

Gov. Lauds Blacks; Helms Still Same

J. Holshouser Proud Of His Appointments

BY CHARLES R. JONES
Pointing with pride to the black appointments made under his Administration since his inauguration here January 5, North Carolina Governor James Eubert (Jim) Holshouser, Jr., told some 400 Republicans (not more than 20 were black) from throughout the State Monday night.

"I told them in Washington at the National Governor's Convention that I would accept a frat for the presidency." This statement brought a roar of laughter from the audience.

"It's not the same old ball game anymore," Governor Holshouser told the Republicans attending a $25-a-plate Lincoln Day fund-raising dinner in the main ballroom of Raleigh Memorial Auditorium.

"There are new young faces, black and white, at last, some Republican women's faces," said the state's chief executive.

In citing his "People Days," Holshouser stated, "This is the first time for them since our last GOP governor, Daniel Russell, was in office in the late 1880's. There is also a time of impatience in this state today. I'm impatient with myself. We think much has been accomplished through this new approach to the voters. I'm impatient with my cabinet. I want to get things going in North Carolina."

Expressing his concern for getting things moving in the right directions almost at once, Holshouser declared, "If the government doesn't meet our needs and problems head-on, we are going to have trouble in the future."

E. Railford Announces Nat'l Post

E. Stanley Enlund was elected chairman of the National Board of YMCA's at its meeting in New York, Sunday, March 13. E. L. Railford, executive director of the Bloodworth Street YMCA announced he succeeds Richard C. Kautz of Muscatine, Iowa.

Chairman of the Board of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Chicago, Enlund is a widely known business and community leader. "He has a long personal history with the Y, starting at nine years of age when he was a charter member of the Irving Park Center in Illinois," Railford says. "Mr. Enlund is very much aware of the changes that must be faced, not only by the YMCA, but by other agencies in helping people in the present scene."

"The course ahead for the YMCAs of the United States is the most dramatic and traumatic in the history of the movement," Enlund says. "The whole field of serving people is rapidly changing urbanized environments, and understanding the mystiques of this comparatively new life-style in our country literally is the greatest challenge facing all private agencies as well as government agencies geared to helping people."

A member of the National Board of YMCA, Enlund is a member of the National Board of YMCA, but by other agencies in helping people in the present scene.

SAMUEL GREEN

'Man Blind,' Say Docs At W. M. Hospital

A 35-year-old Raleigh woman, Mrs. Clara Mae Cain, 2509 Dandridge Drive, Apartment C, has been charged with maiming as a result of an assault with a deadly weapon - lye upon the face and eyes of Samuel Green, about 37, who, according to physicians at Wake Memorial Hospital was "totally blinded" by the lye.

Both incidents took place Sunday morning. Miss Cain told Officer E. Williams at that time that she was at home with some friends when Mr. Green, who previously lived at that address, but was "kicked out sometime ago," came in and started beating her about the face.

Mrs. Cain, who exhibited a swollen eye, was advised by the officer to sign an assault warrant against Green. She tried to get one, but was refused by the magistrate's office. No arrest was made in this case at this time.

However, a few minutes later - nineteen to be exact - at 2:37 a.m. that day, Samuel Green told Officers M. Sanders and E. Williams that he was at Mrs. Cain's house, where she had been living to pick up his clothes, when Mrs. Cain, with a lye can in her hand, threw some lye in his face while they were in the parking lot of the Dandridge Drive area.

Green was rushed to Wake Memorial Hospital by private ambulance. (See LYE IS, P. 2)

Bishop May Be Chosen By Churches

ATLANTA, Ga. - The recent meeting of the executive committee of the Consultation on Church Union (CCU) did not announce it, but reliable sources revealed that Bishop Frederick D. Jordan, A.M.E. prelate, now on special assignment in California, would be the next chairman of the 8-member group. His name is expected to be placed in nomination at the 11th plenary session, scheduled for Memphis, Tenn. April 1-6.

He will lead the 10-member delegation, along with the 10 associates of the largest black Methodist body in the world to the session. Bishop W. J. Walls, retired, A.M.E. Zion Church, will be in charge of the delegation, representing his denomination. The C.M.E. delegation will be led by Bishop Samuel Green. (See BISHOP MAY, P. 2)

Atlanta Chapter Is Suspended By NAACP

NEW YORK CITY - The failure of the president of the Atlanta Branch NAACP, Lonnie King, to heed a warning from Bishop S. G. Spottswood, chairman of the national board, to cease and desist from being a part of compromise plan, reported to have been worked out by the Atlanta Branch, relating to desegregation, resulted in the branch being suspended by Roy Wilkins, executive secretary, last week.

It is to be remembered that the organization is supposed to be broad based in Atlanta. The suspension has left NAACP officials and many members in a quandary.

The suspension of the Atlanta branch was made known by Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, in a telegram to Mr. King. "You are hereby prohibited and enjoined from acting in behalf or in the name of the NAACP and of the Atlanta branch with respect to the school desegregation plan pending before the United States District Court and/or any other matters," the telegram said.

The suspension caused a meeting to be set.

All members and interested citizens are urged to attend the regular meeting, which will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the East Hargett Street YWCA. The topic for discussion is "Districting." The Political Action Committee is scheduled to make its report. This should be a lively meeting.

Truman and Lyndon Baines Johnson, among others to be memorialized when the seven-day convention meets here March 22-24, according to the recent announcements from the Atlanta office of Mrs. Ruby Hurley, Regional director. Site of the convention will be the Poinsett Hotel, 120 South Main Street, Greenville, S.C.

Theme of the convention is: "1973 - And We Are A Long, Long Way From Free." Mrs. Hurley says, "In his 2nd Inauguration address the President suggested that Americans not look to their country for what it could do for them or what they should do for it, but rather what they could do for themselves." The longtime

ELLIOTT B. PALMER

E. B. Palmer Takes Issue With Judge

E. B. Palmer, Associate Executive Secretary of the North Carolina Association of Educators, hailed the order of U.S. District Judge Eugene Gordon as "precedent setting with serious implications for North Carolina school systems," last week.

Palmer said, "with many other cases by principals pending in the courts, the ruling not only makes their success more likely, but might now give encouragement to other black principals who might be dismissed due to desegregation, to enter suits."

District Judge Gordon recently ordered that Baxter Williams, a former South Albemarle High School principal, be offered a principalship in the city's system for the 1973-74 school year. The court further ordered, that Williams be paid $6,767 in back pay. (See E. PALMER, P. 2)

Invitation To Graham Protested

WASHINGTON - Despite the protests of a few blacks, a group of Congressmen and Washington area Protestant clergymen voted last week to invite the Rev. Dr. Billy Graham to conduct an evangelistic crusade here in the spring of 1974.

Noting that "there is some opposition" to the Graham invitation, the Rev. Wesley Wiley, one of half a dozen blacks present in the group of about 80 persons, said he personally supported the Graham crusade but added that he thought the action should be postponed until more support from the black community could be obtained.

Wiley, who serves as liaison between the predominantly white Southern Baptist Convention and the black National Baptist Convention, explained the paucity of support for Graham in the black community by saying:

"They (blacks) have the feeling that when there was need for leadership on crucial civil rights matters, he (Dr. Graham) talked a lot about the

U.S. Senator Holds Whites 'Spellbound'

BY CHARLES R. JONES

As North Carolina's junior United States Senator Jesse Helms took the speaker's stand Monday night at the $25-a-plate Lincoln Day Dinner, held at the Auditorium, he, almost immediately, set off a "bad taste" in the mouths of many attending by calling Washington, D.C., "Funny City." He spoke to a Republican audience, following a speech by the state's Republican governor, Jim Holshouser.

The former executive vice president of WRAL-Television Station, here in Raleigh, Helms is well-known in both North Carolina and southside Virginia for his (for the most part) biased editorials on his Viewpoint programs. In these broadcasts, he would hardly ever miss a day when his connotations did not refer to the black or any other minority group. However, he voted to curtail the secrecy usually granted to newsmen during a session of Congress last week. His colleague, Senator Sam J. Erwin, Jr., voted in favor of the same measure.

Helms also told his listeners that "You're my friends and I came here tonight to be with you. After that damn flight here today, I'm glad to be anywhere."

He cited the fact that he lives in Arlington, Va., just outside Washington, and remarked, "Since I've been living here, I have been having nightmares. I dreamed that we were moving into a large apartment building in the nation's capitol city and there was only a light open for tenants. My neighbors were Ted Kennedy, Edmund Muskie and George McGovern, who said, 'There goes the neighborhood! (This is a phrase often used by biased whites when a black family moves into a formerly all-white area.)'

Praising President Nixon, Helms stated, "He is trying to do something about federal spending. It was alright to spend money when Kennedy

Civil Rights Leaders Study Union

CHICAGO, Ill. - The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, both Baptist ministers, who came to the parting of ways over the best way to propagate the tenets of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, are said to have sat down last week and discussed the possibility of getting back together.

Both men were close aides of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Dr. King succeeded Dr. Abernathy as head of the conference after Dr. King was killed in 1968. Mr. Jackson broke away 15 months ago in a dispute over a black economic exposition and formed Operation PUSH, which stands for People United to Save Humanity.

CRIME BEAT

From Raleigh's Official Police Files

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat columns, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "Blotter" and you won't be in The Crime Beat.

CHILDREN NEGLECTED - Officer J. G. Moore reported at 3:30 p.m. last Wednesday, that he went to answer an abandoned child call at 1037 Walnut Street. "I found that the mother of two children, Craig Taylor, 4 and Christopher Taylor, 2, had left them both unattended and carelessly ignored them. At this time, I tried to locate the mother by questioning the neighbor, but none of them knew her. One did say that the mother left them there often. From this point, a social service worker was called and the kids were turned over into her hands. The mother is Mrs. Louise Mae Taylor, 25, of the Walnut Street address."

FRAMES WORDS WITH HAND - Atlanta - Senator LeRoy Johnson, D-Atlanta, frames his words with his hand as he speaks to the Senate March 12. Johnson objected to an amendment to the Atlanta Charter Bill which would have left the Atlanta city council as it is...everyone running at large. The amendment failed and the council will now have 12 districts appointed and the other six will run at large. (UPI)
