

It's Christmas

*Children Around the World
Are United in Love*

This Christmas will be a special time for a lot of special children.

In a mission in Bangladesh, kids will be receiving vitamin supplements and spending time in the first real home they have ever had. In Brazil, a group of ten- and eleven-year olds will be getting their first opportunity to attend school. And in Ethiopia, malnourished infants are receiving life-giving supplements.

The list goes on. Who's making all this possible? It's a group of young kids in the United States who know that Christmas is a time of love. Through HCA: Young Catholics in Mission, a program of mission awareness and global education, elementary school children are learning about their world neighbors. At Christmas and throughout the year, they make the world just a little bit brighter for kids in need.

Founded as the Holy Childhood Association in 1843, HCA funds thousands of children's projects in more than one hundred developing countries. HCA allocations are made without regard to race, national origin or religious preference.

The goal is a simple one: to give to children who need it most.

The task is a difficult one, but HCA members—children ages five to fourteen—are doing their part to make Christmas real for everyone—and to make it last all year long.

HCA members are doing a great job. But they can't do it alone. If you'd like more information on HCA, write to: HCA: Young Catholics in Mission, 1720 Massachusetts Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Probably the most celebrated diamond in the world is the Koh-i-noor, presented to Queen Victoria in 1850 by the East India Company.
