W. Collins,

C. Barber

BY ALEXANDER BARNES

FAYETTEVILLE - Many of the approximately 8,000 graduates of Fayetteville State University (formerly Fayetteville State Normal, Fayetteville State Teachers College) allegedly had many apprehensions when they learned that two black veteran members of the Board of Trustees, W. B. Collins and C. J. Barber, vehemently fought the naming of Alexander Barnes as chairman of the board, with the argument that they were not ready, due to the conditions of the university, to turn that authority over to an alumnus, who represented the Alumni Association.

It is reported that some reason for their opposition could be found in an audit recently submitted that showed vast discrepancies in the handling of the funds at the institution. The report is said to disclose that the 1972 board, of which the two were members, had not lived up to its duties as described in the UNC Board of Governors Code. Barnes was appointed in 1973.

Among the many allegations of mismanagement was the handling of student funds. The report set out that many students were given money alleged to have been paid by them as fees which they had never paid. There is also on the files of one of the courts of Cumberland County, that a FSU clerk was convicted of 3 counts of forgery, in connection with student checks.

The audit further revealed that A. I. Roscoe, who had been financial director until (See FSU ALUMNI, P. 2)

NEA Alerts Parents To New Book

NEW YORK, N.Y. - The National Education Association, has joined the Council on Interracial Books for Children in alerting parents and teachers to questions they can raise with students about an Oct. 21 TV production of "The Cay."

The book by Theodore Taylor, published in 1969, won 11 literary awards, but exhibits subtle racism, NEA contends. The Bell System Family Theater TV production will be aired on NBC at 8 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time. "The book's failure to deal with a black man's thoughts, feelings, or past experiences exemplifies the institutional racism that exists in our society," Samuel B. Ethridge, NEA director of civil and human rights programs, declared in New York City Thursday. Ethridge spoke at a news conference where representatives of the Jane Adams Book Committee made an official statement regretting its award to the book.

"The Cay" is a narrative by Phillip, an 11-year-old boy who is marooned on a small island with Timothy, an (See NEA ALERTS, P. 2)

"YOU MEAN I'VE BEEN TRADED?" - New York - While lobby Bonds was out fishing Tuesday for Striped Bass and banned at around Antioch, Calif., the Yankees announced they had gotten him even up for Bobby Murcer, another outfielder who was supposed to be the next Mickey Mantle. Bonds is shown (his San Carlos, Calif., home after his fishing trip taking in one of the numerous phone calls he received regarding his trade. (UPI)

Violence Again In NC Capital

BY STAFF WRITER
It seems a shame each week to have to continue to print stories of blood-letting and violence in the State's Capital City, but that's 'what's happening' and, according to some of our readers, 'right on with it.' The Crime Beat cannot contain all of it, mainly the most violent, so here are two stories we thought should be handled in a 'red' line manner:
In one case, the complaint ended up in Wake County (See ONE SHOT, P. 2)

'Frame Up' From Beginning: Backers

CHARLOTTE - Three black men, sentenced to long prison terms in 1972 on charges of burning down the Lazy B Riding Stable here, have asked the Superior Court to set aside their convictions.

Supporters of the three say that new court proceedings will prove the case against them was a frame-up from the beginning - all part of a master plan by the FBI, the Justice Department and other top government officials to harass and destroy activists in the black liberation movement.

The three are Jim Grant, now serving a sentence of 25 years; T. J. Reddy, sentenced to 20 years; and Charles Parker, 10 years.

A hearing on the motion to set aside their conviction is set for Nov. 7, before Superior Court Judge Sam Ervin, III, in Mecklenburg County Court here. Judge Ervin is a son of Senator Ervin.

The motion is based on new evidence that the two witnesses who gave the crucial testimony against Grant, Reddy, and Parker were secretly paid at least $4,000 and probably more, by the federal government. The payoffs were revealed in an (See 3 CONVICTS, P. 2)

Arrest 2 In Beating Of Black

Two white men were arrested last Wednesday on federal civil rights charges in connection with the beating of a black motorist on Oct. 7, during the Boston school desegregation disturbances.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe said agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in cooperation with Boston police, arrested the men in Boston.

Ronald King, 22, and Joseph E. Griffin, 21, both of South Boston and unemployed, were charged with interfering with federally protected activities, obstruction of a court order, and aiding and abetting each other in the commission of the offenses.

Federal Magistrate Willie J. Davis in Boston, issued the arrest warrants this afternoon.

Andre Yvon Jean Louis, a native of Haiti, was driving near an area where a crowd had gathered to protest school busing. His car was stopped, he was pulled from it, and (See ARREST 2, P. 2)

'Heat Is Problem:' Jackson

Hot debate has loomed over Raleigh for the past several months, between the Raleigh Tenants Organization and several Raleigh property owners and managers over the city's alleged 4,000 slum houses. A meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 11 a.m. between the RTO and the Raleigh Board of Realtors. It will be held at the office of Gaddy Management, Barrett Drive here.

RTO has repeatedly attacked J. Henry Brown (Braun, U.T.D.), John C. Lawrence (Lawrence Bros. Realty) and Adams and Terry Realty. All of these firms are represented on the Raleigh Board of Realtors, according to Pat H. (See TENANTS AND, P. 2)

NNPA Aid Is Pledged To NAACP

NEW YORK - Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association, pledged that the nation's black press will actively cooperate with the drive of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to increase its membership to a half-million with the aid of a special National Membership Solicitation Day campaign next month.

In a recent letter to G. B. Current, NAACP director of branches, Dr. Goodlett said that the NNPA "will certainly cooperate" with the NAACP drive. He informed Mr. Current that he was writing to (See NNPA AID, P. 2)

Frank L. Stanley, Sr., long-time civil rights activist, owner and publisher of The Louisville Defender newspaper, died early last Saturday morning at Jewish Hospital, Louisville, Kentucky, where he was taken after suffering a heart attack while conducting the "Black Exposition" at Louisville's Convention Center. His newspaper has sponsored this home-show oriented program for 37 years.

Stanley, 68, was a leader in the civil rights movement in Kentucky, achieving national prominence, distinguishing himself as an educator and journalist. He had been associated with The Defender for more than 40 years, joining the staff several years after its founding.

Frank Stanley was born in Chicago, Illinois, the son of a butcher. When he was 6, his family moved to Louisville, where he attended the public schools and graduated from Central High.

With earnings from part-time jobs, he went to Atlanta University, where he captained the football and basketball teams and was named an All-American at quarterback in 1927 and 1928. He also (See FRANK STANLEY, P. 2)

United Black Churchmen Honor 4 At Convention

CHICAGO - Honored guests at the national convention of United Black Churchmen to be held here Nov. 7-9, will be four retired clergymen of the United Church of Christ who have made outstanding contributions to the black community.

The organization of black clergy and laity is aimed at increasing the impact of the 2-million-member United Church of Christ on the needs of minority people. Sessions of the third biennial meeting of United Black Churchmen will be at the Ascot House and the Essex Inn.

The men to be honored are the Rev. Dr. John William Faulkner, Wilwood, N.J., former dean of the Chapel at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.; Rev. Dr. Henry T. McDowell, Kings Mountain, N.C., a missionary in Angola for many years; Rev. William Judson King, Detroit, a pioneer in farm development and citizenship education for rural blacks as director of Franklin Center, Bricks, N.C.; and Rev. Samuel L. Laviscout, a major influence in the New England black community during his years as pastor of St. Mark's Church, Roxbury, Mass.

Keynote speaker at the opening session, 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 7, will be a former Chicagoan, the Rev. Dr. Reuben A. Sheares, II, New York City, director of the Office of Church Life and Leadership of the United Church of Christ. He was associate executive director for community development of Chicago's Community Renewal Society from 1967 until he was called in 1973 to head the new church agency which conducts national programs for laity and clergy.

The president of the United Church, the Rev. Dr. Robert V. Moss, and the secretary, Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Evans, both of New York, will take part in the opening convocation. Presiding will be William L. Parkerson, Washington, D.C., a leading black layman of the denomination and president of the United Black Churchmen.

Irwin France, assistant to Mayor Daley, will address the delegates Friday evening, Nov. 8. He will be introduced by the Rev. Dr. Arthur D. Gray, pastor of the United Church of Christ of Park Manor.

A portion of the program will be given over to the denomination's 17-76 Achievement Campaign to raise funds for the black colleges related (See CHURCHMEN, P. 2)

CRIME
DON'T LET IT HAPPEN!

EDDY'S NOTE: This column of feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of appearing on the list on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not possible to be on the list or have a name on the list as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat Column, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "blotter" and you won't be in the Crime Beat.

RECEIVES BLOODY MOUTH
William James Dockery, 51, 925 E. Jones Street, told Officer J. W. Tew at 9:43 p.m. Sunday, that Charles Rawlings, 24, 221 Idlewild Avenue, struck him in the mouth while he was standing on the avenue, near the Veterans of Foreign Wars Center. Dockery refused to say why Rawlings "went upside his head." Dockery suffered a bloody mouth and other injuries to his body. (See CRIME BEAT, P. 3)
