

Dr. Dorothy S. Williams Is Livingstone College Speaker

SALISBURY--Knowledge and action are what it will take for us to survive both our physical and social environments.

So said Dr. Dorothy S. Williams, director of the program development division in the Office of Community Planning and Management of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development appearing at Livingstone College last week as consultant for a workshop on Ecology of Human Relationships.

The workshop, sponsored by the Six Institutions' Consortium which also includes Barber-Scottia, Bennett, Saint Augustine's, Shaw, and Winston-Salem State, focused on the social, psychological, physical and ecological effects of human relationships and the meaning and significance of relationships on the parameters of life.

Dr. Williams pointed out the many problems which beset man in relation to his total environment and urged action born of knowledge to deal with these problems.

"Which is more important, knowledge or action?" she asked. She answered, "One cannot function fully without the other. Both are necessary." "Civilization is like a jungle," she said. "Thus, we must take time to cultivate it so that all the plants have a chance for survival. And we can apply this concept to the human environment."

Dr. Williams expressed concern about the waste of human resources throughout the world.

"I can understand why there is not the perceptual awareness in human relationships. We are separated in space and in contact."

She noted, also, that society is polluted with prejudices of many kinds which tend to keep people apart.

"I watched a spider one day weaving its web -- the intricate patterns and designs -- and wondered why man can't design a similar pattern for his relationships to mankind. This is what the ecologist means when he speaks of the web of life." She asserted that nature is built upon interdependence and interrelationships, applying both to the physical environment and the social environment.

"Our dependency and our survival does not say that nature must obey us, but our dependency and our survival say that we must obey nature," she said, adding, "We must develop a democratic tolerance for people and property. We need to understand that in order to develop the right kind of environment, we must transcend any type of divisiveness that exists. We are in this thing together."

A native of Reidsville, Dr. Williams was graduated cum laude in 1944 from Livingstone College. Two years later, she took a master of arts degree from Atlanta University and, in 1961, she received the degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Southern California.

"Miss Black Teenage America" Honorary Sickle Cell Chairman

NEW YORK, N.Y. - "Miss Black Teenage America," 19-71, June Kelly of Ft. Worth, Texas, is Honorary Youth Chairman for the National Sickle Cell Disease Research Foundation, Inc. as announced by Mrs. Iris Pettiford Cox, Chairman of the Board of Directors.

Said Mrs. Cox, "Miss Black Teenage America as a positive representative for today's youth will be a valuable asset to the Foundation in helping make young people aware of this crippling disease which so affects the young."

During Miss Kelly's travels for the year of her reign, she will urge young people to get tested for sickle cell and to volunteer their services to the local chapters of the National Sickle Cell Disease Research

Foundation, Inc. June recently returned from Hollywood, California where she filmed her prize winning role in the ABC TV series "ROOM 222" for a future air date, and was a guest at the Beverly Hills-Hollywood Chapter of the NAACP Image Awards Dinner. She was also a guest singer on the Billy Graham Crusade, a national pre-

Michael Jackson's "Got To Be There," Gets There: Now No. One Record

HOLLYWOOD - Michael Jackson's single recording of "Got To Be There" is the number one record in the nation this week, according to Cashbox Magazine's top 100 chart.

Michael's first solo recording performance, "Got To Be There," moved to Cashbox's number one chart position after being on the market for six short weeks.

"Got To Be There," already has earned Michael his first individual gold record and since it is rapidly approaching the two million sales mark, it is anticipated that the "Gold" will soon turn to Platinum.

Michael's first solo recording "Got To Be There," also precedes his first Motown Album which will have the same title and be released in early January.

Michael's solo recordings will in no way affect his continued role as lead singer of the fabulous Jackson 5, conversely, says Motown executives, Michael's new solo role further enhanced the fabulous popularity of the Jackson 5, who were scheduled to begin a holiday concert tour on December 27. The Jackson 5 concert tour will take them into the following cities:

Norfolk, Virginia, Dec. 29; Richmond, Virginia, Dec. 30; Nashville, Tennessee, Jan. 1; and Greenville, South Carolina, Jan. 2.

Yes, We All Talk

WHAT IS THE "QUORUM" A quorum is the minimal number of members present and authorized by the club Constitution to transact business.

Rule for the quorum is generally set down in the constitution or by laws of the organization. If no quorum rule is stated, general parliamentary law is that an absolute majority makes up the quorum. This works out satisfactorily for a board or committee, but for the total membership meeting such a rule may handicap business, or no business can be carried on.

An organization of one hundred members will rarely get 50 per cent of them to any meeting, or even 30 per cent in attendance.

On the other hand, a nationwide organization at its convention may easily get a majority of the official delegates, at any meeting or session. This is true, especially if the delegates are reimbursed their expenses.

However, at conventions, so many members are found in the hallways while meeting are convening.

For large organizations with general membership voting, a quorum may be as low as 5 or 10 per cent.

Some organizations use a "rule of thumb" procedure, which is "Five per cent of the members or one hundred members, whichever is the smaller, shall constitute the quorum, no matter how large the club grew."

NCNB Announces Testing Of An Automatic Teller

CHARLOTTE - North Carolina National Bank has announced it is testing a second generation of automatic teller machines capable of helping customers with 11 routine banking transactions.

Thomas I. Storrs, NCNB president, said a machine known by the manufacturer as a "total teller" has been installed here for the use of the 600 employees at NCNB's Corporate Services Center.

The test procedure, he said, is similar to the procedure employed for an automatic cash dispensing machine--NCNB24--which the bank plans to install in selected offices around the state beginning in early 1972.

"Many of our customers need our basic banking services at times the bank is closed," Storrs said. "This new machine we're testing now could be an extension of our efforts to provide 24-hour, seven-day banking convenience for our customers."

He said the new generation of automatic teller machines is capable of performing 11 transactions involving cash withdrawals, deposits, payments and account transfers.

Using a simple keyboard, the unmanned teller assists customers in making a deposit to or a withdrawal from a checking or savings account. It can transfer money from a checking account to a savings account or vice versa. And it can be instructed to transfer a BankAmericard cash advance to a checking account.

Storrs also said the sophisticated electronic machine accepts payments from a customer by automatically deducting the amount from the customer's checking or savings account or by accepting cash from the customer.

The "total teller" operates with the same magnetically encoded BankAmericard to be used with NCNB's new cash dispensing machines.

As with the cash dispensing machines, the "total teller" operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week. NCNB selected its Corporate Services Center for the test because the Center operates all day every day.

There's more than a slight connection between the words "complex" and "complexion," for today's young fashionables of all ages are finding beautifying face wear that also provides skin care.
