

NCSU To Host Technological Seminar

How science and technology affect the nation's productivity will be the focus of the sixth annual National Conference on Industrial Science and Technological Innovation to be held in Raleigh May 14-16.

The conference is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and will be hosted by North Carolina State University. This year's theme is "Converting U.S. Scientific Leadership into Technological Leadership."

Among the speakers will be Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., who chairs the Task Force on Technological Innovation of the National Governors' Association. Hunt will participate on a panel chaired by William C. Friday, president of the University of North Carolina system.

Keynote speaker for the conference will be Dr. Edward E. David, Jr., president of Exxong Research and Engineering Co., Annandale, N.J. A former executive director of research for Bell Laboratories, David holds a number of patents and has done research in such areas as acoustics, computer science and man-machine communication.

In addition, David has served as science advisor to President Richard Nixon and as director of the U.S. Office of Science and Technology.

Another major speaker will be Dr. Cecily Cannan Selby, former dean of academic affairs at the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics.

She will talk on the recommendations of a National Science Board commission on science and math education, which she co-chaired. The commission's report, "Educating Americans for the 21st Century," discusses ways to improve the science, math and technical education of all American children.

The conference also will feature a panel of international experts, from Sweden, West Germany and Yugoslavia, who will discuss "International Perspectives on Technological Innovation."

Topics of other panels include high growth research areas, small business and technological innovation, high technology and regional growth and financing the conversion of science into technology.

The conference will begin with a tour of the Research Triangle Park and North Carolina State University.

Also, there will be exhibits and demonstrations, including one by IBM representatives of state-of-the-art teleconferencing technology. Conference sessions will be held at the Radisson Plaza Raleigh.

For further information about the conference program, contact Dr. Denis Gray, assistant professor of psychology, at 737-2251, or write him in care of the department of psychology, NCSU, Box 7801, Raleigh 27695-7801.

BESTOWED WITH GIFTS—New York, N.Y.—Alan Hirschfeld, chairman of the board of 20th Century Fox; Madge Sinclair, Jamaican actress featured in "Trapper John, M.D." on CBS, receive gifts of Jamaican products from Edward P.G. Seaga, prime minister of Jamaica, on the occasion of the prime minister's visit to 20th Century Fox's Hollywood studio as a guest of Alan Hirschfeld.

Space, Mood And Money Contribute To Changes

THOMASVILLE — Space, money and mood are key influences in the way homes look today. Sometimes singly, sometimes together, these elements are producing some of the most dramatic changes in American interiors.

Take the dining room. No matter how small the area, gracious living is impossible without attractive furniture. Fully aware of the shrinking size of today's new homes, furniture designers are creating appropriately scaled dining pieces that are, in addition, multifunctional.

A pioneer in this concept is Thomasville Furniture Industries, renowned for its beautiful formal furniture. The manufacturer recently launched a new collection never before offered in dinette size.

"Carte Blanche" consists of a table, four chairs, and a credenza. All pieces are engineered for function, beautifully designed, and perfectly proportioned for today's living spaces.

Ideal for young recently marrieds or newly singles—or an older couple whose children have left home—Carte Blanche satisfies the increasing demand for smaller but better dining furniture for apartments, condominiums, and kitchen and family room arrangements.

The flexible storage unit, aptly labeled the "Incredible Credenza," is so named for several reasons. On casters for easy mobility, it has a finished back, and can serve as a beautiful room divider.

Its hinged flip top has a laminated surface useful for a work area or additional dining space, and a deep-well compartment for concealed table-leaf storage, as well as table pads.

Constructed from hardwood solids and veneers, the credenza has four drawers. One drawer, with a pencil-tray insert, is situated above a file drawer with wood dividers. The piece also serves as a mini-desk.

In addition, the top central drawer sports a concealed lock and drop-in silver tray. The large storage area in the middle has an adjustable shelf, while the storage cabinet on the right has a fixed shelf and removable wine rack.

Carte Blanche dining is available in a wide range of popular styles from formal-traditional to casual-contemporary.

Tables are round or oval and have an extra leaf with a full apron for a finished appearance and added flexibility. Chairs are high or low back, and come with or without casters. Seats are slip, or "comfortex," for heavy use. Both chair styles in every design are scaled to fit neatly under tables for added space-saving.

Several Carte Blanche styles have been designed to coordinate with Thomasville wall systems and entertainment centers, a spokesman said.

FESTIVE FOODS: CHICKEN AND RICE

Made to order for holiday meals is this festive chicken and rice dish that requires a minimum of do-ahead fuss. It's easy on the budget, too. Wine and brandy add a French touch that can turn a simple dish into party fare.

CHICKEN A LA BONNE FEMME

- 3 chicken breasts, split in half
- Salt and ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms (drain; reserve liquid)
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1-1/2 cups chicken broth
- 1/4 cup tomato paste
- 1/4 cup brandy
- 1/2 cup white wine
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

Season chicken with salt and pepper. Heat butter in a large skillet. Add chicken and cook until golden brown. Push chicken to one side. Add onions, garlic, and mushrooms to skillet. Continue cooking until onions are tender. Add flour. Stir in broth, tomato paste, brandy, wine, and mushroom liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Adjust seasonings, if necessary. Spoon sauce over chicken pieces. Cover and simmer 30 minutes or until chicken is tender. Stir in sour cream. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Garnish with fresh snipped parsley, if desired. Makes 6 servings.
