PRAYER

I know not by what method rare, But this I know, God answer prayer I know not when He sends the word, That tells us fervent prayer is Heard:

I know it cometh soon or late, Therefore we need to pray and wait I know not the if the blessing sought

Will come to us just the guise of Thought, I leave my prayers with Him alone,

Whose will is wiser than my own. -Selected

Black Religious Leaders Support Census Project

A group of 25 leaders of predominantly black religious and fraternal organizations have agreed to work toward a partnership with the U.S. Census Bureau to encourage their members' participation in the 1990 Census.

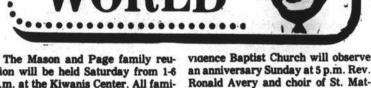

"The congress of National Black Churches has pledged support and cooperation to this project," said Bishop John Hurst Adams, congress chairman. "So many things that affect the black community depend on the census-economic and political power, in particular-that we must work together for the fullest and most accurate count in the 1990 census."

Census officials outlined the scope and importance of the 1990 Census to the black community at a recent oneday meeting with the religious and fraternity leaders. Another meeting is planned for later this year.

Calling the black churches and fraternal orders "the key communicators throughout the nation" with the black community, Census Bureau Director John G. Keane said he welcomed the opportunity to involve them in efforts to improve the census count of minority populations in 1990.

Blacks and other minorities have been undercounted in previous censuses when compared to the overall population. One of the Census Bureau's primary goals for the 1990 Census is to reduce this "differential undercount" as much as possible.

While other Census Bureau officials presented a briefing on plans for reaching black communities, the cnurch and fraternal leaders n numerous suggestions. They included putting more emphasis on how census statistics benefit minority populations and emphasizing the fact that census information about individuals is not shared with other government agencies, institutions, or organiza-remarks, hailed the dynamic leadership of the pastor, Dr. B.C. Young, Sr., and the significant contributions he has made in the city. He was introduced by William Windley, a retired educator.

Speaking on the Men's Day theme, Dr. Monroe took as his text Joshua 14. The guestion was asked, "Where Are the Men?" Joshua was a servant. He had faith This provides a context by which we may prepare leadership which comes by serving. Faith in our God plays an important part. Command respect instead of demanding it. Respect and love will lead to longevity.

There will be a number of obstacles, Dr. Monroe stated, that will come up against black men. They are in a dangerous situation. God is expecting us to be strong men, brave men, etc. Dr. Monroe later appealed to the men to be a united force in their efforts to provide leadership and service to youth and young adults in the city and church.

Study Political Impact On Area BY JANICE M. MGONA

NNPA Correspondent Representatives of the five North

African nations of Morocco, Algeria, Mauritania, Tunisia and Libya met in Tunisis this week to discuss political nd economic issues impacting the region. This summit came on the heels of the global Arab summit.

Tunisian Foreign Minister-Mahmoud Mestiri said that the unification of the Arab stand is a main condition to restore peace in the Middle East and that it is essential Middle East and that it is essential for these nations to find a fair and lasting settlement to establish an in-dependent Palestinian homeland. Recognizing the North African na-tions as members of the Arab world, Mestiri said it is necessary to lay the foundations of economic unity among the countries and to take up the holdeness failer the reise. This he the countries and to take up the challenges facing the region. This, he said, is particularly important given the fact that the European Economic Community absorbs approximately 60 percent of the foreign trade ex-changes from these countries.

Bishop C.D. Coleman of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church said the Census Bureau needed to correct the lack of understanding of the importance of the census and to allay a ear of the census that is part of Biblical history.

"We need a simple statement that the census is not used for purposes that would hurt members of the black community," Bishop Coleman said.

Keane said the Census Bureau would prepare these materials.

Fourth World Assembly Prepares For Seventh Annual Convention

The Fourth World Assembly will convene its seventh gathering at Meredith College in Raleigh, starting Sunday, July 31, and lasting through noon on Thursday, Aug. 4. The Fourth World Assembly was founded in 1966 by Anglican priest and social justice advocate John Papworth of London. Previous assemblies have been held in West Berlin, Larzac, France, New Delhi, Zurich, London and San Francisco. It has attracted such notables as Leopold Kohr, E.F. Schumacher, Yevetshenko, Paul Goodman, Thomas Mertin and Barry Commoner. The Fourth World is the world of the village and the neighborhood, and its goal is to encourage villages and neighborhoods to take control of their own destinies through economic, political and cultural enterprise at the community level. This involves cooperative economics, local self-reliance in all fields; it involves political activity that serves local political activity that serves local needs and seeks local consensus. Per-sons experienced in developing prac-tical endeavors in their own com-munities will lead workshops intended to show how it can be done. There and and and and and will be workshops in decisionmaking, spirituality, bioregionaliam, political power, communications and community economics. Durham's Self-Help Credit Union will be featured in the economics forum; also the Schumacher concepts of "Small is Beautiful." The keynote address on Sunday, Ju-ly 31, at 7:30 p.m. will be given in Losse Auditorium on the Meradith Jones Auditorium on the Meredith campus. Keynoter is Greensboro native and Catholic priest Father Thomas Berry of the Riverdale Center for Religious Research, Bronz, N.Y. Berry states, "If we do not alter our attitude and our activity, our children will live not only amid the ruins of the industrial world but also amid the ruins of the natural world. What is needed is a treaty or spiritual bond between ourselves and the natural, world similar to God's covenant with creation after the flood.

"The natural world is neither our enemy to be conquered, nor our ser-vant to be controlled, nor our mistress to be seduced. It is a pervasive presence beyond all these. It is the ultimate psychic as well as the physical context out of which we emerge into being and by which we are nourished, guided, healed and fulfilled." The keynote talk is open to the public. A fee will be charged for those not registered. Write the Fourth World, 8420 Camelia Drive, Raleigh 27613 for further information.
