RHA Dedicates New Townhouses

Raleigh Housing Authority plans a dedication ceremony for the newest public housing developments—46 apartments, Terrace Park Townhouses and four duplexes.

Terrace Park consists of 20 duplexes and two triplexes located on Fox Road, off Spring Forest Road near Mini-City.

Construction of this community, and four duplexes that have been built on Ellington Road in Southeast Raleigh, cost $2.3 million, which includes land acquisition, construction and utilities.

Terrace Park had its beginning in December 1984, as a 50-unit apartment complex under an acquisition by the Rehabilitation Program of HUD, and was converted to new construction in November 1985. The site was selected by the Board of Commissioners of the Housing Authority and approved by HUD in November 1986. The site required rezoning which was completed in August 1987. After the rezoning was completed, it was learned that only 46 units could be built on the 10.04-acre site on Fox Road.

In order to retain the remaining four units, the Housing Authority, with the assistance of the Department of Community Development of the City of Raleigh, purchased two lots on Ellington Street on which to build the remaining units.

The site on Ellington Street is part of the South Park Redevelopment plan and was designed for rental units under the plan. The community

The original architect was Troy Herring, who completed the plans and specifications. He died Jan. 2, 1988. The firm of Haskins, Rice, Savage and Pearce assumed the construction administration of Herring's contract for the completion of the development.

With delays in the rezoning and having to advertise for public bids twice, the contract for the construction was awarded to EST Construction Co. of Lillington in February 1988. This construction contract was

UNCF Salutes Dr. Bridges, Contributions

Dr. Robert E. Bridges, former superintendent of Wake County Schools, will be the guest of honor during a banquet saluting his contributions to education in Wake County and the state on Aug. 25 at 7 p.m. at the Mission Valley Inn in Raleigh.

Bridges is a native of South Carolina who grew up in Cleveland County. After completing his undergraduate studies at St. Augustine's College in Raleigh, Bridges received his master's and doctoral degrees from North Carolina State University and Duke University, respectively.

He launched his tenure with the then-Raleigh City Schools as a sixth-grade teacher at Lucille Hunter School and later transferred to the former Ligon High School.

After serving as principal of Crosby-Garfield Elementary School, he was appointed to work in the central office of Raleigh City Schools in the Pupil Personnel Service in 1971. Two years later, he was made assistant superintendent of that division.

When the Raleigh and Wake school systems merged in 1976, Bridges was named assistant superintendent of student services. Four years later he became deputy superintendent of Wake County Schools.

In 1984 Bridges was appointed superintendent of the Wake system

NEWS BRIEFS

NATIONAL NIGHT OUT

The Raleigh Police Department and Raleigh Community Watch participated in the sixth annual National Night Out Aug. 8. Raleigh was one of more than 7,000 communities across the nation joining in this crime prevention program. More than 20 million people were part of this nationwide event, sponsored by the National Town Watch Association. Residents were invited to lock their doors, turn on outside lights and spend the evening outdoors on porches and lawns from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

FIELD MANAGER

Debra Spalding has been appointed field marketing manager for the Raleigh region of Fairfield Inn, the newest lodging chain of the Marriott Corp. As field marketing manager, Spalding will be responsible for the implementation of marketing programs for Fairfield Inns in Raleigh, Fayetteville, Hampton, Virginia Beach, Wilmington and Durham. A seven-year veteran of the hospitality industry, Spalding has directed sales, catering and general hotel functions for Holiday Inn, Raleigh Inn and Royal Villa in Raleigh.

TEACHERS' PAY

Teachers with 20 years or more of experience will get $4,260—or 15 percent—more this year than they did during the 1988-89 school year. They will make nearly $46,000 when the salary plan is fully in place by 1990-92. Many teachers will also have an incentive to postpone retirement for three years, since doing so would give most of them close to a $10,000—or 36 percent—salary boost. The pay raise was recently approved by the General Assembly.

HIGHWAY TRUST FUND

The N.C. Board of Transportation has approved more than $3.4 million from the Highway Trust Fund to pave secondary roads in all of the state's 100 counties. The funds were first allocated from the Highway Trust Fund since it was approved by the N.C. General Assembly last month. Including the trust fund allocations, $101.6 million has been approved for secondary road paving by the board this year. In other action, the board awarded contracts totaling $49.3 million for highway construction work affecting 28 counties statewide.

City Condemns Racial Attack

Two In Brutal Altercation

Members of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights will visit Raleigh next week to gather information on a murder police say was racially motivated.

The murder of Chinese resident Ming Hai Loo, 24, at a pool room in North Raleigh has brought concern from a range of human rights groups as well as condemnation of the incident from the City of Raleigh Human Resources and Human Relations Advisory Commission.

"This is our first recorded incident of bigoted violence directed against Asian-Americans," said Christina Davis-McCoy of North Carolinians Against Racist and Religious Violence. "But North Carolina has often led the country in bigoted attacks against black people and gay people in the 1980s. We extend our sympathy to the entire Asian-American community in North Carolina and intend to work to let them know the alleged actions of the Piche brothers do not represent the feelings of the majority of North Carolinians."

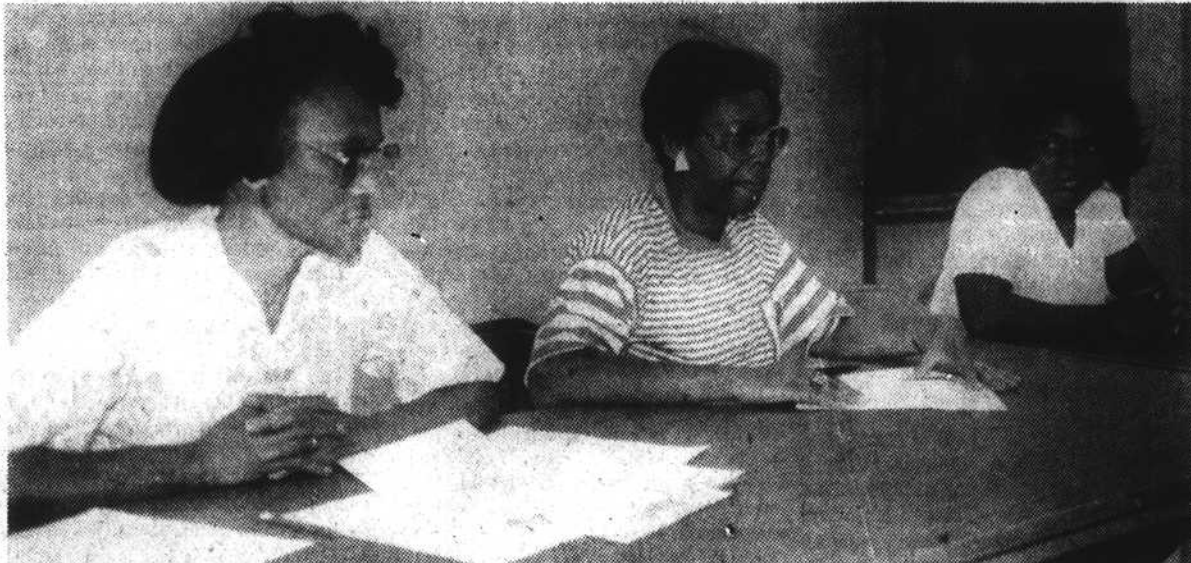

Loo's murder takes place in a rising tide of bigoted violence directed against African-Americans, Asian-Americans and others in the United States. A 1986 U. S. Civil Rights Commission report concluded that anti-Asian violence was a national problem. According to a Wall Street Journal article, the U. S. Department of Justice said that anti-Asian incidents rose 62 percent in 1985

NAACP "Silent March" Calls For Congress To Undertake Remedies

"No Retreat on Civil Rights" has been selected as the theme for the NAACP's Silent March on Saturday, Aug. 26 in Washington, D.C. to protest the four recent adverse rulings by the Supreme Court on affirmative action and minority set-asides, and to call on Congress for legislative remedies, according to Dr. Benjamin L. Hooks, executive director.

Patterned after the famous Silent March of 1917 when thousands of men, women and children marched in silence down New York City's Fifth Avenue, to protest lynching, discrimination and segregation, the 1989 Silent March, which will begin at

False Prophets Of The Investment World Profit Preying On Faithful

Nearly half a billion dollars in investment losses have been suffered since 1985 by more than 15,000 members of religious faiths as a result of the growing number of con artists and schemers who gained the trust of their victims by posing as one of the faithful, according to the August "Investor Alert," North Carolina Securities Administrators Association, Inc., and the Better Business Bureau.

"Preying on the Faithful" details the specifics of major investment schemes and investigations in 15 states, including North Carolina. The schemes range from several born-again financial planners to individuals claiming to be able to provide divinely inspired investment advice about coins, precious metals, oil and gas as well as partnerships. The losses uncovered in these 15 states totaled more than $450 million.

"The problem here is not religion, but the expanding ranks of swindlers who are exploiting religion to fleaze unsuspecting members of the flock," the report said. "The religiously oriented scam is an example of what we call affinity fraud in which a con artist zeroes in on a specific and identifiable group and passes as one of its members in order to put prospective victims at ease."

The Council of Better Business Bureaus president, James H. McIlhenny, observed, "A con artist will go to any length, including exploiting you, your church and your deeply held religious beliefs if they think it will work. They will propose fraudulent investments cloaked in the disguise of your faith or your church. They will take their 30 pieces of silver any way they can get them. However, prudent people will check out claims made by promoters of investments regardless of claims of religious or other affiliations."

In mid-July, Washington communications lawyer Thomas L. Root's

noon, will conclude with a rally at the U.S. Capitol.

"Bit by bit, this Supreme Court is chipping away at the civil rights gains that we and our allies spent years in achieving. It's time now for all of us to stand up and say we are determined that there will be no further retreat on civil rights and we demand that our elected officials safeguard those rights from a Supreme Court that seems determined to turn back the clock," Hooks said.

The gathering point for the marchers will be the Mall, located just off Independence Avenue, N.W., bet-

"Our nation's capital has never seen a march of this nature and given the gravity of the situation it addresses, we are seeking maximum participation from our NAACP branches, churches and other organizations and institutions," Hooks said.

If Congress does not act, then we must call upon our citizenry to mount other demonstrations until our voices are heard and our just demands are acted upon.

"We are not looking toward bringing vast numbers of people to Washington. In this instance, the medium is the message and the medium is the Silent March that bespeaks the seriousness of our dissatisfaction and the need to move without hesitation to correct the mistakes of the court.

"We are reaching out to a cross-section of other national organizations and institutions seeking their participation. We are also sending a message to private citizens who share our concerns to join us in the march."
