To Speed Up Hiring

CETA Funds Shifted

Millions Will Go For Jobs

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Labor Dept. has taken back nearly $3 million from local governments that delayed hiring the unemployed for federally funded public jobs and reallocated the money to localities that can fill the jobs promptly.

In May, the President signed the Economic Stimulus Appropriations Act, making available $7.9 billion to increase public service employment (PSE) openings from 310,000 to 725,000 by early 1978 and supporting the jobs through September of that year.

By October 14, the 446 states and local prime sponsors had hired about 250,000 jobs people, leaving 175,000 openings to be filled.

To make sure programs are fully activated without delay, the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) authorizes the Secretary of Labor to reallocate any amount he determines a sponsor will not be able to use within a reasonable period of time.

Based on performance reviews by the department's Employment and Training Administration in July, $2,892,000 was taken from sponsors that filled less than 70 percent of the jobs they (See CETA FUNDS, P. 2)

AMONG MOST POWERFUL — New York — Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., was selected as one of "America's Ten Most Powerful Women" by Harper's Bazaar magazine Monday. According to the publication, "After only 4 years in the House of Representatives, she already commands more national recognition than most of her colleagues can look forward to in a lifetime." ## J. Paul Reveals Contact

DURHAM — Civil rights attorney Jerry Paul said Monday that he received a telephone call from JoAnne Little while he was serving a 9-day contempt of court sentence in Wake County Jail. Following his release from jail last Saturday, Paul said JoAnne used a code name when she called to the jail and he returned her call.

Ms. Little disappeared from the North Carolina Correctional Center for women Oct. 15 and was discovered missing by prison officials at the evening head count. Authorities have since concentrated searches in the Norfolk, Va. and Raleigh areas.

While not disclosing the entire contents of his conversation with Ms. Little, Paul said "She wants to work out a strategy to deal with the pressures and live a normal life."

Ms. Little became internationally known during her struggle to avoid conviction in a 1975 murder trial for the ice pick slaying of a Beaufort County jailer, Clarence Allgood. A jury acquitted her and found that Allgood attempted to rape her and she killed him in self-defense. Her trial and acquittal constitute one of the most celebrated trials of recent times, attracting the support of hundreds of organizations and individuals around the world.

Ms. Little was in prison, serving a 7-10 year sentence for breaking and entering and larceny, which she was awaiting appeal from when she was attacked by Allgood. Following her acquittal for Allgood's death, she was unable to overturn the breaking and entering convictions in state courts.

Immediately following Ms. Little's disappearance, Paul said she was "torced to escape" because of pressures from prison officials. That information he said, was attained when Ms. Little called him by telephone from the prison the day before her disappearance.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A group of Congressmen will travel to North Carolina Saturday, Nov. 5, to visit imprisoned members of the Wilmington 10 and hope to meet with the governor, Congressman Don Edwards (D-Calif.) and Parren J. Mitchell (D-Md.) announced recently.

"We will visit Wayne Moore and Joe Wright in the prison at Raleigh and hope to meet with Governor James Hunt. We would like to discuss the case with him and also urge him to respond to the pardon petition prepared by Wilmington 10 attorney, James Ferguson," Edwards said. The petition requests either a pardon or a commutation of sentence.

The Wilmington 10, nine black men and one white woman, were convicted of fire-bombing a white-owned grocery store and sentenced to a total of 282 years in prison. Eight of the men were in high school at the time and except for minor traffic records, there was no previous law violation. The woman is the only one not now in jail.

Congressman Mitchell, who is chairman of the 16-member Congressional Black Caucus, said, "The racial injustices which prevail in America are outrageous, but I am confident that we will be successful in overcoming the oppressive forces that exist in North Carolina and throughout this country."

REP. PARREN J. MITCHELL

Queries Agency Policy

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Civil Service Commission, administrator of the federal government's merit system, is being questioned about its own equal opportunity program.

The interagency is said to be led by Clinton Smith, a black who is serving as executive vice chairman of the Inter-agency Advisory Group and as director of the Commission's Equal Employment Opportunity unit.

Smith is reported to have urged CSC chairman Alan Campbell in a memo to take disciplinary action against high officials at the Commission for possible obstruction and interference in the processing of complaints of discrimination. (See POLICY OF, P. 2)

REGGIE JACKSON FOUND INNOCENT — New York — Chris Howe, 11, of the Bronx, and Yankee star outfielder Reggie Jackson (R), talk to reporters Nov. 1 after Judge Harold Enten found Jackson innocent of charges of harassing the youth. The boy had charged that Jackson chased him around a parking lot after the All-Star game and "stomped" him on the wrist. (UPI)

No Endorsements Made As Election Day Draws Near

BY WILLIE WHITE, Staff Writer

District C candidates Millard R. Peebles and William R. "Bill" Knight are coming to the finish line for Tuesday's election in their city council bids, but neither has stirred a rousing response from the city's two leading political organizations during the campaign.

As of press time Wednesday, neither the Raleigh-Wake Citizens Association nor the Wake Democratic Black Caucus had issued endorsements, although caucus president Daniel Blue said the caucus would probably make endorsements in a special call meeting Thursday night.

When contacted Tuesday afternoon, Raleigh-Wake Citizens Association president Ralph Campbell was uncertain what the association would do about endorsements. He could not be reached for later comments before press time.

Knight and Peebles are the remaining candidates from a 5-candidate primary. Knight is a 2-term incumbent and Peebles is a challenger with extensive work with the city through 8 years on the Raleigh Planning Commission, three of which he spent as commission chairperson.

Voters will also elect the city's next mayor from a field which boasts incumbent J. J. Coggins and newcomer Isabella W. Cannon. Mrs. Cannon has gained strong support from groups and citizens with

NAACP Pickets Consulate

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The NAACP last week joined a number of national and local organizations in picketing the South African Consulate to protest the recent intensification of racial repression in that country.

Carrying picket signs that said "South Africa Liti Ban on Black Newspapers" and "South Africa Release Political Prisoners," the NAACP picketers marched quietly for nearly two hours Saturday along New York's prestigious Park Avenue at 55th Street, where the consulate is located. Leading the NAACP contingent was Mrs. Margaret Bush Wilson, chairman of the Board of Directors. Gloster B. Current, deputy to the executive director, organized the nine-man contingent of NAACP executives on the line. In all, about 50 people picketed the consulate.

The NAACP joined the protests as a member of the Emergency Coalition for Human Rights in South Africa. The other members are the American Committee on Africa, Association of Black Journalists (NY), Black Council on Africa, Black Enterprise, Black Tuesday, Community Church, Encore magazine, National Council of Negro Women, National Urban League, One Hundred Black Men.

District C Polling Places

District C voters will go to the following polling places Tuesday as they elect a district representative to the city council, a mayor, two at-large councilmen, and a school board member. They will also vote on a number of bonds and constitutional amendments.

Polling places are: Precinct 19, Clarence Poe School; Precinct 20, Lucille Hunter School; Precinct 22, Fire Station on Sanderford Rd.; Precinct 25, Walnut Terrace Recreational Center; Precinct 26, Ligon High School; Precinct 34, Mary E. Phillips School; and Precinct 35, Carnage Junior High School.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

Woman Riding To Ala. Strapped To A Cross

OXFORD — Ms. Evangeline Grant Redding, a black author, says she will ride from Halifax to Birmingham, Alabama Saturday, November 5, strapped to a cross on the back of a truck "to dramatize the sacrifice adults must make to help black youth."

Ms. Redding said she chose Halifax for starting because it is in the heart of North Carolina's black belt and is representative of the historical and institutionalized suppression and fatalism of black youth as any other place in America.

Along the journey, she has tentative plans to stop in Greensboro because of the civil rights activities there in the 1960s. She also plans to stop at Barber Scotia College in Concord, the school attended by Mary McLeod Bethune. She will go from there to the Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

Her final stop will be at Birmingham's Sixteenth Street Baptist Church, where four black girls died in a 1963 bombing.

In her new post, Dr. Wallace will oversee the department's management programs, including personnel, data processing. (See FEMALE IS, P. 2)

DISCUSSING SOUTH AFRICA — United Nations, N.Y. — Ambassador Andrew Young (L) of the United States and William Barton of Canada, address Security Council here Oct. 31 prior to that body's 10-0 vote approving a blandly worded resolution strongly condemning massive violence and killings as an outgrowth of South Africa's apartheid policies. In earlier voting, the U.S., Britain and France vetoed attempts by black African nations on three headline resolutions to impose mandatory economic and arms embargoes against the racist South African regime. ## Bishop Shaw Takes The Church To Task

WILSON — At the 66th annual session of the Cape Fear Conference, A.M.E. Zion Church, which closed here Sunday, October 30, after a 6-day meet at St. John Church, Bishop H.B. Shaw presiding and the Rev. A. F. Hooper, host pastor, demonstrated much concern over the failure of the church to wield greater influence in destroying the greatest enemy to democracy — racism.

Bishop Shaw came down hard on it in his annual address and seeming unconcern of the "white church" of the biblical reading, "One can chaste a thousand and two can put (See CHIDED, P. 10)
