

INFORMATION ON WELFARE BUDGET IN DARE GIVEN

Every dollar of county tax money in the 1957-58 public assistance budget of the Dare County department of public welfare will bring nearly $9 of State and Federal money to the county.

This and other facts about the finances and services of the county department of public welfare were brought out this week by Pamel A. Tillett of Kitty Hawk, chairman of the Dare County Board of Public Welfare, in a discussion of that department's assistance budget.

County money for three public assistance categories—old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and aid to the permanently and totally disabled—will amount to $12,870 in the budget for 1957-58 as approved by the board of public welfare and the commissioners. This is only $370 more county money than was budgeted last year for this purpose, despite the fact that $4,726 more is being made available from State and Federal funds this year, Mr. Tillett said.

The county tax money will bring an additional $112,946 to the county from State and Federal sources. Previous year's needs, population trends, and other factors help determine the amounts in the budget set up each year. Each category has its own formula of Federal and State matching.

In the budget for old age assistance, $4,910 of county money is set up. When State and Federal funds are added, a total of $56,760 is anticipated as the need for this year. Mr. Tillett indicated that this will provide for 110 cases of needy persons 65 years of age and older who will receive an average of about $43 per month. Helpful non-financial services are given these recipients and other people in need of services in addition to the financial aid.

A total of 150 persons are expected to need aid to dependent children each month in this year and will receive an average of $20 each month. The sum of $2,350 of county money in the budget will provide $35,000 for this purpose when State and Federal funds are added.

In the aid to the permanently and totally disabled, it is anticipated that 66 persons will need a monthly average of $43. The county puts in $5,610 of the total of $34,056 budgeted for this purpose.

Administration Budget "There is no increase this year in county tax funds for the administration of public welfare in the county," said Mr. Tillett, in discussing the items in the department's 1957-58 administrative budget.

The sum of $9,777 of county tax funds is included in the total administrative budget of $18,950. Though the total for administration is $1,237 more than was used last year, no part of this amount of additional money will come from county tax funds, according to Mr. Tillett's statement. Additional State and Federal funds made up this difference.

The annual administrative budget, a part of the total budget of the department of public welfare is determined by estimates based upon needs as demonstrated in previous years, current costs of rent, travel, salaries, supplies, etc., and other factors. The county welfare board makes up a budget based upon needs and county money available. This preliminary budget is then cleared with the State Board of Public Welfare which indicates the amount of State and Federal money that will be available to match county funds allotted to this purpose. The final budget, is approved by both the county welfare board and the county commissioners, Mr. Tillett stated.

The number of staff needed in the department and the division of responsibilities is based upon the number of cases being handled and other factors, Mr. Tillett said. The salaries and qualifications of the staff are a part of the Merit System in use statewide in accordance with standards set forth in Federal legislation affecting public welfare administration.

In addition to administering the public assistance program which determines the eligibility of applicants and their need for financial assistance, the administrative budget provides staff which renders various types of non-financial services to people in need of these services. Typical of these are: handling adoptions, rendering many kinds of child welfare services, supervising boarding homes for adults and foster homes for children. The public welfare department performs many services for State agencies, like the Department of Labor, which do not have county offices.

The 1957-58 budget of the Dare County department of public welfare includes salaries, travel, office expense, expense of board members attending public welfare meetings, and similar items. The items included are in accordance with a statewide plan. State and Federal auditors, as well as the county auditor, review and audit all public welfare accounts, Mr.

RETURN TO SCHOOL, ADVICE GIVEN WORKING TEEN-AGERS

Raleigh.—State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane today urged teen-agers who have been working this summer to resign from their jobs and go back to the classrooms when the school bells ring this fall.

"The more schooling you have, the higher your adult buying power will be," Crane advised the youngsters. "Every year of schooling increases adult income. The average high school graduate earns almost as much at age 25 average high school graduate makes at 45."

Crane cited the 1950 Census, which showed that men high school graduates, at age 25 and over, earned an average of $752 a year more than men who had quit school after completing the 8th grade. Women high school graduates earned $675 a year more than 8th grade graduates.

He also called attention to a U. S. Chamber of Commerce study which showed that retail sales to high school graduates in 145 American cities were 20 per cent higher than sales to people who had quit school after finishing the 8th grade.

Crane commended the more than 7,000 Tar Heel teen-agers who were issued employment certificates this summer for their spirit and initiative in taking advantage of vacation job opportunities.

"The same initiative should now take you back to the classrooms," he said. "Only a good education can give you the real break you need. The long haul ahead is the really important thing for you."

Tillett pointed out. "A comparison with expenditures for the administration of the department of public welfare in previous years shows that there has been less than a 20 percent increase in county funds over the past four years. This has been despite the sharp upswing in the child population and the higher costs of most items included in welfare administration.

County money set up in the 1957-58 administrative budget of the public welfare department of Dare County is $9,777. This is exactly the same amount expended from county money for this purpose in 1956-57. In 1955-56 the county's part was $9,289; in 1954-55 Dare County's part was $8,124; in 1953-54 it was $8,532; and in 1952-53 the county paid $7,900.

RET. OFFICER TO OPERATE TYRRELL SPORTSMANS CAMP

Major Luther F. Scott, retired from the Air Force at Pope Air Force Base, Fayetteville, early this month after 21 years of military service in order to devote himself to hunting and fishing near Columbia. His last Air Force assignment was with the 4716th Ground Observer Squadron at Durham.

With his wife, Mary J., and children, Neil 15, Gary 13, and Susan 6, the retired major plans to operate a hunting and fishing camp called "Trail's End" on the Little Alligator River, 8 miles east of Columbia on US Highway 64.

Major Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Scott, of Paintsville, Ky. Mrs. Scott is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Jones, of Oak Ridge, Tenn.

He attended Paintsville High School in Paintsville, Ky., graduating in 1934. Major Scott also attended Arizona State University from 1938 to 1939 where he studied accounting.

REMINISCENCES FROM A FOOL KILLER

By BILLY ARTHUR (In The Chapel Hill Weekly)

Why is it when you or I are driving a nail and hit the thumb instead, and then go hopping around and jumping and whirling in the wildest contortions of agony, and slinging the hand as if trying to get rid of the lacerated thumb, someone is sure to ask, "Does it hurt?"

It always happens, but why? The average answer is "that's just the way things are."

Why? Take me, for instance. If I see a fight, I try to keep the crowd back so the fighters will get a fair deal.

When a man is run over or hurt, I run for help, phone the police, help load him into an ambulance—all so I can see how badly he's hurt and get a lot of first-hand information.

I attend all parades and fires. But I only work or help out when no one else apparently is attending to his duties. And at fires my work is altogether in a supervisory and critical capacity.

When a musician or a band comes to town, I always attend by standing near the open windows and doors, because no better entertainment can be had anywhere for less money.

Why? Horace Greely Miller inferentially asked the same questions in the old Moravian Falls Fool Killer when he pointed out: "A fellow with more cunning, alacrity, superior acumen or fool luck runs across a valuable gem and claims to be its sole owner simply because he beat somebody else to it. That's discovery."

"A man holds stock and sits in a shack or lies in the shade and earns nary a nickel. That's income."

"Another man has no income and does nothing useful. He's a tramp."

"A musician composes a masterpiece, sells it for bread to keep from begging or stealing. After he's dead, another man copy-rights it and gets rich. That's genius."

"A skilled worker takes a little straw worth two cents, a few feathers worth five cents, a nickel's worth of ribbon and conjures up a combination of indistinguishable and senseless form which serves for a lady's head-gear. That's art."

"A hat and frock go out of style, and wife or daughter wouldn't have it as a gift. Next year it comes back into style, and father sells a cow and a calf and buys it. That's fashion."

"A man invests his money in the right thing at the right time and gets rich. He's a financier."

"Another invests his money in the wrong thing, earns dollars for the stockholders. That's labor."

"An uneducated man labors for $1.50 a day and earns dollars for the stockholders. That's labor."

"The officials exercise lordship over the nation. That's statescraft."

"The soldier fights for it. That's patriotism."

"The priest prays for it. That's divinity."

"The attorney pleads for it. That's the law."

"And the masses make every red cent of the wealth and then foot the whole darned bill. That's production."

Why? Now back to driving that nail and hitting the thumb and the man asking if it hurts. Although we know sympathy has prompted the question, we cannot resist that tantalizing, longing, uncontrollable desire to be perverse, and answer: "No, it doesn't hurt a bit. Right now I'm trying to learn how to rock 'n roll."

Why is that?
