SUPT. OF DARE SCHOOLS IS TAR HEEL OF WEEK

Mary Langston Evans Receives Recognition As Leader in Education in One of N. C.'s Remote Areas

Mary Langston Evans, Superintendent of Dare County Schools was chosen last Sunday as Tar Heel of the Week, by the News and Observer. The story written by Jane Hall gives this energetic leader in the field of education high praise for her ability and accomplishments. Below is a small excerpt from Miss Hall's story:

Since 1951, when she became superintendent, Mary Evans has presided at a program of consolidation that has seen the absorption of 11 schools—many of them one-teacher schools—into five modern school plants.

As superintendent, Mrs. Evans directs the activities of 1,200 students and 44 faculty members.

Still Work To Do

"Our school-building program is up-to-date and now," she said, "we're working to improve our instructional program. Vocational home economics was added in Manteo High School this year and gradually will be included in the curriculum of the other schools. In September, we are planning to add an industrial arts course in Manteo High School.

"We've also begun a general testing program—testing mental ability and achievement—although prior to this we tested either specific children or gave tests in specific subjects. The results of testing are meaningless," she commented, "unless teacher judgment is included.

"Dare County's remoteness has, at times, made it difficult to obtain teaching personnel. For instance, this year is the first in which we have had a sufficient number of science teachers. As a result, we have been able to take advantage of the National Defense Education Act in getting needed science equipment."

Because Dare County lies on the North Carolina coast and embraces the State's outermost reaches, the Outer Banks, a superintendent has to keep always in mind certain geographical peculiarities that affect the operation of the county schools.

DARE COUNTY MET BLOOD QUOTA ON FIRST TRY OUT

Dare County now has Red Cross sponsorship for its needs for blood under the Red Cross Blood Program, according to a report just released by Floyd B. Taylor, Chairman of the Program for the County. The Tidewater Regional Blood Center sent its Bloodmobile to Dare County on May 19-20, for an assigned quota of 160 pints of blood. On May 19, the Bloodmobile set up at Cape Hatteras High School, for Hatteras and Ocracoke Islanders, the latter a part of Hyde County too far removed from the mainland to make it conveniently possible for its residents to donate blood in the regular program of their own County.

Tommy L. Donaldson, Coast Guardsman, of Ocracoke Island was first donor, followed by Christopher Gaskill, also of Ocracoke, a National Park Service employee. A total of 62 donations were received.

On May 20 the Bloodmobile moved to Manteo High School and an additional 113 pints of blood were received, making the total donations 175, or 15 over the 160 quota requirement. An additional 50 persons presented themselves to donate blood but were rejected, in the course of the two-day visit.

Red Cross nurses and technicians who accompanied the Bloodmobile from its base in Norfolk included: Miss Margaret Cordovana, Chief Nurse, and nurses: Mrs. Margaret Lilly; Mrs. Shirley Bright; Mrs. Peggy Campastro; and Miss Alice Selby; and Technicians Hobart Houck and William Kirk. Local (Dare County) doctors who were present with the Red Cross staff, included: Dr. Thomas C. Suther, Jr., and Dr. Grace S. Jaynes, for Hatteras Island and, Dr. W. W. Johnston and Dr. W. W. Harvey, Jr., for the Manteo High School station.

A RICHMOND MAN GETS BLUE MARLIN OFF HATTERAS

Joseph T. Heistand of Richmond, who year before last caught a 580 pound blue marlin off Hatteras that became a runner for the world's record in 1958, caught another whopper on Wednesday.

Skipping bait from Albatross II in Eral Foster's fleet Heistand boated a 410 blue marlin, the largest of the species taken so far this season. His fish measured 10 foot and 10 inches in length and 57 inches around the girth. His skipper was Capt. Bill Foster.

Largest of the season to date was a 386 pounder landed on May 20 by John Wood of Princess Anne, Va. He was exploiting waters of the Gulf Stream southeast of Diamond Lightship when he made the catch. The big fish measured 11 foot and four inches in length, 52 inches around the girth and 46 inches across the tail. It took Wood only 19 minutes to boat the fish after it had hit the bait. He used 39 thread line on a 12/0 hook to make the catch. Wood was fishing from his new cruiser Olive E.

Catches of blue marlin to date are trailing last season's May take primarily because of sea conditions. Last year conditions were perfect but choppy waters and windy weather have kept many billfishermen in port along the Outer Banks this year.

EXCELLENT CATCHES OF LARGE MOUTH BASS MADE

MANTEO.—Late Spring casting for large mouth bass has been up to par in the well stocked lakes, canals, and fresh water bays of the Dare Coast-Outer Banks area.

Two of the outstanding catches made this year in late May was an eight-pounder landed by W. T. Mason, of Greensboro, in Kitty Hawk Bay. He was using a Johnson spook with pork rind; from the same waters a few days earlier A. D. Redwine of Atlanta, Ga., reeled in a six and one quarter pounder. He was also using a Johnson spook lure. Mason of Greensboro and his fishing companion Fred Eichhorn, caught 52 fish weighing 72 pounds from Kitty Hawk Bay in three days. They were guided by James Beasley of Colington.

Many anglers fishing the fresh waters of East and South Lake on the Dare mainland near Manns Harbor have gotten their limits without difficulty during the past week.

"In addition to large mouth bass, they have been catching quantities of bream, perch and other species," reported Roy Midgett a Manns Harbor guide.

The fish from the mainland lakes have been taken with a variety of lures ranging from spoons and plugs to popping bugs.

PRIMARY ELECTION MAY 28, 1960

It is beginning to look as if the biggest vote yet cast in county and state will turn out in the Primary, Saturday, the 28th. There are four candidates running for Governor; there are contests for U. S. Senator, State Senator, Congressman and Representative. Most county offices up for election this year are also being contested.

Chief of interest in the state is the Governor's race. Terry Sanford, John D. Larkins, Malcolm Seawell and I. Beverly Lake are waging vigorous campaigns. A lot of money is being spent this year.

U. S. Senator B. Everett Jordan is opposed by Addison Hewlett of Wilmington. For the two places in the State Senate from the Second District there are three candidates. Senator Lindsay C. Warren of Washington, who will naturally lead the ticket, and Dick O'Neal of New Holland and P. D. Midgett, Jr. of Engelhard. Mr. O'Neal has served two terms as Hyde's representative. The contest in this race is considered as who'll win second place. Mr. Midgett, being widely related in Dare County, having been reared at Wanchese, has a strong following in Dare.

One of the most hotly contested races is that of Walter Jones of Farmville who hopes to unseat Congressman Herbert Bonner. Jones appears to be well-heeled with money, and has maintained an intensive campaign. Bonner's friends do not believe Jones will be successful, and some Pitt County leaders say he will lose his own county. There are numerous odd angles to the support that has developed for Jones. For instance, in a county for which Bonner has done so much, those in charge of the courthouse have so little regard for county property in their care, they have plastered the front with Jones signs. A further comment is the habit of some of Jones' supporters of tearing down Bonner signs when put up on the streets.

Dare County observers believe Bonner will carry 80 per cent of the county's vote. Senator Everett Jordan is considered an easy winner in the county as well as State. In the Governor's race Terry Sanford and John D. Larkins, Jr. are names most mentioned on the local scene with comparatively little interest here in Malcolm Seawell and Dr. Lake. However, some momentum has been gained by Mayor R. H. Cook of Kill Devil Hills in stirring up support for Seawell, for Mr. Cook has canvassed Dare and other counties.

A campaign which came as a surprise is the contest in which M. K. Fearing, Jr. attempts to unseat veteran Representative R. Bruce Etheridge. Working through members of the Young Democratic organization, Mr. Fearing pins much hope on their support. Both men have waged a thorough campaign.

A campaign has been developing on the Board of Commissioners, with all members being opposed. Chief effort is directed toward getting C. C. Duvall back on the Board, and also Lawrence Swain of Manteo. In this alignment, appears David Stick leading the campaign with a radio and pamphlet barrage. Stick has been aligned with this group with the Sheriff's office as the center for a long time. Mr. Duvall served on the Board from 1948 to 1958, eight years as chairman. Mr. Swain served eight years on the board. Resentment rose to a high pitch two years ago following a period of wasteful spending, neglect in collecting taxes, and employment of an imported firm of tax appraisers. Following this tax appraisal, investors got sore with the county, building slowed up on the beaches, and the loss to the people has been tremendous, in addition to $22,000 paid out for the tax appraisal job. It would cost another $22,000 to get it straightened out, and tax values are widely inequitable and out of line. The Board had also spent $3,000 to hold an election for a vote on building a jail. The vote went three to one against it, but their wishes were disregarded.

In the interest of the campaign of Duvall, Swain and Stick, a lot of promises are being made, particularly about building harbors for small boats. One promise has concerned building a $25,000 See VOTE, Page Four
