'Benign To Malignant,' Bond Says

'Holy War' On Death Here

'No Man Can Fear For Life'

The United Church of Christ Commission for Racial Justice as of September 17, 1973 declares, as Rev. Leon White, Director of the N.C.-Va. Commission for Racial Justice stated, "a holy war" on the death penalty in North Carolina and vows to struggle against these evil statutes so no man will have to stand before the bar of justice in fear of his life. Since March 22, 1973 eleven men (7 black and 4 white) have been condemned to die in the North Carolina gas chamber. The Commission for Racial Justice calls special attention to five cases in which it plans to aid the victims in obtaining new trials. These cases include: Tommy Noel, convicted of rape Orange County, Aug. 3, 1973; Ronald A. Poole, convicted of burglary in Moore County, August 24, 1973; Alton Henderson, convicted of rape and first degree burglary.

Two Blacks Seek Posts In Henderson

HENDERSON - Two local blacks filed here last week for posts on the local City Council. Incumbent Thurston Edwards, councilman from the fourth ward, filed for re-election to this post. A resident of 1530 Andrews Avenue, Mr. Edwards has already served three terms on the Council.

The other person to file was Mrs. George Anna Hart, who seeks also an aldermanic position. She became the first woman to file for that position in the upcoming election.

A candidate from the first ward, Mrs. Hart, "If elected, I pledge to be fair to all at all times. I will work toward better government for all of the people in my ward. I hope that all the people will cooperate."

Saying that she expects support from the people in the first ward, Mrs. Hart concluded, "I have been living and working here for thirty years."

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr. To Address State's Masons

BY R. IRVING BOONE

ELIZABETH CITY - With major emphasis on charity, brotherhood, education, economics, law and order with justice, and first-class citizenship, the Prince Hall Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, headed by Grand Master Clark S. 3 Groups Sponsor Stokely

The Raleigh Chapter of the All Afrikan Peoples Revolutionary Party, the Young Pioneers, and Shaw University's Student Government Association, presents a lecture by Brother Stokely Carmichael, chairman of the All Afrikan Peoples Party and Special Ambassador from Guinea and Uganda. He will speak here Friday at 8 p.m. at Shaw University's gymnasium.

Carmichael has been a student under the great Dr. Osagyefo Kwame Nkrumah, ex-president of Ghana, since 1968. Stokely remarked in an interview in Oct. 1972, that he was an organizer. "I want to set an atmosphere conducive to organizing our people. I want to help bring our people together."

Within the span of seven short years, Stokely has become an undisputed international Afrikan leader. He's one of the leading spokesmen of "Nkrumahist philosophy and thought." Stokely recognized that black people needed a base outside of America and (See STOKELY, P. 2)

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat Column, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "Blotter" and you won't be in the Crime Beat.

NEWSCASTER CLAIMS ASSAULT

Charles Warren Massenburg, 19, 5027-E Fort Sumter Road, a newscaster for Radio Station WLEL, told Officer H.W. Richardson at 6:37 p.m. last Tuesday, that he and Bobby Rogers, 32, 184 Southgate Drive, who formerly was a disc jockey for the same station, were arguing over a tennis racket at the station. He said Mr. Rogers struck him on the right side of his face with his hand. According to the general offense report, young Massenburg had bruises of the face. He was advised to sign an assault and battery warrant. It was understood that the racket belonged to Rogers, but Massenburg said it was at his home at the time. (See CRIME BEAT, P. 3)

Appreciation Money SPOTLIGHT THIS WEEK

NATIONAL PURE FOOD MKT.

For The Best IN Quality Food

Julian Bond, Georgia State legislator told St. Augustine's College students Monday, September 17, that presidential attention to the needs of blacks has moved since the close of the Lyndon B. Johnson administration "from benign concern to malignant neglect." He said that the Martin Luther King dream has come alive, because blacks have become aware of their ability for economic power to become a reality. Black people are more aggressive now.

He told the capacity audience that a "coalition of the comfortable, callous and smug," re-elected Richard Nixon in 1972, and his administration has since displayed "arrogant contempt for people and their problems."

He suggested the gathering to work for creation of a "national political coalition of need," as a remedy for problems, including the Watergate affair.

Bond is a founder and former national chairman of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), which was organized in Raleigh. He challenged the students to put their "heritage back into action," in resurrecting the visions of Reconstruction era black legislators.

He concluded his one-half hour address by quoting Frederick Douglass, Black Civil War era anti-slavery advocate: "Men who would be free must strike the first blow. The man, who is outraged must make the first outcry."

At the close of Bond's speech, Clarence Lightner, mayor pro-tem and mayoral candidate of Raleigh, presented the legislator with a key to the city, referring to Bond as one of the brightest young men in this (See BOND SAYS, P. 2)

ADDRESSES CITIZENSHIP CONFERENCE - Washington - Julian Bond, of the Georgia State House of Representatives, was the luncheon speaker at the 28th annual National Conference on Citizenship here Sept. 17. ARM SEWN BACK ON - New York - Janis Jackson, 16, rests in hospital September 14 after her right arm, severed in a bus accident, was sewn back on by doctors three days ago. Doctors said blood circulation has been restored in the arm, the first major achievement in successfully reattaching a severed limb. The next, and more important step, is restoring cut nerves. (UPI)

NAACP Plans Review Of Drive To Revive Separate, But Equal

NEW YORK - The Board of Directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has authorized the establishment of a Board committee "to review...all efforts to overturn the Brown vs. Board of Education decision" in the historic 1954 desegregation ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, chairman of the NAACP Board, announced the action following the Board's quarterly meeting here, Sept. 10. A Board resolution authorized the appointment of such a standing committee. The resolution was sparked by the Office of Education's establishment of ethnically separate educational standards and the withholding of Federal funds from school systems which refuse to comply with "this...wrong and unwarranted return to the separate but unequal educational standards and facilities."

The full text of the resolution, made public here this week by Bishop Spottswood, follows: The quarterly meeting of the National Board of the NAACP denounces the action of the U.S. Office of Education in setting up different education standards for black, Spanish-speaking and white students and their refusal to give funds to School District 19, in New York City, because they refused to apply these different standards. This is a wrong and unwarranted return to the separate but unequal educational standards and facilities against which we have been fighting. If the test questions are irrelevant they should be dropped for all students and if relevant should be kept for all.

It is true that President Nixon's veto of the minimum wage bill, unless overturned by Congress, will further worsen the educational as well as the health and financial situation of poor workers. But that does not justify setting up unequal standards for educational tests and achievements for black students, as the U.S. Office of Education in President Nixon's

Racism Now Under Test By General

National Black News Service - BAD KREUZNACH, Germany - When the German bar refused to admit the young black man with an Afro hair style and mod-looking clothes, it had, without realizing it, refused to serve U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Frederic E. Davison, commander of the Army's 8th Infantry Division.

The general related the incident as an example of how he tries to get first-hand information on his troops' problems.

As the first black to command a U.S. division, the 54-year-old general reported progress in solving morale problems such as racism, drugs, drinking and others in the 14 months of his command.

"We have experienced over the past year a very marked reduction in racial tension," he said. His 16,000 man division, which is 22 percent black, has (See GENERAL IS, P. 2)
