

Seminars To Be Held By Livingstone Alumni

SALISBURY — On Wednesday, April 18, at 7 p.m., Dr. Marcona Hines, Dr. Gloria Berry-Holly and Dr. Bryant Norman, former biology majors at Livingstone College, will participate in a seminar in room 201 of the S.E. Duncan Science Building.

The activities are a part of an overall program to expose students to prominent alumni who have made significant contributions to the field of medicine and science.

Dr. Hines is a 1971 graduate of Livingstone and received the M.D. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Medical School. He practices in Durham with another Livingstone graduate, Dr. Kenneth Banks.

Dr. Berry-Holly is a 1976 graduate of Livingstone and graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Dental School and subsequently served on its faculty. She is practicing dentistry in Hillsboro.

Dr. Norman is a Salisbury native and a 1964 graduate of Livingstone. He earned his degree in dentistry from the University of Buffalo and currently has a very successful practice here in Salisbury.

The public is invited to hear these three outstanding professionals discuss opportunities and recent discoveries in medicine.

Wake Tech Applications Ready Now For Popular Fall Classes

Wake Technical College is now accepting applications for fall quarter '84 and they are coming in rapidly, according to Robert Brown, admissions director.

Brown says the most popular programs at Wake Tech are those relating to the electronics and computer fields, and "applicants who want training in these areas are smart to apply early if they want to get into the program of their choice."

Even with the new micro-electronics building, our computer and electronics laboratory space will be limited in the fall quarter, Brown says. He explains that the college offers associate degree and diploma programs in computer and electronics engineering technology and additionally provides instruction in these skills for other programs.

"Our students in engineering, business and public service are not slighted when it comes to high tech training," he says. "The college this year has added nearly a million dollars' worth of new equipment to give students in all programs the training and experience they need for high-tech employment today and in the future."

Brown says that in agricultural technology and civil engineering technology for example, students learn to use computer drafting equipment. In industrial and mechanical engineering technology programs and in several business curricula, students develop computer skills for solving problems related to their specific work areas.

Library technology students develop computer skills relating to circulation, inventory and collections for work that goes on behind the scenes in a library or media center.

Executive secretarial science students at Wake Tech learn to use the word processor and develop a skill that is becoming extremely important in today's business office, Brown says.

Students in the vocational and trade skill programs also train on computer-related equipment, he adds.

"The day of the shade tree mechanic is gone. To tune up a passenger auto today, the mechanic must use complex electronic equipment. Technology is becoming more and more sophisticated in all of the services required to keep our homes comfortable and running smoothly."

Among the diploma programs offered in the vocational areas are air conditioning, heating and refrigeration servicing, automotive repair, digital electronic repair, electrical installation and maintenance, electronic servicing, heavy equipment repair, industrial maintenance, machine shop practices, mechanical drafting, and tool and die practices. Certificate programs include diesel engine repair, nursing assistant, practical plumbing and practical welding.

Wake Tech offers a number of new curriculums for fall applicants. Among them are restaurant and hotel management, child care worker and robotics servicing. Recently added to the secretarial program is a one-year clerk typist option.

Astronaut Is Cited For Space Mission

GREENSBORO — Several thousand A&T State University students and faculty, and citizens of Greensboro, heaped day-long honor and praise on black astronaut Dr. Ronald McNair here Friday.

McNair, a 1971 A&T graduate, was cited for his role in the recent STS-11 space shuttle flight aboard the Challenger. He was the first astronaut selected from a historically black college, to participate in a space shuttle flight.

While in Greensboro, McNair received a number of accolades, including proclamations from Gov. Jim Hunt and Greensboro Mayor John Forbis, and a resolution from the A&T National Alumni Association.

A native of Lake City, S.C., McNair will be remembered as an important member of NASA's space shuttle mission aboard the Challenger. McNair was involved in a number of new scientific experiments, and the documentation of the mission with special cameras.

As a noted laser physicist, Dr. McNair has been involved in a number of internationally significant experiments. These experiments have provided new understanding and applications for highly excited polyatomic molecules.

He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Optical Society, the American Physical Society, the APS Committee on Minorities in Physics, the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics board of trustees, and Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

He is also a visiting lecturer in physics at Texas Southern University.

Be not righteous over much; neither make thyself over wise: why shouldst thou destroy thyself?

AFTER WE GUARANTEE YOUR CHOICE OF SKILL TRAINING, WE GIVE YOU A RECEIPT.

With over 300 skills to choose from in today's Army, there's sure to be one with your name on it. If you qualify, you'll get the skill training you want and we'll guarantee it in writing—before you enlist.

Even if you're still in high school, you can reserve your skill training now and have it ready and waiting for you after graduation.

Find out more about the Delayed Entry Program from your local Army Recruiter. Or call 1-800-USA-ARMY. We'll be happy to talk about your reservation.

UNITED STATES ARMY ENLISTMENT GUARANTEE.

KENNETH C. GRANT is a member of the U.S. Army Reserve Control Group (Delayed Entry), and is scheduled to enter active duty in the Regular Army on 2 SEPTEMBER 1984 for training in 35B-ELECTRONIC EQUIPMENT REPAIR and for assignment to FT. BENNING, GA.

How To Subtract 2000 From 1040.

It doesn't take much figuring to realize that an Individual Retirement Account from BB&T is one of the best tax write-offs you can have. You can shelter up to $2,000 in an individual IRA for 1983 if you make your contribution before April 16, 1984. And, while your deposits earn interest at market rates, your interest will accumulate on a tax-deferred basis. At BB&T, you have several plans from which to choose, one of which is sure to meet your needs. Even if you can't make the maximum contribution for 1983, you can get started with as little as $100 and make additional deposits anytime you wish. Open your IRA at BB&T now. Because Uncle Sam's loss is your gain.

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. IRA accounts insured separately to $100,000. Substantial penalty for early withdrawal.
