

20,000 SPEEDING IN NINE MONTHS IN N. C.

Raleigh. — State Highway Patrolmen arrested 2,318 Tar Heel motorists for speeding in September making a nine month total of 20,670 speed law violators apprehended by the patrol.

Driving without an operator's license followed closely in the list of violations reported by the patrol for September. It came to 1,198 with reckless driving in third place with 694.

The three violations customarily head the list of motor offenses reported monthly by the Highway Patrol.

The report further revealed the following miscellaneous violations: faulty equipment, 747; failing to stop for stop sign, 647; improper lights, 334; driving on wrong side of the road, 221; following too closely, 201; and failing to give the right-of-way, 191.

Combined, the September figures made a total of 7,372 North Carolinians found guilty of moving violations. Out of State offenders added another 1,211.
