

Jobs For Youths Urged

V. Jordan Outlines Proposals

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A national youth employment program, including massive federal job-creation programs, establishment of the right of young people to education and job-training, and measures against age-based discrimination, was urged last weekend by Vernon E. Jordan, Jr., executive director of the National Urban League.

The proposed program was unveiled by Mr. Jordan in a major address to the Washington, D.C. meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors' Employment and Training Advisory Council.

Other major points in Mr. Jordan's program included creation of a Federal Youth Commission to coordinate youth programs, youth job programs with educational components and based on career development goals. (See JOBS FOR, P. 2)

Teacher Of The Year

Ms. Nubee Receives Citation

LOUISBURG — Ms. Raja Delores Nubee has been named Franklin County Teacher of the Year. A teacher of reading at the Louisburg Elementary School, Ms. Nubee has been employed in the Franklin system since 1974.

Robert Taylor, last year's Teacher of the Year, cited her "superior ability to inspire students of different backgrounds." Taylor was head of the committee which selected the Teacher of the Year.

Ms. Nubee will now enter competition for State Teacher of the Year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hall, 821 Coleman St., Raleigh, Ms. Nubee resides at 5808-A Falls of the Neuse Rd. in Raleigh.

A 1966 graduate of Raleigh's John W. Ligon High School, she received a bachelor's degree at Winston-Salem State University in 1970.

She also finds time to be an instructor at the N.C. Correctional Center for Women in Raleigh.

Jackson Challenges 326 Shaw U. Grads

Shaw University held its 112th convocation for the conferring of degrees, Saturday, May 14 at 3 p.m. in the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium, with 326 candidates receiving degrees.

The speaker for the commencement exercises was the Honorable Maynard H. Jackson, mayor of the City of Atlanta, Ga.

Jackson, who at 35, not only became the first black mayor of a major southern city, but the youngest in the history of Atlanta, told the Shaw graduates to "go home, drop your buckets where you are" and construct the type of grass roots political and economic structure to challenge the priorities set by the nation's elite.

Jackson, speaking to a near capacity crowd attending the ceremonies, said, "we need a political apparatus to reach our aspirations and it must be built from the ground up. If we expect the oppressors to relieve the oppressed voluntarily, we might as well expect elephants to roost in trees."

Jackson expressed his appreciation at the numbers of graduates that had looked to the future with planning to become a part of the political process as indicated by their majors in urban planning, urban politics and public administration. He described this as "revolutionary, positively revolutionary."

Jackson also cited inadequate health care, unequal distribution of resources, the denial of basic human rights, crime, and the unsatisfied "fundamental human needs of the masses" as the crucial problems ignored by the "power brokers of the nation." (See MAYOR JACKSON, P. 2)

George R. Greene, Jr. Presidential Scholar

George R. Greene, Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. George R. Greene, 2101 Lyndhurst Dr., has been named a Presidential Scholar for 1977 by President Jimmy Carter.

In a mailgram to Greene, Carter said, "I am very pleased to inform you that today I am naming you a Presidential Scholar of 1977. Mrs. Carter and I join in expressing to you our congratulations and our pride in your outstanding academic achievements and those of the other 120 Presidential Scholars. You represent the finest of this country's education efforts and will receive the Presidential Scholar Medalion, the only national award for intellectual excellence, scholarship and leadership for graduating high school seniors."

The Commission on Presidential Scholars, composed of eminent private citizens appointed by the President, select the Presidential Scholars. Students may not apply individually to the program nor can schools nominate them. Candidates for this honor are first identified through their outstanding scores on nationally administered College Entrance Exams (the Scholastic Aptitude and the ACT Assessment). Final selection is based on a multiplicity of factors in addition to academic excellence.

One boy and one girl from each state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico are chosen for this honor. Two students are chosen from

Victim Shot In Lounge

DUNN — A young black former resident of this Harnett County town was shot to death in a lounge here last Friday night and a white Benson resident has been arrested and charged with murder. Dead is William Clark, who lived in New York City and was here visiting. Jailed for murder was Glenwood Ray Tart, 27, 709 Whitten Street, Benson.

According to police officials, Clark was killed about 11 p.m. Friday after he went into the Executive Lounge, on Egerton St., a nightclub frequented mostly by whites. Tart was charged with the murder at 2 a.m. Saturday after telephoning Dunn police to surrender himself.

Harnett County Coroner Paul Drew said Clark's body was sent to Chapel Hill's Memorial Hospital for a complete autopsy.

According to Dr. L. R. Duffmeire of Betsy Johnson Memorial Hospital, Clark had been shot from 8 to 7 times. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Carlisle McLamb of the Dunn Rescue Squad said Clark was lying on the floor inside the club when rescue workers got to the scene. He had been shot in the chest, jaw and neck.

Police refused to state whether or not the killing had racial overtones.

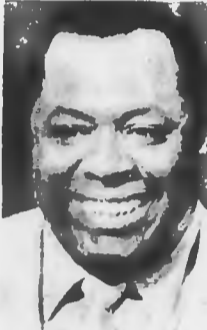

Gambians Seeking Interchange

The leader of a Gambian delegation visiting Raleigh Friday said his country's government is seeking "dynamic interchange" with black Americans and other people who are interested in his country.

Dr. Lenrie Peters, leading a delegation of 13 fellow citizens on a tour of Raleigh, Washington and New York, said the visit to the U.S. was strictly a cultural one designed to stimulate interest in Gambia. He said Gambia expects about 2,000 American tourists to come to Gambia this summer.

The interest in Gambia was created earlier this year when Alex Haley's book, Roots, was made into an ABC television movie. The book and movie traced Haley's family tree from Gambia to modern times.

A surgeon by profession, and also a poet and writer, Peters said Haley's book's primary value is in its "literary aspect." It is "very plausible" (See GAMBIA, P. 2)

USDA Streamlines Process For Removing Food Stamps

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Food stores will now be removed from the food stamp program without delay when a change in business operations makes them ineligible to accept food stamps, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced last week.

Under a new food stamp program rule, when a participating firm has changed the nature of its business and is no longer eligible to accept food stamps, USDA's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) will immediately notify the firm that its food stamp authorization is being withdrawn.

FNS officials offered the example of a delicatessen that sells groceries and provides carry-out food service. If the delicatessen eliminates grocery sales and converts to a restaurant, it can no longer accept food stamps under USDA regulations. FNS field offices monitor participating food stores to make sure they comply with program rules.

Under the old procedure, FNS first had to ask the firm to submit a new application for food stamp authorization. If the firm was ineligible, the application then would be denied and permission to accept food stamps withdrawn. FNS officials said the new rule will increase efficiency, allowing FNS to move more quickly to remove firms which should no longer be accepting food stamps.

At the same time, officials

Secretary Of HEW Is Blasted

National Black News Service WASHINGTON, D.C. — In a biting letter to Joseph Califano, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, 9 predominantly black organizations castigated Califano for failing to consult with black professional organizations concerning the upcoming White House Conference on Families, according to FOCUS, the official publication of the Joint Center for Political Studies.

Ms. Evelyn K. Moore, executive director of the Black Child Development Institute, pointed out that black professional organizations have urged the federal government to develop and adopt a coherent family policy for many years. However, she explained, now that white academicians and journalists have "discovered" the added, the change in procedure will eliminate needless paperwork. New applications for authorization usually containing information already available to FNS, officials pointed out.

Officials emphasized FNS will continue to examine carefully eligibility of all participating firms. A firm which loses its food stamp authorization will continue to have the right to administrative and judicial review of the action.

The final regulation was scheduled to appear in the May 10 Federal Register. The rule was published on Jan. 4. Most of the comments on the proposal were favorable, officials said.

ALD Set In D. C. May 28; Tell Plans

The African Liberation Support Committee and the A.L.D. Coalition has called for a mass demonstration of blacks and other nationalities to support the just struggles for democracy, equality and majority rule that African freedom fighters are waging in Southern Africa (Rhodesia, South Africa and South Africa).

On African Liberation Day, May 28, thousands of people will converge on Washington, D.C. to dramatize the plight of African people in Zimbabwe (Rhodesia), Namibia (S.W. Africa), and Azania (Union of South Africa) and to protest U.S. and Soviet Union involvement in Southern Africa which escalates the possibility of world war that will mean mass suffering for millions of people, a spokesman for the ALSC said here this week.

"The demonstration will also protest the involvement of some 365 major multinational corporations who operate facilities in South Africa and give support and legitimacy to the
