No Child Will Escape Drugs: Dunn

GREENSBORO - "There isn't a child in North Carolina who won't have to decide whether to use illegal drugs," according to Charles Dunn, director of the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation.

He said crops of marijuana have been found growing in 70 of the state's 100 counties. On top of that, the use of so-called "hard" and "soft" drugs hasn't reached a peak but continues to spiral, especially in more heavily populated regions such as Guilford county.

On hand to enlighten attendees at North Carolina A&T State University's Drug Education Workshop last week was Dunn

Lott Carey
Meet Looms
In Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va. - Lott Carey, a distinct Black Baptist Foreign Mission Convention will explicate 75 years of Christian integrity at their Diamond Jubilee celebration in Norfolk, Va., August 20-Sept. 28 of this year. This respectable national organization of black Baptist churchmen that has lived for three quarters of a century having no discrepancy is a credit to the devoted and efficient leadership of religious cooperation. It demonstrates that black people can manage both religion and business successfully. Such a creditable achievement is a well-earned tribute for black preachers and their congregations whose multiplicity of problems most of the time are apparently unpreceded.

WAKE FOREST - Police Chief H. R. Newsom of this former college town, informed a CAROLINIAN reporter early Wednesday, that he had charged Peter Anthony Young, 36, of the stabbing murder of his 31-year-old sister, Miss Maude Young. The incident took place last Tuesday afternoon at the home of their mother here. Young also apparently attempted to take his own life by stabbing himself and was hospitalized until Tuesday. He had been listed in "fair" condition at Wake Memorial Hospital, Raleigh.

Miss Young was found dead in the bathroom at 600 North White Street by a relative, Mrs. Bernice Jones, between 8 and 9 p.m., after having been stabbed in the left side with a butcher knife.

Mr. Young who has a record of mental illness, was questioned by police officials who shortly after his sister was declared dead. He was stabbed in the right portion of his chest.

Captain M. W. Bennett said that according to his investigation, the Youngs had been drinking wine and got into an argument before the stabbing.

Such honorable and undisputed accomplishment among these honorable churchmen proves that soul religion, black power associated with green back power, can do when properly administered and correctly channeled. This achievement demonstrates the Negro church's ability as a business organization as well as a religious body who can preach, sing and shout loud their praises according to their inner feelings.

Contrary to certain modern day soap box non-producing orators and philosophers who are out to kill the black church, Lott Carey has risen above much criticism. This organization tells the world that the Negro church's ability as a spiritual force is also efficient in the conducting of its business affairs. Millions of dollars have

Andrew Muse, director of Minority Division of the Democratic National Committee said, At no other time in the history of American politics have Blacks played such a major role and such tremendous influence in the policies, procedures and outcome of a political convention, as was the case at the 1972 Democratic Convention.
