Motive Is Unknown In City Death

A 35-year-old black man, Julius Roscoe Headen, is being held in the Wake County Jail, without privilege of bail, in the Saturday night alleged murder of a white clerk at the Andrew Johnson Hotel, 100 W. Martin Street. No motive or feasible reason for the murder of Orus Lee (Tiny) Blalock, 47, was, as yet, been given to the press.

Hotel manager Ralph H. Daniels gave this account of the case.

CRIME BEAT

From Raleigh's Official Police Files

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column of feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their names on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat columns, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "blotter" and you won't be in the Crime Beat.

Johnston Medic Is Mourned

SMITHFIELD - The funeral of Dr. Charles William Furlonge, who could be styled as a true practitioner in his role as a doctor and developer of athletes, was held at the First Baptist Church at 3 p. m., Tuesday. In death, as in life, the ceremonies had no fanfare and even though he held to the faith of his native Anglican belief, it was a high Episcopal ceremony.

Many former patients, whose scorching fevers he had soothed, many tennis stars whom he had tutored and financed, strode

LDF Chalks Up Victory In Tarheelia

WASHINGTON, D. C. - In two decisions handed down June 22, the United States Supreme Court put an end to attempts to evade school desegregation by creating separate black and white school districts, according to attorneys for the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc., which handled the suits. The Court overturned decisions by the United States Circuit of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit and reinstated injunctions issued by district judges in Virginia and North Carolina prohibiting formation of new school districts.

The suits originated in 1969 when three North Carolina and one Virginia county, faced with federal court school desegregation orders, sought to create new municipal school districts by carving predominantly white areas out of their majority-black school systems. LDF co-operating attorneys took all of the cases to court, charging that the new districts were being used as devices to maintain segregated, identifiable white and black schools. All of the cases were won in the district courts.

In one case, involving the attempted creation of a separate Warrenton, N. C. district from Warren County, there was no appeal from the district court order and desegregation proceeded. Appeals by the city

Gifted Raleigh Native Is Sought By Over 30 Different Companies

Wilton Larry Wallace is certainly one of the best products that Raleigh has ever produced. He is a 1968 graduate of J. W. Ligon High School, who went on to Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee to win local, state and national acclaim. Just this past month, he graduated from Vanderbilt with honors in Mechanical Engineering.

Most people in his position could be headed for a job having great potential in one of America's corporations...Wallace is not. His last few months have been filled with indecision and travel. Since September, Wallace has traveled over 100,000 miles while making speeches, having job interviews, attending meetings of various organizations, boards and committees to which he has been appointed or elected, and visiting graduate schools.

Up to this point, however, Wallace has still not made a decision about his future. His services were sought by over 30 different corporations that included General Motors, IBM, Jumble Oil, Proctor and Gamble, Westinghouse, General Electric and Bell Telephone. From the above he was offered starting salaries ranging from $11,000 to $16,500.

Wallace, the 1971-72 Student Body President at Vanderbilt (first black ever to hold that position) is presently holding a research position with the General Motors Proving Grounds, Detroit, Michigan, until he can make up his mind about the future. Although the horizon is bright for qualified black engineers than it has ever been, Wallace continues

Demonstration Of Unity Set For July 9

WASHINGTON, D. C. - A mass demonstration of national unity among religious, labor, civil rights and peace forces will be held in Miami, Fla., on Sunday, July 9th, the day before the Democratic National Convention opens in Miami Beach.

Plans for the demonstration were announced by leaders of sponsoring groups. The idea of the demonstration was initiated by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, whose President, Rev. Ralph David Abernathy said:

"The purpose of this demonstration is to place before the delegates to the Democratic convention the grave issues facing this nation in the 1972 elections. "America is in a deep crisis, because, in my judgment, our country has a government which holds the people in contempt instead of serving them. It is urgent that the forces of reaction and repression in the government be replaced in 1972. It is equally urgent that a new government must be totally committed to programs and policies which truly meet the needs of the people - which will set the nation on a new course of justice, equality and peace. "We believe that the majority of American voters are ready to respond favorably to a party which will deal forthrightly with

Another NC Landmark 'Bites Dust'

SMITHFIELD - Perhaps there are very few people living in this community if any, who were present when Allen Wall opened a general store in Selma in 1899. There will be hundreds that will remain the closing of Wall's Supply House on Friday, which has been run here by the son of the founder, Jesse L. Wall, and his wife of 45 years.

The story of the founding and the development of this business is another vivid description of the black man's contribution to the American way of life. The founder of the business saw the plight of his fellowman as he struggled with the problem of
