Barnes, who was reported ill in three states last week, told a CAROLINIAN newsman early Tuesday that the hospital was, at first, running laboratory tests on him to determine the extent of his illness. Ed. Carson Says Choice Was Known

BY C. W. MASSENBURG
Edward Carson, who placed eighth in the 1972 City Council race to elect seven councilmen, and who had counted on the new seat at the death of ex-Mayor William G. Enloe in November, had his hopes dashed here Tuesday afternoon when the council elected Mrs. James W. (Elizabeth) Reid to the post. Mrs. Reid's name had not been publicly mentioned by the news media. In a 4-2 decision, Tuesday, the Raleigh City Council appointed Elizabeth Reid, an east Raleigh resident to the City Council to fill the vacancy created by the death of William Enloe on Nov. 22. Mrs. Reid, the 47-year-old wife of the late former Raleigh mayor Jim Reid was "one of twenty-three persons seeking the post," according to a statement made by Raleigh Mayor Tom Bradshaw. Councilman Robert Shelner nominated Mrs. Reid and was supported by Councilmen Alton Strickland, Jesse Sanderson, and Mayor Tom Bradshaw. Mayor pro-tem, Clarence (See ED CARSON, P. 2)

Man, 29, Shot At Ex-Home By Current Occupant, 26

A 26-year-old Raleigh man, who was the target of a beating and cutting at the hands of two men recently, was charged by another man of having shot him when he found this man in his house on Christmas Day. Titus Smith Closs, 29, 8 Hoke Street, Apartment 8, told Officer M. Dunn and M. Sanders at 8:55 p.m. December 25, that he went to 708 E. Jones Street to pick up the clothes which he left there previously when he was staying at this address. Mr. Closs stated that he was gathering his clothes when Charles Boulding Jones, who lives at this address now, shot him in the leg with a .22 calibre (See MAN SHOT, P. 2)

Frinks Says Wilson 'Is The Worst'

WILSON - An Official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) Golden Frinks, Field Secretary for North Carolina, calls Wilson a city with an invisible "Iron Curtain," the Seaboard Coastline railroad tracks. Frinks said there has not been, and there still is not, a constructive type of communication among the occupants on either side of this wall. Consequently, there are miles of unpaved streets, open ditches, a less-than-adequate drainage system, and a poor lighting system. Because of the economic plight, most blacks are only employed in seasonal work (tobacco), therefore, creating a vacuum of home (See G. FRINKS, P. 2)

Crackdown On Militants In US Navy

SAN DIEGO - In view of recent racial brawls aboard Navy carriers, courts-martial hearings, and charges of permissiveness, the Navy has apparently ordered a crackdown on all militant gestures by black sailors. Navy officials have denied reports of the existence of any such orders, but conflicting reports have been in evidence since the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk returned from Vietnam following a riot between black and white sailors Oct. 12 and 13. Thousands Mourn Death Of Baseball's Clemente

NEW YORK - One of the first news bulletins of the New Year hit with a sickening jolt. In the emotionless language of radio bulletins, announcement was made early Monday that a plane on a mercy mission to stricken Nicaragua went crashing into the Caribbean and that Roberto Clemente, one of the samaritans aboard the relief plane, crashed to his death with it.

This is shocking news, supposedly was easing into the twilight of his career. Twilight? Roberto just didn't seem to acknowledge it. At the somewhat advanced age of 37 in 1971 he batted .414 in the World Series with at least one hit in each of the seven games, thereby duplicating a feat he had performed 11 years earlier (See CLEMENTE, P. 2)

Roberto was the complete ball player. He did everything extraordinarily well. He could run, throw, field and hit with power. These are the five ingredients on which players are rated and the Pirate outfielder ranked at or near the top in each. He won four batting championships and one Most Valuable Player award. He had 13 years of over 300 and he still hit .312 last season when he

Sen. Edward Brooke May Run For President In '76

BY DIANE R. WILLIAMS
National Black News Service
WASHINGTON - Is Ed Brooke, the nation's first and only Black Senator in 100 years, attempting to gain the GOP presidential nomination in 1976?

Judging from discussions around the Nation's Capital and some of Brooke's own comments, it would appear that the "typical black politician," as Brooke and some others thus far, has set his sights - and justifiably so - on seeking the highest elective office in the land when President Nixon steps down. After a resounding victory in the November elections, Brooke said he did not believe that Vice President Agnew is the "heir (See SEN. BROOKE, P. 2)

'Nightmarish' Rules Discourage, Says Report

BY DIANE R. WILLIAMS
National Black News Service
WASHINGTON - Although welfare recipients are being encouraged to and sometimes coerced into finding jobs to support themselves, the Government actually discourages them from taking paying jobs because of a "nightmarish set of rules," according to a Congressional subcommittee report released Dec. 21. "Some people argue that welfare recipients do not want to work and others contend that there are not enough jobs," said Rep. Martha W. Griffiths (D-Mich.), chairman of the Senate-House subcommittee on fiscal policy, which issued the report. "But few bother to ask how much the available jobs are worth to beneficiaries of public programs." The report cited as an example the case of a mother of three in New Jersey who receives Aid to Families with Dependent Children, food stamps, public housing, and Medicaid benefits and who does not work. If she took a job paying $1,000-a-month, the study said, her income would be improved by only $200-a-month because she would lose about $800 worth of government benefits. (See WELFARE, P. 2)

Appreciation Feature Has No Winners

Unfortunately, there were no winners in The CAROLINIAN's Appreciation Money feature last week. We trust that will not be the case this week as three checks in the amount of $10 each will be deposited at some firm, located on the Appreciation Money page this week, each of the three bearing a name, chosen from the City Directory.

Devone at 6:54 p.m. Friday, that she and her boyfriend, James Calvin Miller, 54, same address were arguing and got into a fight. A struggle ensued over a knife that the woman had in her hand, and during the struggle, Miller took the knife and cut her in the left side. "The complainant went to the magistrate's office to sign an assault with a deadly weapon warrant, but was refused because she was intoxicated." ended the police report. (See CRIME BEAT, P. 3)
