

DR. KING'S BAPTISTS TO

that will be made on Dr. King's birthday this January 15th with the National Office of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in light of the fact that Mrs. King and the Center are fully aware that the true custodian of Dr. King's work - that is, the National Office of SCLC - is dying...

"We in the Atlanta Chapter are convinced that the most-needed way to honor Dr. King's birthday is to be about launching and implementing some action-type programs that will revive the true works of our PRINCE OF PEACE...

Truth compels us to further break our silence on the continuation of Dr. King's works by admitting that his works are not only unfinished, they are dying. The poor people in Atlanta, in Georgia, and across this country are asking the question, "What happened to the movement?"

As a beginning, the Atlanta Chapter of SCLC is calling for a Birthday March this January 15th - a "HUNGER-DEATH MARCH" in support of Dr. King's works - against the power structure of Atlanta in the person of Mayor Sam Massell, who is committed to repression of the poor...

"Jimmy Carter refused to declare King's birthday a holiday in Georgia, but did declare a day of mourning in Georgia for Harry Truman's funeral. All state office buildings were closed, and state employees were paid to give honor to the war-mongering 33rd President of America...

"Jimmy Carter refused to fight the proposed reinactment of a state death penalty in Georgia, even though the Supreme Court has ruled the death penalty as applied is unconstitutional. If James Earl Ray - the white racist paid to kill King - was not executed for killing King then no one should be ordered executed as punishment for killing anyone...

"These are but a few of the many reasons why we, as an oppressed people, should take off work on Monday, January 15th, and participate in demonstrations against the power structure and in support of rehabilitating Dr. King's works. Finally and foremost we should participate in protest activities because white America, whose leaders publicly praised Dr. King and attended his funeral and marched behind the mule-drawn wagon carrying his body, have refused to give honor to our Prince of Peace by declaring January 15th and April 4th 'People's Holidays'...

"The Atlanta Hunger-Death March to honor our 'King of Kings' left his holy tomb at Ebenezer Baptist Church at 2:00 p.m. on Monday, January 15th, 1973. We will journey first to City Hall and then to the State Capitol."

where an departments will hold their sessions, January 23-25, 1973. Scheduled bus trips will be made to visit the convention's headquarters property and the newly completed Million Dollar Administration and Classroom Building at the Burroughs School.

President L. V. Booth will be supported by a distinguished group of leaders which will include First Vice President, Nelson H. Smith and Second Vice President, T. Robert Washington. The headquarters drive will be led by Dr. Gardner C. Taylor, former president. The direction and implementation of a nearly half million dollar budget for 1973 will be led by Dr. Thomas Kilgore, Jr., president of California and Nevada Baptists.

More than 1,000 Baptist messengers will meet to consider Baptist World Alliance Sunday. The 7.5 million dollar drive sponsored by American Baptist Churches and Progressive Baptists, led by Dr. Joseph O. Bass, National Director, Retirement Insurance for Ministers and laymen and Church Group Fire Insurance. Implementation of the 1973 budget and expansion of both home and foreign mission work.

One of the truly great highlights of the entire meeting will be the report of the first observance of Martin Luther King, Jr. Sunday which will be observed by Progressive Baptist Churches and other church bodies on the third Sunday in January, which precedes the Admourned Session.

Miss Violet Ankrum, president of the Women's Department and all of the other departmental heads will be well represented and will conduct programs well coordinated with the Pastor's Sessions. The Pre-Convention Musical will include most of the churches of the D.C. Progressive Baptist Fellowship and will be held on Tuesday evening, January 23 at the Shiloh Baptist Church (formerly pastored by the late President Earl L. Harrison) now pastored by the Rev. Henry C. Gregory, III, formerly of Fifth Street Baptist Church, Richmond, Va.

The closing sermon will be delivered on Thursday evening by the Rev. Otis Moss, Jr. of Cincinnati, Ohio. All activities of the convention are coordinated and expedited by Dr. S. S. Hodges, Executive secretary, whose office is in Washington, D.C. The convention will welcome several new churches. The public is invited.

INSULTED

editor of The CAROLINIAN, last July, and Officer J. S. Burge asked him for his driver's license and also asked Poole if he realized he was doing 45 in a 35 mile per hour zone. Mr. Poole said he told him no, he didn't realize it.

Poole, who works for the state, is in charge of some fifty parolees. At this point, Officer Sneed, the driver of the police car, got out of the car and Mr. Poole asked the other officer if he minded hurrying up and write the speeding ticket, so that he could get back to the church and do his job as an usher.

Sneed came around on Poole's side of the car and the first thing that he said was "we got a job to do, then pointed his finger in Poole's face and said 'If you don't shut up, I'll place you under arrest,'" then grabbed Poole by the right arm and slightly shoved him in the back seat of the car.

At the magistrate's office, Sneed did not charge Poole with any crime except speeding. Mr. Poole, who was about 25 minutes late, asked Sneed to drive him back to the church, which is at least five miles from the magistrate's office and was told by Sneed, "No, no we don't do that."

As Mr. Poole approached the corners of Fayetteville and Martin Streets, he met Al Willis, a local cab driver, whom he (Poole) paid $1.65 to take him back to the church.

The police car left its post at the intersection of Wade Avenue and Oberlin Road, just to drive Poole to the magistrate's office. Many charges have been made at the Raleigh Police Station about Sneed and his reported Gestapo-like attitude toward black Raleigh citizens. The cop told Jones of The CAROLINIAN, "If you don't put your (left) hand back on top of that car (mine), I'll break your arm. Legal action is still pending in that case as to whether Jones will sue him. Mr. Poole said he will definitely take legal action."

ROY WILKINS

(Continued from p. 1) disappointment last year was the Presidential race and election last November. He called Senator George McGovern, the Democratic Presidential nominee, "wishy-washy on the busing issue."

Devoting a lot of his speech to the Federal government, Wilkins said it has not fought for jobs for black workers. He maintained the Association would accelerate its opposition to the appointment of Peter J. Brennan as Secretary of Labor. Brennan is president of the State and City Building and Construction Trades Council of New York.

"Brennan has been a very real obstacle to the employment of blacks in the construction industry," Wilkins said.

The NAACP head pointed out that the organization's membership went up from 22,000 to 42,000 last year. The treasury is in good shape and the NAACP will continue to get involved in the areas of housing, employment and education.

Other words of caution and dismay were echoed by other NAACP leaders:

"After they hear Nixon's code words, the whites in Mississippi say they don't have to obey the laws anymore," said Henry, who has been active in state Democratic Party Politics.

Henry said he feared blacks were being attracted to more militant appeals as the Administration's "anti-black" policies become evident. As an example of this, Henry pointed to the return recently of Stokely Carmichael.

Another NAACP official, Rev. Emmett Burns, field director in Mississippi, says the racial situation is worse in the South.

"But it's worse in the Deep South than up North. Back home it's a matter of life and death," he said.

Elected to the Board of Directors this year were: Dr. Stephen Gill Spottswood, Washington; Dr. Charles Roquemore, Wellington, Kan.; Mrs. Sarah Greene, Louisville, Ky.; Dr. Claude Hudson, Los Angeles; Matthew Perry, Columbia, S.C.; Irene Smith, Wenonah, N.J.; Leonard Woodcock, Detroit; and the Rev. Emerson J. Marcer, San Antonio, Tex.

PROGRAMS

(Continued from p. 1) President Nixon has announced his determination to hold federal spending to $250 billion this fiscal year, and blacks have contended that he will make the bulk of his cuts in the social-oriented programs which were begun during the Johnson Administration.

In order to meet his announced goal, the President will have to slash some $17 billion out of programs already appropriated by the Congress.

Few of the proposed cutbacks have been announced officially, but various aspects of his program are leaking out to the press now and it offers a clear usurpation of the Congressional constitutional power of the purse, many Democratic congressional leaders have charged.

The manpower programs, which are administered by the Labor Department, have long been a target of massive budget cuts by the President since he views them in an unfavorable light generally and has contended that they just don't work.

A spokesman for the Labor Department said the freeze directive was merely a "review of our expenditures," but sources close to the department say otherwise.

"It's the beginning of a massive reduction in these kind of programs," one source said. "The handwriting has been on the wall a long time, and it is finally happening."

Last month, the Labor Department sent telegrams to its regional administrators ordering the freeze and advising them not to enter into new agreements with manpower programs.

More than $1.6 million is now spent on various manpower training programs - many of them welfare recipients who are trying desperately to get off the welfare rolls. This amount, coupled with another $1 billion for public service jobs in local governments, has increased greatly the possibility of the black workers in local communities of getting good jobs.

urged NAACP leaders and others to attend this meeting to hear for themselves what William Morris, National Director of Housing Programs for the NAACP, has to say about methods to combat this evil. Staff workers will accompany Morris to this conference. Also high on the agenda is the finalizing of plans begun at the October State Convention to establish a lobbying office in Raleigh with at least two people to watch over the N.C. Legislature and to prod the law-makers regarding legislation which would enhance the best interests of blacks and other minorities, much after the fashion of Clarence Mitchell, Jr. and his very effective lobbying in Dee Cee over Congress.

All branches are asked to especially have present their housing chairman and as many others as possible to get the message, take it home and be more effective in the local community. All officers should attend. Alexander stated.

NAMED

Miss Mitchell will assume her position here on February 5. She is presently the project director for "Concerned Citizens for Schools", a program sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce in Greensboro.

Lawrence, a Wake County native and St. Augustine's graduate who has just served a 4-month internship with the City of Raleigh in a Master's Degree program through Georgia State University, will immediately assume the job of Social Services Coordinator which has been recently established by the City Council. The 29-year-old Wray will be working with the Citizens Advisory Council program.

Begins 2nd Week As Senate Pagette

Miss Cyretha Irving began her second consecutive week of work as a Senate Pagette in the 130th General Assembly last Monday. The young Pagette is a student at Josephus Daniels Junior High School.

The first week of the General Assembly was a short one, but a very interesting and informative one. Perhaps the most fascinating events of the week for Cyretha were the friendly chats she was able to have with the Lt. Governor and the Senators. She found that the majority of the Senators were lawyers by profession.

The Pagettes come from all over the state of North Carolina. Many lively discussions were had between the Pagettes from Junior High Schools, Senior High Schools and colleges with various ethnic backgrounds. The experiences proved to be most educational and beneficial.

Cyretha stated that she was held spellbound when the Governor made his address last Wednesday. It is a thrilling scene to be in the Legislative Building and see both houses come together in a joint session.

On Christmas Eve, Local 324, National Alliance of Postal and Federal Employees got Santa's helpers together, hitched up a Super Chevy truck, loaded it with Christmas food, stuffed boxes, Christmas turkey, put in four bicycles, several dolls, basketballs, toy trucks, puzzles, rain coats for boys and girls, knee socks and other clothing. For mother, some bed linens and several other presents. We jettied to Walnut Terrace just beating Santa's dead line to assure some little girls and boys a Merry Christmas.

for mother, and a stuffed box of food. The success of this Christmas project was made possible by many people in the Postal and Federal Services. This was not just a union effort, it was indeed a human effort supported by union and non-union members. The project chairman was Rev. A. Horton. He and his committee are to be congratulated. Special congratulations to Chas. Curtis, Jas. Vines, Jas. Young, and Ellis Jones for helping with the deliveries to the families.

As we put away the Christmas decorations, take down the mistletoe, throw out the Christmas tree, our wish is that God will bless all of you and a Happy New Year.

This year, Local 324 adopted two families as our Christmas project. One family, on Christmas Eve morning, received two boxes of food and a check for seventy-five dollars to add those extras that make little folk happy. The second family received the turkey dinner, toys, games, clothing, presents

Some of the organizations Cyretha is affiliated with are: Life Member of the NAACP and a member of the International Youth Club. She has also been certified as a Junior Life Saver by the American Red Cross.

Cyretha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Irving, Jr. and the granddaughter of Charles G. Irving, Sr. and the late Mrs. Callie E. Irving. She resides with her parents at 533 E. Lenoir Street, Raleigh.

The Samuel Alston family of Warren County has taken many steps to improve the interior of their house.

Included in the project was the redecorating of two bedrooms and a family room and the addition of a second bath, says Mrs. Bertha Forte, home economics extension agent.
