DEAR SALLY

DEAR SALLY: When I was a child I believed in Santa Claus and the Easter bunny until I was 8 years old, and my world of fantasy was really a happy one and certainly had no ill effects on my life. Our two children, ages 4 and 6, are very happy too with their belief in Santa Claus and the Easter rabbit, however, my husband's mother is raising a big storm over the "lies" we are telling our children, and claims we should set them straight, instead of "deceiving" them this way. Do you think I should tell her outright to please mind her own business? MISSOURI MOM.

DEAR MOM: Better that your husband tell his mother to button up. The teaching and guiding of children is the responsibility of their parents, and no one should interfere, whether the area be manners, discipline OR "fantasy."

DEAR SALLY: I have just been invited to the wedding of a very good girl friend who was formerly married and tragically widowed three months later when her husband was killed in a car accident. Since she could not possibly have made much use of the very nice and expensive wedding gift I gave her for her first marriage, I'm wondering whether I should come through with another gift this time. D.D.O.

DEAR D.D.O.: If she really is a "very good friend," you will.

Now read this religious poem, written by my Mrs. KELLY "daughter," Sister Eva Lucas Perry:

THE ARK OF GOD'S COVENANT
BY EVA LUCAS PERRY

Joshua rose up early in the morning,
Working for God -- and no sin condoning;
Devinely appointed to lead the host,
Sane and sober, he did not boast.

To move from Shit-tim was quite a trip,
So officers were sent to convey this tip;
"Be sure you follow the Ark of our God."
The journey will be easy -- and the battle not hard.

The priests were in front bearing the Ark,
It was now time for the people to start;
Each one knew and had been told,
The Ark of God His Covenant did hold.

Joshua knew that he was right,
The Covenant of God was in his sight;
Ten Commandments written of old;
In this big chest, over-laid with gold.

God kept His promise with them all,
For Jordan's waters stood back tall,
And Israel walked upon the sand,
And thus they reached the

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A national Black Clipping Service has been established as a subsidiary of O'Field Dukes & Associates, a Black-owned and operated public relations firm. "We are tremendously pleased by the interest shown in the National Black Clipping Service in its short period of operation. The quality of our service and rate scale are both competitive with other major clipping services," Dukes added.
