

Seek Answers To Strengthen Our Industrial World

In View Of Rising Costs For Higher Education, And The Demands For Skilled Labor, Is It Unjust To Deny Masses Of Students Diversified Career Skills Or Trades Training In The Public Schools, Beginning (For Guidance Purposes) With The Elementary Schools? Please React In The Affirmative Or Negative.

The public schools should subscribe to an instructional program and courses of study in occupational education skill-building that will enable each student to function effectively and responsibly in a changing world. The primary goal of occupational education in the public schools should be to prepare all students for his/her occupational function in accordance with his/her needs, interest aspirations, and capabilities. All children enrolled in the public schools of N.C. should have an opportunity to prepare to go to college or find something in the world of work that will give them a good return for their efforts. Industrial education should be made more attractive. Exposure should start in the first grade; certain industrial courses should be required, starting with the 7th grade thru the 12th grade. Industrial arts in occupational education should aid in the choice and selection of an occupation.

Education has the same general goal as the total school. Its somewhat unique contribution is the opportunity it provides for the student to become aware of - and to develop - an understanding of industry and technology and their influences on society. A strong program of guidance and counseling must be provided to assist students in making choices according to their needs and interests at all levels of the school system. At the secondary level, vocational counselors could provide students with specific

Haley, Young, Cheek, Redding Headline Black Press Week

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Alex Haley, author of "Roots," Ambassador Andrew Young of the United Nations, Dr. James E. Cheek, president of Howard University and Dr. Jay Saunders Redding of Cornell University, will be among those who will headline the 150th anniversary observance here next week of the founding of the black press. Announcement of the event, which will highlight the Mid-Winter Workshop of the National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA), March 16-19, was announced Tuesday by Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, NNPA president, and publisher of the San Francisco Sun Reporter Group.

The opening 150th anniversary address will be delivered at the luncheon on Friday, March 18, by Ambassador Andrew Young of the U.N., who recently returned from East Africa where he conferred with leaders on the possibility of a peaceful transfer of power in Rhodesia from the white minority to the black majority. Focus of the Sesquicentennial observance will be the enshrinement of five pioneer black publishers in the Black Press Gallery of Distinguished Newspaper Publishers at Howard University, Friday afternoon, March 18.

The five are: Rev. Samuel E. Cornish and John B. Russwurm, co-founders of Freedom's Journal, the first black newspaper; Frederick Douglass and Dr. Martin R. Delany, co-editors of the North Star; and Phillip A. Bell, who founded the Colored American and the San Francisco Elevator and was associated with newspapers for more than 60 years.

The enshrinement speaker at Howard will be Dr. Redding, author of three award-winning books, including the widely read, No Day Of Triumph. Dr. Cheek will welcome the group to the Black Press Archives and Gallery.

He was charged in two counts of embezzling $18,882.29 from the U.S. Post Office from Nov. 1 to Nov. 23, 1976, and $23,213.53 from Nov. 23 to Nov. 30 before registering the deposits.

Commissioner Hooks And Wife Are Saluted At Banquet

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — With the president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Dr. David Hyatt, making the presentation, Ben L. Hooks and his wife, Frances, accepted the NCCJ's National Human Relations Award before more than 800 guests at the organization's annual Memphis Brotherhood Award Banquet, held here last week.

Mr. Hooks is a member of the Federal Communications Commission and national executive director-designate of the NAACP. He also is a lawyer, minister and former Criminal Court Judge.

Praising the couple for their individual service to the community, Dr. Hyatt said: "Ben and Frances Hooks have all their lives been profoundly concerned with the religious ideals of our society. All of their lives they have fought valiantly and unceasingly to eradicate bigotry. Most important of all, all their lives they have really been deeply concerned about other people - they really care about their fellow man. They have been untiring champions of human rights."

Dr. Hyatt outlined Mrs. Hooks' accomplishments in making Memphis a city of good will. She was instrumental in establishing the Riverview Kansas Community and Day Care Center and the Memphis Volunteer Placement Program. (See NCCJ FETES, P. 2)

NCCJ SALUTES BENJAMIN AND FRANCES HOOKS — Memphis, Tenn. — Dr. David Hyatt (left), president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, presents the organization's National Human Relations Award to Benjamin and Frances Hooks. Mr. Hooks, Federal Communications commissioner and executive director-designate of the NAACP, and Mrs. Hooks, were honored for their "exemplary records in championing human rights and in promoting good will and brotherhood in the community." The presentation took place in Memphis last week.

Chavis Writes To Carter Inmate Plans To Sue Man

Ms. Mattie Diggs said she was sitting in court waiting for her trial to continue and received the shock of her life from a burly, white Deputy Sheriff of Robeson County, Gerald Martin. This took place late last month, she declares.

Martin, she said, unleashed all the force his right hand could muster to slap the young black woman in the full view of court and her lawyer.

Attorney H. Mitchell Baker of Lumberton said that he didn't see the incident, but was told by several persons in the court that Ms. Diggs was talking with another woman when bailiff Martin told the two to "shut up." "There were some words and several say he (Gerald Martin) put his finger in her face and then slapped her," Baker said.

Ms. Diggs' account is almost the same. She said Ms. Mary Kinsley of Fairmont was talking with her when Martin (See WILL SUE, P. 2)

Housing Evictions On Again

GREENSBORO — A U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) ban on evictions in public housing cannot apply to most of the state's housing authorities until data is submitted to the Greensboro HUD office, a spokesperson said Monday.

Harris J. Winklerstein, HUD area counsel, said local housing authorities have not supplied Richard Barnwell, director of the North Carolina HUD office with required information to make the policy effective to tenants around the state.

On Feb. 18, HUD issued a memorandum declaring a moratorium on evictions in public housing unless the housing authority is certain that the "person or persons to be evicted are able to move into decent, safe, sanitary and satisfactorily heated housing."

Automatically the memo applies to any area or county which the president has declared an emergency disaster area due to the cold weather. Eleven counties in North Carolina received such status when Gov. James Hunt successfully requested President (See EVICTIONS, P. 2)

Plaque Of NAACP To W. Young

Kelly Miller Alexander, Sr., president of the N.C. Conference of Branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), will be the keynote speaker at a special program honoring Walter (Babe) Young, who will be 84 years of age this month. This service will be held on Sunday, March 13, at the Rolesville New Bethel Church at 5 p.m. The Rev. W. A. Morgan is pastor of the church. Mr. Young is chairman of the deacon board.

The program is being sponsored by the Wendell-Wake Branch of the NAACP in appreciation of Young's many years of contributions to the ongoing programs of the NAACP in Wake County. In addition to continuing his own membership and urging others (See NAACP TO, P. 2)

HELD IN BURGLARY-SLAYINGS — Stamford, Conn. — Samuel Ayala, 26 (top photo), and Willie Profit, 25 (bottom) are held from police cars to Stamford's Court of Common Pleas March 4 for arraignment relating to the Connecticut aspect of their case after they were arrested in connection with the burglary-slayings March 2 of Sheila Watson, 38, and Bonnie Minter, 31, in Westchester County, N.Y. The women's children - two 6-year-old boys and two 3-year-old girls - were in the home at the time, but were not harmed. New York authorities are seeking extradition of Ayala and Profit for arraignment on the murder charges. (UPI)

Raleigh Minister Resigns

The Rev. Joseph P. Dempsey, pastor of the Oberlin Baptist Church since Jan. 1964, has resigned effective April 30.

Rev. Dempsey served as the assistant pastor of the White Rock Baptist Church, Durham, and as the pastor of Lillington's First Baptist Church, Lillington, prior to becoming pastor of Oberlin Baptist.

Dempsey, a Nash County native, is a graduate of Fayetteville State University, Shaw Divinity School and North Carolina Central University.

He has served as the director of the Boys Summer Day Camp at the Bloodworth Street YWCA in Raleigh and has taught in the public school systems of Sampson, Franklin and Wake Counties, respectively.

He is married to the former Miss Evelynthynne Humphrey, a native of Roxboro, N.C. They are the parents of four children. (See RESIGNS, P. 2)

Burlington Scene Of Thwarted Klan Meet

BURLINGTON — Even though Ku Klux Klan interest was spurred when one of its national leaders was transferred from California to Camp Lejeune by army orders, it did not help a rally staged here on Saturday, March 5.

A check of those taking part is said to have revealed that only 8 unhooded, but robed members, were on hand. The CAROLINIAN was able to find out that 30 were supposed to show up. The march was headed by Virgil Griffin, styled as the grand dragon of the 6th district. He was reported as being accompanied by Ed Dawson, alleged district titan.

Both are reported as being from Greensboro. Griffin is reportedly the leader of the 6th congressional district. It could not be ascertained as to whether the organization is being organized along congressional district boundaries or not.

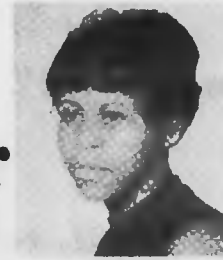

However, many persons wondered why a newly-completed mall had been chosen for the demonstration. A liberal count showed that about 200 persons looked on, with about one-third of them being black. It was reported as being a far cry from Klan appearances of years ago. The crowd not only showed no fear, but (See KLAN RALLY, P. 2)
