DESPITE BLUEBIRD WEATHER, HUNTERS FIND MANY DUCKS

Much Fine Sport Reported All Around on Dare County Coast Wednesday

The opening day of the Wildfowl season brought usual bluebird weather to the Dare County coast, despite which some duck hunting was reported from various sections. In the Rodanthe area, Capt Levene Midgett came ashore with his limit of ducks, which took most of the day, so far away were they flying.

L. E. Parker, Portsmouth, Va furniture dealer, who spent the night at Mirlo Beach Lodge, Rodanthe, accompanied by Charles R. Lively, went hunting with Bill Meekins, and went back to Portsmouth at lunch time with two

Bad luck came to Fulton Whidbee and Arvin Midgett of Manteo, when duck hunting was so good north of Oregon Inlet, they got above their limit and were promptly picked up by a Federal warden, and like many another during a season, they will have to pay before a U. S. Commissioner next

From Kitty Hawk and Caffeys which was considered good for the kind of weather which prevailed. The wind being light, few geese were flying, although the rest areas are full of them. There are an estimated 50,000 geese strutting around the Pea Island Wildlife Refuge at Rodanthe, and the greatest number of ducks noted there in recent years.

LOSE SOME $70,000

A movement has been started on the behalf of other districts in Dare County seeking the re-allocation of some $70,000 in school funds heretofore set aside to apply on construction of an elementary school at Kitty Hawk, according to reports reaching this newspaper.

Dare County's school system.

Citizens of Kitty Hawk district are now arranging to hold a special election, on January 5 next, with a new registration of voters for the purpose of voting a $200, 000 bond issue to build a $270,000 building at Kitty Hawk. Previously, after a spirited fight for construction of a high school, they had started a movement to withdraw from Dare County. This week It is reported that there is very Dare about 35 years ago.
