BREAKS INTO OFFICES

Millard R. Peables, whose office is located at 417 S. Person Street, told an officer at 7:43 a.m. Saturday "I just put in an alarm system yesterday afternoon. I came back to the office about 9:30 a.m. today and found that my office and other offices in the building had been broken into. I am unable to determine if anything is missing," he concluded. A broken window in the building was valued at $30. Others were the B&G Enterprises Association, Inc., and the office of Pete Leake, business representative for the State AFL-CIO.

STEALS AT INN

Miss Mary Helen Widoms, Middlesex, reported to an officer at 8:30 a.m. Sunday that someone got her billfold from a hooker from inside the business, while she was in the office. Since several people have access to this office, it was left open. The woman declared that her wallet contained $15 in cash and other valuables, including her driver's license.

ADMITTED FOR OVERDOSE

Barcel Kersey, 915 Harp Terrace, Halifax Court Apartments, told Officers S. M. Amis and B. R. Turner at 9:01 p.m. Sunday that earlier he and his wife had about three months had argued about her having an affair with another man. He stated that he found a note from his 17-year-old wife's boyfriend and they had a "bass." He said she then took about 20 grains of a type of sulphur drug. She was admitted to Wake Memorial Hospital.

CHOKED AROUND NECK

Mrs. Lillie Mae Sanders, 30, 2508 Kerb Drive, reported to Officers B. W. Harris and K. F. Warmath at 1:30 p.m. Sunday that she and her husband, Jimmy Sanders, 28, had an argument and he "choked me around the neck." She also declared that her husband threw dirt on her. The woman, who received bruises on the left side of the neck, signed an assault on a female warrant against her mate.

'SLICED' WITH KNIFE

Hoyce Miller, 54, 534 E. Davie Street, reported to two cops at 4:35 p.m. Friday that he was at 314 Swain Street when he was cut with a knife when "two or three Negro males were trying to fight among themselves and I tried to break it up before it got started good." Mr. Miller received a five inch cut on the right side of his face from one of the battlers, none of whom he said he knew. He was taken to Wake Memorial Hospital by ambulance.

PRINCIPAL STRIKES SON?

Mrs. Charity (Apollo) Dunn, 400 Solar Drive (Lee Heights), informed an officer at 10:06 p.m. Friday, that about 3 p.m. that day, her 11-year-old son was struck by the principal of his school, a Mr. Clark, while the youth was on the school bus. The child attends Washington Elementary School, 1000 Fayetteville. He received a small break in the skin, above the left eye.

CAUGHT WITH DRUGS

Officer A. C. Holt, Jr. reported at 12:36 p.m. Saturday, that he was at 319 Fayetteville Street, the location of Hudson-Belk Department Store when he had reason to search Anthony Williams. After the subject was arrested of unlawful concealment, he was asked to empty his pockets. From his left front pocket, the subject produced five cigarette-type objects, believed to be marijuanas. The subject, Williams, 17, 118 E. South Street, location of Shaw University, was arrested and charged with shoplifting and having cigarettes containing a controlled substance.

WIFE ACCUSES MATE

Mrs. Elizabeth Beckwith, 405 Walton Street, told Officer G. D. Feeny at 3:26 p.m. Saturday, that a projectile was shot through her door, doing damage estimated at $20 to the door. Her husband, James Thomas Beckwith, 44 had been drinking most of the day, she declared, and threatening her with an unknown type of gun. She said he left the house while she was talking on the telephone, then she heard the glass breaking and found the door to her back door shattered and a dent in the wooden part of it. She admitted that she didn't see him shoot, nor did she see him in the area. The woman refused to sign a damage to property warrant against Mr. Beckwith.

CUT ON LEG

Terence Livingstone Monroe, 2425 Rock Quarry Road, reported to an officer at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, that he and Al Wooten, 16, were kidding on the school grounds at Needham B. Broughion, when Wooten pulled a hawk bill knife and cut him on the left leg, requiring four stitches. Monroe, also 16, refused to sign an assault with a deadly weapon warrant, whom he says lives on one of the streets intersecting with Sanderford Road.

Shaw Alumni Hold First Summer Homecoming In NY

The New York Alumni Association of the Raleigh institution, said its first annual Summer Homecoming at Croton-on-the-Hudson was a huge success. Over 200 guests including alumni, presently enrolled students and friends, attended the day-long affair at the home of Shaw graduate, Miss Maud Bell and her family at their "Hudsonview" estate, a 30-room mansion on the Bell's 49 acre grounds in Westchester County.

Alumni Of Shaw Host Radio Show

Majorie J. Scott, recently appointed Coordinator of Shaw University Alumni Relations, will host a radio program called "Let's Talk It Over." The program will be aired September 13, on station WSHA-FM 88.9 on your dial. The time designated will be 3:05, 6:05 and 9:05 every Wednesday. Ms. Scott's program will be an amalgamation of confabs with people from all walks of life. The program shall not be limited to any one subject. The topics to be discussed are as varied as one's imagination. Ms. Scott is a 1963 graduate of Shaw and taught in the Raleigh Public School System for four years.

The Summer Homecoming was an attempt by the New York Shaw Alumni Association to bring together fellowship, ideas and plans to assure the continued support of Shaw.

The university's regular annual homecoming will be held at the Raleigh campus on November 9 and 10 this year. Founder's Day is Friday, November 9.

Female Actress Tells Woes

Judy Pace sits upright in a director's chair on the set of "The Slams," attentive and eager. A passing train drowns out the commotion of movie production activity going inside the Lincoln Heights Jail, but she seems aware of the locomotive. She absorbs the activity around her and smiles slightly.

"I love the fuss and activity of people working. When I first broke into films, I used to go onto sets to watch, picking up the mechanics of working in front of a camera. Even if I weren't working, I'd stay around until the close of a day's shooting. I was learning then, but I find myself experiencing the same excitement now," explains beautiful Judy Pace, who co-stars in MGM's "The Slams" with Jim Brown and Frank G. Kovacs.

"I've worked a lot for the few years I've been in this business, but I realize that black women have not been given the luxury of picking and choosing parts yet. There really isn't that much out there for black women." She closes her eyes and clasps her hands together as if in meditation and gathers her thoughts.

"The kind of roles I would really like to play have not been written. If they've been written, I haven't read them yet. In most scripts, the black woman is the last item and there is generally only one picture. There are more roles for black men than women and I'm not begrudging them the opportunity, but I do wish women were given the same selectivity. Like, I would love to play situation or musical comedy. I wish they had more of that for black women. Comedy to me is the hardest thing in the world to do and I love it."

"Like the role of Iris in 'The Slams' this is the first time I've had the challenge of more than one or two levels. She has a lot going for her. She's educated and she knows how to survive in both worlds, black and white. I kind of like her." Judy plays the part of Jim Brown's woman, independent enough to have a career of her own, yet vulnerable enough to risk her life for the man she loves in a spectacular prison break.
