DOLPHIN COURT ADDS SERVING OF BREAKFAST

Crabapple Stone Fireplace, Unusual Furnishings Distinguishing Dining Room

Nags Head. — Something new has been added at the Dolphin Motor Court on the Oregon Inlet road. It's a breakfast room, primarily for guests in the court. Others, however, can get breakfast there any time during the morning.

To be accurate, it's the serving breakfasts that is new at the Dolphin, not the room. Most of the court's office has been turned into a breakfast room, with room for 12 people to be served at three large tables. The white pine captain's chairs, drop leaf tables and round table centered with a lazy Susan are of North Carolina manufacture and so unusual as to attract many enthusiastic comments and questions from breakfasters.

A roomy fireplace adds a cozy note to the room, even in summer when no fire is needed. Occupying most of one side of the room, the fireplace is built of crabapple stone, with shelves of the same material extending out under windows at each side of the chimney.

Come Labor Day, the Dolphin will celebrate its first birthday under its present management, though the court was actually opened the previous Fourth of July. Mrs. Bertha Sample of Elizabeth City is assisted in operating the Dolphin by her daughter, Miss Emily J. White, as hostess, and her son, Robert J. White, as business manager. Miss White and her brother are grandchildren of the late Miles Jennings, who in an earlier day operated a blacksmith shop in Elizabeth City and who was widely known among residents along the coast.

Mrs. Cora Mae Basnight of Manteo, who has been with the Dolphin since it was opened, serves as assistant hostess. Besides the family, six persons are employed.

The Dolphin has 32 units, 29 of which are for rent. Each consists of a twin or double bedroom with ceramic tile bath. The walls are plastered and the floor is tile.

When the breakfast idea was put into effect recently, the kitchen had to be slightly remodeled to meet the new demands on it. Otherwise, the development was accomplished with few changes.

When the Dolphin was built, ample provision was made for parking. The units, set around a wide U, have driveway and parking space, and more parking provision was made at the front, where two entrances turn off the road into the grounds.

Porch shade the units, and these have proved so popular with the guests that Mrs. Sample plans to have them screened as an additional convenience for guests.

The Dolphin, on the oceanside of the highway, has a generous beach, gently sloping to the water.
