

Turner, Winters Defeated In Voting

Mrs. Cofield Lone 'Survivor'

Pair Fail In Getting Majorities

Mrs. Elizabeth Cofield, running on the Democratic ticket for the fifth district County Commissioner, was the lone Black candidate to survive Raleigh's last Saturday's primary.

Mrs. Cofield, who is a member of the Raleigh School Board, finished second to incumbent Joe W. Barber in the four-man fifth district commissioner race.

Meanwhile Raleigh's two other Black candidates, John W. Winters and A. J. Turner, failed in their bids to reach the November general election.

Winters missed out in his bid for the 14th state senate race while Turner finished seventh in a field of nine candidates for the Republican bid for the 15th District House of Representative seat.

Both Cofield and Winters received heavy support in the five predominant Black precincts. Both candidates received their largest number of votes in the Carnegie Junior High precinct (No. 35).

Turner got his largest turnout in the precincts 37 and 39, Edlie Green School and Sanderson High School. Despite finishing seventh in a field of nine candidates, Turner, in an interview this week, said there is a possibility he may win a spot in the general election because one of the Republican candidates may fall out of the race. He refused to name which one of the candidates would drop.

The Raleigh Citizens Association endorsed Winters and Mrs. Cofield in the democratic primary. RCA also endorsed J. Allen Adams for the state senate.

Newsman Interviews

L. Hampton

BY CHARLES R. JONES
The "King of the Vibras" Hampton, world-renowned handleader and superstar on the vibraphone, drums and piano, told this newsman in an exclusive interview last Saturday that "A Black man wrote the song, 'Dixie,' which is hated and berated by Black Americans throughout this country. The author was the late James E. Burdett, who went north, became homesick for his native Dixie and wrote the song."

Hampton had played a benefit dance in Raleigh Friday night and was "looking good" at his 11:30 a.m. conference.

He said the late Louie (Satchmo) Armstrong was his idol and always will be. "I have always had a mental picture of Louis before me before I can play a good 'rig." He cited other such greats as Fletcher Henderson.

"Benny Goodman took some of our (Black composers) arrangements and had them changed, thus he became known as 'King of Jazz.'"

Hampton said, "Glenn Miller stole Tuxedo Junction from Er-

Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing in the police files. We would like to do however, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the public's mind, we do not name persons not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. We do keep off the "names" and we won't be in the Crime Beat.

TWO WOMEN FIGHT

Mrs. Linda Faye Penny, 22, 11 Brunswick Terrace (Chavis Heights), told Officer A. C. Holt, Jr., at 4:26 p.m. Sunday, that while her son and the son of Mrs. Rosa Dudley, 27, were fighting, both she and Mrs. Dudley became involved in an argument, then they began to fight. The two boys were 3 and 4 years old. The magistrate would not issue warrants in an affray warrants, due to conflicting statements. Mrs. Dudley, whose address was not listed, suffered a scar on the right side of her head.

Sessions Held In Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. - Delegates to the 39th quadrennial session of the General Conference, A.M.E. Zion Church, which opened here May 3, in what many termed an unprecedented move, retired five of its bishops in the Friday afternoon session.

It had long been known that once the prelates had completed their reports that the issue would be brought to floor, due to the fact that the lay of the second largest black Methodist body reads that a bishop reading his quadrennial report in the General Conference nearest his 70th birthday is automatically retired.

When the last prelate completed his report a group of conservatives, led by the Rev. M. H. Ward, Fayetteville, N. C., presented a resolution that the section of the law, relating to retirement, enacted in 1962, be rescinded. This was the soundest note and the liberals took advantage of the resolution, as it was worded. Bishop R. B. Shaw, Wilmington, N. C., who was presiding, attempted to clarify the resolution and after a heated discussion from both sides, the 508 delegates voted, with the understanding that it had to receive 2/3 majority to carry. When the voting was over the count showed that the proponents had not only failed to muster the necessary 2/3, but had lost by 145 to 363.

The proponents then tried another move that would have suspended the rule and that made all retired bishops eligible for recall. This failed by the first one was lost.

Four of the principals were retired in 1968, but were recalled under a law that was immediately repealed. W. A. Steward, Washington, D. C., who Will Nixon Exile Black Aides Who Disagree With Policies?

The talk in the Nixon Administration about "putting his black staff on slow boats to Africa if they express dislike for the President's policy against school integration "business" is evidence of the moral degeneration among White House power brokers, it was declared last Thursday by the Democratic Committee's Minorities Director.

Andrew C. Muse, director, Minorities Division of the Democratic National Committee, was reacting to a new report in the May 1 issue of Time, the weekly newsmagazine, which implies that the Nixon Administration will exile blacks on its staff who criticize its policies against busing as a tool for desegregating schools.

The magazine article, headlined, "Dirty Harry," reports: "South Carolinian Harry Dent is an old-fashioned back room political operative, a presidential counselor and one of the Nixon Administration's liaison men with the South. At a meeting with a group of regional newsmen whom he took to be good old Southern boys, Dent observed that the President observed that the President
