Man Held In Fracas With Law

DURHAM - For a few minutes, neither his love for his large white wife, nor the impending danger of being killed by two deputy sheriffs seemed to daunt John Bullock, Jr., a black man, from spending his wrath on J. C. Gray, Jr. and L. C. Creech, deputy sheriffs, who went to his home at 916 N. Elizabeth St., Monday at 1 p.m., allegedly to evict him and his wife for the non-payment of rent. One of the officer's life was apparently saved when a bullet, sent toward his chest, was deflected by his badge.

Information gathered from reliable sources, revealed that the officers were standing on the porch explaining to Bullock that they had a job to do - take him, bag and baggage, along with his wife, out of the house. To their surprise, Bullock is believed to have raised his right hand and begun firing, with a 22-caliber pistol that the officers had not seen.

The officers are said to have made a hasty retreat from the porch and proceeded to take cover beside the porch. However, before Gray could escape Bullock had sent a bullet toward his chest, that penetrated a heavy jacket he was wearing, but had apparently been deflected by his badge, which was pinned on the jacket on front of his chest.

As soon as the officers realized that Bullock meant real trouble, they began firing. Shortly after the shooting began, Durham police arrived on the scene. Bullock is said to have gone into the house with his wife, Jo Ann, and readied for battle.

One of the city policemen is said to have fired a shotgun into the house. Neither Bullock nor his wife, was hurt, but his large bundle of marriage bliss is said to have convinced him he could not win a fight he finally succumbed to the pleadings and surrendered.

Creech attributes Bullock's bad marksmanship to his not killing both of them. The following is said to have been the (See MAN HELD P. 2)

CRIME BEAT From Raleigh's Official Police Files

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them, reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the crime beat columns, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. No simply keep off the "Blotter" and you won't be in The Crime Beat.

Policies Of Nixon Not Davis'

National Black News Service LOS ANGELES - Sammy Davis, Jr., who took a lot of abuse several years ago when he endorsed President Nixon's re-election bid, says he is now quite disappointed with the President's social-oriented programs.

The object of severe criticism from blacks and liberals for endorsing the President, Davis was photographed in 1972 hugging the President at the 1972 Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

He said he was endorsing the President because he felt he had done a good job for blacks (See SAMMY DAVIS, P. 2)

Church Scene Of Frinks' Address

BY J. B. HARRIS

ROCKY MOUNT - Coming on the heels of another March Against the Death Penalty, and particularly on behalf of the three Edgecombe County blacks - Vernon L. Brown, Bobby Hines and Jesse Lee Walston - Golden Frinks moved his crusade against Tarheelia's use of the Gas Chamber (allegedly used principally against blacks) from Tarboro into Rocky Mount, where a pep rally was held Monday night at North End Baptist Church, the Rev. Elbert Lee, Jr., minister.

In his address to the small group which, reportedly, is gathering momentum here, Frinks outlined how the death penalty has been used almost exclusively against blacks since 1910. He cited figures which purportedly proved that of 163 death sentences over the past 72 years, 290 were blacks. Frinks stated he had never heard of a white man being sentenced to or put to death for raping a black woman.

Charge Dismissed Against M. Rivers

Wake County District Attorney Burley B. Mitchell, was responsible for a charge of stealing a 35 cent bottle of aspirin being dropped in District Court here Monday against Morris (Moe) Rivers, star basketball player for the North Carolina State University Wolfpack basketball team.

The attorney said he decided to drop the case "because I felt the state simply could not prove any intent to commit larceny."

Rivers was suspended for one game after the charge was brought for missing curfew by basketball coach Norman Sloan. Sloan said the suspension was routine penalty for mission curfew.

"Under those circumstances, I decided to not prosecute the case," he said.

Rivers was accused on Tuesday, Jan. 15, of the theft of the aspirin from the Mission Valley Food Mart. A private security guard signed the warrant.

"Rivers said he left the store with the aspirin in his hand," Mitchell said. "His girlfriend would have testified that he had it in his hand when he asked her for 35 cents to pay for it because he didn't have change. At that point, the private detective came up."

"My feeling is that his evidence, together with the fact that as a member of the team, he can get aspirin from the trainer any time without charge, would tend to make a

Wake GOP Body Ends City Meet

Veteran black Republicans, joined by converted-Democrats, met here, Saturday, February 9, to evaluate the first 12 months of the Holshouser Administration, as it related to the black community.

It was the consensus that the governor had made more black appointments in his first year than all the Democratic governors made in the past 72 years. However, they were much concerned about the persons appointed and the method used to select those persons.

They were not critical of the governor, but felt that his black aide, Dr. Larnie Horton, was more concerned about building his image than building a strong black following. The persons attending the meeting (See WAKE GOP, P. 2)

Prisoners Win Big Court Suit

National Black News Service SPRINGFIELD, Mo. - A program called "behavior modification" by prison officials and "brainwashing" by inmates, has been settled in Federal court in favor of the prisoners. Officials of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, have announced they will soon dismantle a behavior modification project in Springfield and other sites across the country.

The project, known as START (an acronym for Special Treatment and Rehabilitative Treatment) involved locking "troublesome inmates" in cells for hours and depriving them of all privileges. If they behaved, there were rewards which eventually resulted in the restoration of all privileges.

START rapidly became a program scorned and hated in prison populations. There were hunger strikes staged, at least one suicide and protests from several Congressmen and the National Prison Project of the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation.

The latter organization was instrumental in getting the Federal Bureau of Prisons to (See PRISONERS, P. 2)
