Leonard Jeffries Removed From City College Black Studies Chair

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP)—Leonard Jeffries has been removed as chairman of the Black Studies Department at City College of New York in a delayed reaction to racially charged remarks he made about Jews and whites in a speech last summer.

City University's board of trustees voted last week to replace Jeffries just months after the same board reappointed him to an eight-month probationary term rather than the usual three-year term.

His chairmanship ends June 30. The board voted 13-0 to appoint Edmund Gordon, formerly of Yale University, to replace Jeffries as chairman. There was one abstention, from the student representative to the board.

Jeffries came under fire last July when he told an audience at a black arts festival in Albany that Jews and mob-connected Italians conspired to make movies denigrating blacks. He also said, "You can't trust the white boy," and blamed Jews, in part, for the African slave trade.

In January, a former student said that while in Jeffries' class in 1989, she heard him say that "Jews are dogs."

"It was shocking, because I probably wouldn't expect that to come out in a class," the student, Luz Martindel-Campos, said at the time.

Jeffries did not return a call to his office last week. Gordon did not return a call to his home.

Jeffries, who will remain a professor at City College, told the New York Times that he intends to sue over the loss of his department chairmanship and predicted that his supporters including members of the Black Studies staff will protest.

He has said his remarks had been taken out of context or distorted and that he actually is being attacked for his participation on a committee rewriting New York State's curriculum to reflect the diversity of cultures worldwide.

The university in a release focused on the arrival of Gordon.

"I am delighted to have a scholar of Dr. Gordon's stature coming to head City College's Black Studies Department. Dr. Gordon is deeply committed to scholarship and academic excellence," CCNY President Bernard Harleston said.

Gordon's appointment is for a two-year period. He will come to CCNY as a full professor with tenure, said Charles DeCicco, a school spokesman.

Gordon, 70, is a 1942 graduate of Howard University. He has a master's degree in social psychology from American University and a doctorate in teaching from Columbia University.

Gordon has taught at Yeshiva University, Columbia, the University of Pittsburgh and Yale.

Anita Hill Lectures At Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Law professor Anita Hill, the woman who nearly derailed Clarence Thomas' nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court, returned last week to Yale Law School, her alma mater, to give a lecture on sexual harassment.

Hill, who graduated from Yale in 1980, gained national attention in October with allegations that Thomas had sexually harassed her a decade earlier when she worked for him at the Education Department and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

She testified about the allegations during Thomas' nomination hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Dean Guido Calabresi invited Hill in December to come speak at Yale, the school said. Hill is a professor at the University of Oklahoma.

Calabresi testified last September in favor of Thomas' nomination before the Senate Judiciary Committee, while four prominent black law professors, including one from Yale, opposed the nomination.

Triangle DARE Sets Dance Here

Triangle DARE Challenge wants the public to come have a good time as they enjoy the music and fun at the 1992 DARE Dance Jamboree to be held Sunday at the Raleigh Civic Center from noon to 8:30 p.m. Participants are asked to make a donation of at least $5 as they enjoy the music, exhibition dancing, dance lessons and the Grand Dance Party.

Triangle DARE Challenge is organized by the City of Raleigh Police Department under the auspices of the North Carolina DARE

Board of Directors, chaired by Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation.

The Dance Jamboree is one of a series of events to help raise money for DARE programs across the Triangle. Participating DARE programs include the Raleigh, Durham, Garner, Knightdale, Cary, Chapel Hill, Apex and Wake Forest police departments and the Wake, Durham and Orange County sheriff's departments. Triangle DARE Challenge also helps raise community awareness about the anti-drug program.

DARE, which stands for Drug Abuse Resistance Education, is a school-based program for fifth-graders that is designed to teach them self-esteem and the dangers of drug abuse. DARE officers visit the schools daily, developing close relationships with the youngsters.

Major sponsors for Triangle DARE Challenge are the City of Raleigh, Golden Corral, Glaxo, Cooper Tools, SAS Institute, IBM and Central Carolina Bank.
