Although refined and greatly improved, the principle of the modern cotton gin is basically the same as that developed by Eli Whitney in 1793.

Food Freezers Checked...

Find Them to Be Good Investments

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau
Are farm and home freezers a good investment? Well, let's see what 114 families had to say about them when interviewed recently by staff specialists from Cornell University. All of the families had owned food freezers for 5 years or more. Thirty-five lived on farms, 43 in urban communities, and 36 re-frozen food than they normally would get for daily needs. They cooked what they needed for one meal and froze the rest for later use. A number of the freezer owners said they found it was easier, faster and more efficient to preserve food by freezing than by other methods. Better year-round eating and the ability to serve "more interesting meals" also appealed to a large group.

FOOD FREEZERS—pay their own way in many farm homes.

sided in rural areas but did not operate farms.

To the question—"has your food freezer paid its way"—105 of the 114 families answered yes. Nine said they weren't sure, but added that they wouldn't be without one. Fifty-seven percent of the total cited convenience as the top quality offered by food freezers. The word, "convenience," can mean a host of things from ease of food preservation and storage, to having at hand a wide variety of cakes, pies, meat and vegetables ready to serve at a moment's notice.

Eighteen percent said food freezers helped them to save money. Many of them quick-froze their own home-grown products. Others bought —at quantity prices—larger amounts of poultry, meat and commercially Enjoying out-of-season foods is one of the pleasures available to freezer owners. Fruit, sweet corn and vegetables can be just as tasty at Christmas time as when they arrive fresh from the garden if they have been prepared and frozen correctly. Instruction books on using freezers are available from all freezer manufacturers.

Preparation of meals is made easier with a freezer. Foods are ready to cook without peeling or washing. They cook faster, and you can prepare whole meals days and weeks ahead of any special occasion. Freezing retains more of the food value than any other methods of food preservation. Valuable vitamins and minerals are frozen in. And frozen food holds its natural color and taste.

MANY OPENINGS IN COAST GUARD SERVICE

The Coast Guard announces its recruiting quota in the Fifth District is now unlimited. All young men between the ages of 17 and 26, or ex-Servicemen, are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to launch an exciting career in the United States Coast Guard.

For many months the Coast Guard recruiting quotas have been very limited, and for extended periods recruiting was stopped altogether. As a result, many people have the idea that it is quite impossible to get into the Coast Guard. In contrast, unlimited quotas have just been assigned to recruiting offices in this district by Coast Guard Headquarters.

Eligible recruits will be destined for a life of adventure, service to mankind, and opportunity. A Coast Guard career offers excellent food and pay, rapid advancement, and a number of interesting jobs. The Fifth Coast Guard District has recruiting offices in Durham and Wilmington, N. C., Baltimore, Md., and Arlington and Norfolk in Virginia. For further information, contact the one nearest you.
