COASTAL COUNTIES JUBILANT OVER SWEEPING DEMOCRATIC ELECTIONS HELD THIS WEEK

Improvement in Governmental Programs Anticipated With Knowledge That State and Nation Will Operate Under Unified Democratic Administrations; Dare County Gave Majority to All Democratic Candidates.

Democrats of coastal North Carolina are jubilant this week, the outcome of Tuesday's election which swept into office Jack Kennedy for President, Terry Sanford for Governor, Herbert Bonner for Congress, the usual statewide Democratic officials, and a Democratic Senate and House in Washington. This outcome has much meaning to North Carolina and the South, in that it offers promise of more recognition in Washington with possibly a cabinet member to come from North Carolina.

In Dare County there was much rejoicing that through hard work, and against unusual opposition not heretofore encountered, the county went back to giving the usual Democratic majority for president. In 1956 it went Republican. Despite the fact that this time hundreds of people, many of whom had not voted in years, turned out to vote against Kennedy, the loyal Democrats in the county rolled up their sleeves, went to work and rolled up a majority.

It was hardly expected that the combined vote from off Hatteras Island, which has received far more in benefits from State Government than any other area, and many times over the amount of taxes it pays, from the County government, should turn so heavily against the Democrats at all levels. The Island was carried by Nixon and G. W. Warren, and Republican county candidates also got majorities. However it has been traditionally rock-ribbed Republican ranging up to 75 per cent, and only in the days of the Depression and the New Deal when many government benefits were being dispensed, did the registration switch to the Democratic party. Yet at the same time, many citizens say they are registered as Democrats only that they may participate in the Democratic primary, having no special interest in the party and apparently little loyalty to it. In 1956 the area went heavily for Eisenhower.

The Democratic office holders have never ignored them nor punished them for lack of support of the party, but have striven to bring about great benefits for the area, so that for many years, the county has been disbursing on the island a far greater amount of county taxes per capita than goes to any other area, and from national and state funds high benefits have exceeded by far those dispensed in any other area of the state, size and population, as well as auto registration considered. This is a remarkable tribute to the fairness and dedication of the Democrats in power, that they never let politics stifle their desire to help all citizens regardless of party affiliations. This is as it should be, and all citizens should receive equal treatment, but for Hatteras Island the officials have gone far above and beyond the demands of duty to aid and build up the area.

Wanchese community, which has been liberally treated in equal manner as Hatteras Island, which also went in similar manner in the election. But otherwise in Dare County, loyal Democrats rose to the situation and came through. While we hope to print returns by precincts elsewhere, we offer here a few comparisons of Tuesday's results:

Only six geese were reported killed at Bodie Island on Wednesday or the 1960 migratory wildfowl season got underway.

Of this total three hunters, each from Nags Head, killed their limits of geese. The hunters were Joseph M. Cox, H. B. Carter and J. E. Harris.

Officials reported that numerous Canada geese and also a variety of ducks, mostly widgeons and pintails had arrived in the Bodie and Pea Island region. PRaises DARE DEMOCRATS FOR REDEEMING COUNTY

WALTER D. PERRY, of Kill Devil Hills, chairman of the Dare County Democratic Executive Committee yesterday stated he was exceedingly grateful for the cooperation with which so many members of the party, and his top officials of the Executive Committee joined wholeheartedly with his organization, and with the loyal workers in the Young Democratic Club in bringing about a Democratic victory in the county.

"It was with great pleasure that so much harmony was noted, and so many contributions were made," he said. "We went to considerable expense, with the contributions we sent to headquarters, and we still have more money to raise, but I am sure the Democrats of the county will come through, and assist in financing a party organization that will have funds with which to work so that it will not be embarrassed financially in future as has been the case in the past," he concluded.

It will be remembered that in 1956, Dare County gave nine of 16 precincts to Eisenhower, and the total vote being 1,028 to 840. However, since then, more organization among Democrats has developed, despite the many differences that have prevailed, and the spirit of unity has brought about the condition which Mr. Perry commends. For some weeks before the election, and more intensely in the last few days, Mr. Perry and his staff members have been out in the field quietly working for the Sanford — Kennedy, and County ticket. The results speak for themselves, in winning victory, despite able opposition from several large religious groups in the county. This was a type of opposition most difficult to deal with, for it embraced many of the leading and most influential people of the county who expressed devotion to long-standing convictions.

SCHOOL TROUBLES PILE HIGHER IN HYDE COUNTY

Contractors Bring Suit For Some $40,000 Alleging Breach of Contract; Voters Reject Tax For Schools

Hyde County voters this week by a vote of 1,128 to 365 rejected a proposal for a special tax to aid the schools in the amount of a 25 cent levy, which would have yielded about $20,000 a year, based on the present valuation.

The C. W. SUCCESS CROWNS CAPE HATTERAS FISHING CONTEST

A Total of 270 Individual Anglers Took Part in Third Annual Tournament

Thirty teams from clubs in several states plus 270 individual anglers participated in the successful third annual Hatteras Island Surf Fishing Tournament here during the past week end. It was considered a profitable event in many ways, with all motels filled and while weather was not too favorable for fishing, due to condition of the seas, it was enjoyable weather for visiting.

Trophies and fishing tackle prizes, plus medals for winning team members were awarded during the colorful Tournament Banquet presented in the gymnasium of Cape Hatteras High School Saturday night. This was attended by some 250 persons, and the banquet was served by the ladies of the Methodist church.

Featured speaker at the event was Tidewater Virginia's talented after dinner speaker and humorist the Rev. P. Rowland Wagner of Norfolk who spoke on the theme of what is needed to clear up the present world chaos are more surf casters who would spend their time fishing instead of talking about potential global wars. Bill Dillon, president of Cape Hatteras Anglers Club presided at the banquet. His club sponsors the annual surf classic here each Autumn. Jim Mays of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot rendered invaluable service as co-chairman of the tournament.

Virginia Beach anglers club of Virginia with a score of 17 points took first place in the tournament's team competition. Runnersup in the two day team phase of the event were The Albemarle Surf Club, Elizabeth City, N. C., with 154 points and the Merchantville (N. J.) Surf Fishing Club coming in for third place with 147 points. A member of the Victor AA Fishing Club's team of Harveys Cedars, N. J., won first place for taking the largest fish—a 47-pounder by F. W. Maher.

TYRRELL COUNTY STRONG FOR KENNEDY-SANFORD

In the absence of any county contests, the vote in Tyrrell was remarkable large, and shows evidence of unity and hard work. Kennedy got 906 votes to 237 for Nixon. Sanford got 1,005 votes to Gavin's 218 for Governor. Congressman Bonner got 986 votes to 188 for Ratcliff. This represents six of the seven precincts, the only one missing being Kilkenny which normally has about 20 votes. Tyrrell went heavily for Sanford in both primaries.
