

GOOD FREE BALL DEFEATS KITTENS IN LAST SECONDS

Kitty Hawk Scheduled to Meet Moyock Friday, Perquimans Tuesday

Kitty Hawk.—Losing by only one point, Kitty Hawk girls' basketball team was defeated by Camden, there, by a 40-39 score, Tuesday night. The game was hard fought all the way, the score standing at 17-17 at the half. Seconds before the final gun, the score was 39-39, but a foul on the part of Kitty Hawk gave Camden a free throw, which was good.

Kitty Hawk boys went down for a 52-14 defeat at the hands of Camden.

Playing the previous Friday night at Weeksville, the Kittens couldn't seem to connect with the basket and dropped the game 43-14. The same night, Weeksville boys slapped down the Kitty Hawk 64-38.

Kitty Hawk is scheduled to go to Moyock Friday night of this week, when the Kittens will attempt to repeat their earlier victory over the Moyock girls. Next Tuesday's games will be with Perquimans.

Both boys' and girls' teams, with Coach William Miller and other members of the faculty were entertained at a barbecue Wednesday afternoon after school. Walter Perry and B. A. Tillett prepared the barbecue.

MAGAZINE ARTICLE PICTURE FAMILIAR

Nags Head.—The current issue of Life magazine proved of unusual interest to readers here because it carried an article illustrated by photographs, some of them taken here.

The article was the second in a series on "The World We Live In." This article was entitled "Miracle of the Sea."

Pictures were taken by Fritz Goro, who was on the beach some months ago. One of the pictures, in color, shows the sharp line maintained between blue and green water where the Gulf Stream meets the ocean. In the picture, the shadow of the blimp from Elizabeth City, in which Goro flew, lies across the meeting of blue and green water.

BUSINESS FORCES DANIELS TO ADD TO NEW BUILDING

Supply Firm Also Busy With Construction Activities on Beach, Roanoke Island

Nags Head.—One of the newer businesses to be established on the beach is the Daniels Building Supply, located across the road and near the Shriners club. It is operated by Llewellyn Daniels and Ward Daniels, brothers-in-law, and their nephew, Willie Daniels, all of Wanchese. Between them they have something like 50 years of building experience.

Since they opened the business last October, it has grown so much that recently they had to add to the building to allow for expansion.

Besides carrying a full line of building supplies, they are contractors, who not only erect the house, but do the wiring and plumbing, or, as Ward Daniels explains, "from the roof to the septic tank."

Buildings they have erected are dotted all along the beach, from Southern Shores to Oregon Inlet, and on Roanoke Island from Wanchese to Fort Raleigh City.

Among the work they are doing are two houses on Roanoke Island. One is for Hugh Tillett, at Wanchese. It is a two-bedroom frame cottage, which will be completed in a couple of weeks.

The other is a cottage facing the sound, at Fort Raleigh City, for Miss Elizabeth Welch of Winston-Salem. This also is a two-bedroom home with living room, kitchen and bath. It is of frame construction.

On the beach, the Daniels are erecting two apartments for H. L. Warren of Whaleville, Va. Located on Lakeside avenue, they are of frame construction with built up roofs and attached garages. Mr. Warren plans to occupy one and rent the other.

Not far away, on Highway 158, the firm is building an addition to a cottage owned by Dal H. Williams of Elizabeth City. The addition consists of a double garage, attached to the house, with a large bedroom above.

Farther up the beach, they are remodeling a cottage for Dr. W. W. Johnston of Manteo. He bought the old wartime hospital at the Kitty Hawk Coast Guard station, now inactive. Dr. Johnston is having it completely remodeled, to provide a living room, kitchen, three bedrooms and two baths.

For W. H. Cartwright of South Mills, the Daniels firm has completed a two story building around the curve toward the Currituck Sound bridge, near Journey's End. The lower floor will be used for a store, with space provided for a utility room and storage space. Above is an apartment with living room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath, which Mr. Cartwright plans to occupy with his family. He also will operate the store.

Near the store he is preparing to have two 14x40 units, each of which will include two apartments. These, like the store building, will be of frame construction.

The Daniels have almost completed the 20-unit motor court they have built for Archie Burrus of Manteo. It is located on the ocean side of Highway 158, in the Nags Head area. These are brick veneer buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Erickson of Kill Devil Hills have been the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gregory, several days this week.

Will Supply Music for Dance to Raise Funds in Polio Campaign

Colington.—Those attending a party here Feb. 21, sponsored by the Colington Community club, will dance to the music of a juke box furnished by Ras Westcott of the Casino. After the club bought the former school building, Mr. Westcott sent word he would donate a juke box but this is the first dance the club has had since his offer.

Proceeds from the dance will be applied on the community's contribution to the March of Dimes drive. Committees soliciting from house to house have secured approximately $18 and have not yet finished the canvass.

In addition, jars have been placed in stores so that contributors can drop coins in them as they finish their purchases and receive change.

Nags Head.—As Sunday was Jeffrey Midgette's birthday, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jethro Midgette, Jr., entertained a few of his friends. After informal entertainment, ice cream and cake were served.

One of the attractions was a parakeet, which Mr. and Mrs. Midgette gave their son for his birthday. The boy accompanied his father to Norfolk, Va., Saturday to get it, and named the bird Trinkle.

Those besides the honoree attending the party were Sherry Johnston, Sheila Reber, Eddie Reber, Jr., Charles Reber, Hughes Tillett, Jr., Elwood Pridgen and Miss Carmen Pridgen, the latter two his cousins.

She had been ill some time of asthma and pneumonia set in. From Thursday to Sunday she was kept under an oxygen tent. Even now she is not permitted to have company and she cannot have flowers in the room, because of the asthmatic condition, which they aggravate.

MYSTERIOUS BLAST OF HEAT ALARMS

Colington.—Was it restless spirits whose presence so startled four Colington youths, as they were walking home Monday night? Or could there be some ordinary, commonplace explanation of their experience?

The youths aren't very eager to investigate further.

Vernon Perry, Dave Williams, Bobby Gaimel and Bobby Meekins were walking along the road, when they felt a blast of hot air strike their legs. It did not rise higher than their knees. The hot wind continued for a space of about 25 feet, but the boys got away from there, but quick.

BANKS ELOPEMENT IN 1933 RECALLED BY ANNIVERSARY

Colington.—Two anniversaries will be celebrated by the Walter Williams family this month. Feb. 24 will be Mr. and Mrs. Williams' 20th wedding anniversary and the following day will be the fifteenth birthday of their son, Walter David.

The wedding anniversary observance will be calm, compared to the excitement of Mr. and Mrs. Williams' elopement. Miss Madeline Quidley of Avon before her marriage, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Quidley, vigorously opposed the Colington man's attentions. To have dates with him, the young lady met him at the home of her grandmother or the home of Williams' cousin.

Piece by piece, she slipped out enough clothing to the homes of friends so that she could leave. Then on Feb. 24, 1933, the two of them set out for Hatteras, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Saunders Gray. They were followed there by the Rev. A. W. Price of Avon, who married them at the home of Dr. Kinfield. Although they had told the Rev. Mr. Price he should perform the ceremony, they were afraid to tell him their plans for fear the bride's parents would get wind of them. However, the minister heard about it and followed them. When they heard him, they were sure it was Mr. Quidley.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Quidley did hear the secret and went to Hatteras, arriving after the wedding. He invited them home, but the bridegroom's pride was offended and he would not go. However, when Mr. and Mrs. Williams started to Colington next day by the mail boat, Mr. Quidley was at the landing with his daughter's clothes that she had left at home. A week later the happy pair went to Colington, to be received with open arms by both Mr. and Mrs. Quidley.

It was in Colington that the couple met. Madeline Quidley and Selma Peterson, on their way to Norfolk, Va., spent the night with the latter's grandmother, the late Mrs. Lavina Perry, and at her house the Avon girl met her future husband. At that time he was a fisherman, but he now is a carpenter.

After three years in Colington, they went to Avon to live. In another three years they returned to Colington.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams have four children, Ernest, David, Janice and Christine.

Although club members expressed themselves vigorously in favor of the gymnasium, they took no definite action on the proposal.
