

DEAR SALLY

DEAR SALLY: I'm 27 and have been engaged to a wonderful girl for three years. The reason we are not yet married is the fact that I have been struggling these past couple of years to get my business on its financial feet and to pay off the debt I incurred when I began it. My girl insists that she should have a part in this, that she can continue working after we're married and thus help financially. However, I don't think it would be fair to her if I were to marry her now. What do you think? STRAPPED: I don't think you're being "fair" to her now! After all, you've already kept her waiting for three years. Since it's obvious she wants to share everything with you, let it be that way. If you keep waiting until everything is absolutely perfect, they'll be wheeling you down the aisle.

DEAR SALLY: We recently bought a new home and spent lots of time, energy, and money making it attractive. We withheld inviting any of our friends until we had everything exactly as we wanted it. Finally, last week we had five couples in for an evening of bridge. They were all highly complimentary about the exterior of our home and our living room, but not one of them asked to see the rest of the home which we were dying to show them. This really hurt! Why do people have to be so envious or jealous or inconsiderate? FLAT TASTE.

DEAR FLAT: These people were not envious or jealous or inconsiderate. They were polite! It was not their place to ask for a tour of your home -- it was YOUR place to invite them on that tour of inspection.

DEAR SALLY: I recently broke up with the young man with whom I had gone steady for almost two years. Now I am continually running into friends who ask me about him, and I never know what to say or how to explain what happened. Would you please suggest a good answer I might give these curious people? LIBERATED: This is strictly your business, and lengthy explanations are neither necessary nor in good taste. Just say, "I haven't seen him recently," and then change the subject quickly to something else. This will give your friends all the message they need.

DEAR SALLY: My mother claims that "nice girls of 15" don't phone boys. I say this is old-fashioned, don't you? DIAL TONE.

DEAR DIAL: Maybe, however, a girl should really have a definite reason for phoning a boy, unless she wants to appear to be chasing him. Perhaps she needs help on school work, or to invite him to a party or dance. If she knows the boy real well, she might call him just to talk, as she might with any other friend, but she should not overdo it.

Veteran's Corner YES, WE ALL TALK

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q -- I surrender my National Service Life Insurance permanent plan policy for a paid up policy, would I still receive dividends?

A -- Yes, but they would not be as large as dividends on your existing policy.

Q -- How can I get my claim for a pension considered since I have no doctor and can't afford the cost of an examination required by VA?

A -- Suggest you notify the VA office handling your claim what your disabilities are, describing them as best you can. Be sure to make clear you don't have money to pay for the examination, and perhaps arrangements can be made for a VA clinic to examine you.

Q -- I have never used my World War II G. I. loan entitlement. May I use it now to buy a mobile home?

A -- Yes. The mobile home loan benefit is available to eligible veterans and servicemen who have $12,500 guaranty toward the purchase of conventional homes. VA will guarantee up to 30 percent of approved loans for mobile homes.

QUESTION: I was a member of an audience in an auditorium in which the speaker had to compete against atmospheric noise and collecting dues. What do you think of this? - Mrs. G. L. C.

ANSWER: People are always talking about the faults of the speaker, but listeners have fault too. He can overcome some of these faults by controlling himself as an auditor.

Attempting to listen to a speaker in the midst of distracting movement and noise is as unfair to the speaker as it is to the listeners. The chairman should be attentive to the closing of doors and windows through which noises may be coming or to ask a speaker to stop until a train has passed.

Under no circumstances should the speaker try to speak above interfering noises. If the speaker's sequence of ideas are jumbled or his explanations are vague, good listeners rearrange the order for themselves and try to clarify his explanations.

In short, the listeners should do everything possible to compensate for the inadequacies of the speaker by alert and careful attention, by trying to eliminate distractions.

SOLVE-A-CRIME

BY A. C. GORDON

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

You watch as Police Sergeant Richard Kelley kneels beside the feet of the dead man in front of the open safe, removes the revolver from the top of the ransacked papers inside the safe, removes the revolver from the top of the ransacked papers inside the safe and after scanning several of the papers turns with a triumphant expression to you and exclaims, "One motive for his suicide... a foreclosure on his home. And I thought, like everyone else, that he was loaded with money!"

You gaze down at the body of George Grant, one of the most prominent men in town, both in business and in social circles. He lies stretched on the deep-pile carpeting of his library, the right side of his face and hair stained with blood from the bullet wound in his temple. Earlier, in a talk with the victim's housekeeper, Mrs. Sarah Harding, you learned that Grant had locked himself in the library early this evening in a very much disturbed state of mind following an extremely stormy visit from his estranged wife, Katherine, during which Mrs. Harding overheard the two shouting angrily at each other.

About an hour later you are seated in your office at headquarters mulling over the details of the case. You recall that, despite the bitter-cold night, you found one of the windows in the victim's study halfway open. You have just finished reading the report on the bullet taken from Grant's brain verifying that it had been shot from the gun found by Sergeant Kelley.

Your eyes now travel over to the late edition of the newspaper lying on the edge of your desk and bearing the headlines: "GEORGE GRANT COMMITS SUICIDE."

You shake your head and mutter to yourself, "This was no suicide. Grant was murdered!"

What leads you to this conclusion?

SOLUTION

Since the bullet was found in the victim's brain, it caused instantaneous death. However, since the death weapon was found on the papers INSIDE the safe and since Grant's feet were IN FRONT of the safe, he could not have fired the fatal shot. Had he done so, the gun would not have been inside the safe.

Washington's Birthday Cake

Martha Washington's Raisin Cake is just about as honest and straightforward as the man she baked it for. Though an easy and uncomplicated recipe, it makes an elegant and delicious cake that will be a favorite - once you've tried it.

The raisins and spices, imported from afar and saved for special occasions in Washington's day, are now everyday staples. California raisins and currants are inexpensive, and so clean they are ready to use right from the package. Instead of returning the box to the kitchen shelf, empty the rest of the raisins into a candy jar to leave on the kitchen table. They will disappear by the handful when they are in view. And you'll know that your family is enjoying excellent healthful, natural snack food.

MARTHA WASHINGTON'S RAISIN CAKE

1 cup butter
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

1/4 cup half and half
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
5 eggs
1/4 cup sherry
1 1/2 cups California seedless raisins
1 1/2 cups California currants

Beat together softened butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add spices, salt and vanilla. Stir in half and half and 1/2 cup flour. Beat eggs until thickened. Gradually beat into spiced mixture. Add remaining 2 cups flour and wine alternately to make smooth thick batter. Stir in raisins and currants. Turn into greased and floured 2 quart tube pan. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 1 1/4 hours. Let cake stand in pan 15 minutes then turn out onto rack and cool. Makes 1 (9 1/2-inch) cake.

THERE ARE GRADE "A" AND THERE ARE GRADE "A"

Not all Grade "A" eggs are alike. To be labeled Grade "A" eggs must meet certain minimum requirements.

There is many an egg that can be called Grade "A" that just never could be a Sunnybrook Egg.

Sunnybrook Eggs... they're our best. They have to be well above the minimum or they won't make the grade with us.

Break one in a pan, notice how proud the yolk sits up. That's the sign of a good egg... a fresh egg... a Sunnybrook Egg.

Try Sunnybrook. And if you ever find just one egg that doesn't measure up, we'll give you a dozen free.

12 for 1... that's pretty good odds.
