, signed warrants and the two men were jailed. (See CRIME BEAT, P. 2)

MAINE SENATOR CHATS WITH GEORGIA LEGISLATOR - Atlanta: Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, (L), confers with State Senator Horace Ward of Georgia during his visit here December 11. Muskie, a leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, told a group of Georgia Democrats earlier, that the South will play a crucial role in the presidential election next year.
