

DR. J. M. PHELPS, WASHINGTON COUNTY REPRESENTATIVE, DIES

CRESWELL — State Representative J. M. Phelps of Washington County, a widely-known eastern North Carolina surgeon and former Wake Forest College athlete, was found dead at his home Sunday.

Death for the 54-year-old veteran legislator apparently resulted from natural causes, but an autopsy was performed at Chapel Hill.

Phelps was the second State legislator to die during the current session. Fleetus Gobble of Forsyth County died of a heart attack in Raleigh during the early part of the 1961 session.

Phelps was serving his third term in the Legislature. His body was found by a maid who went to his home early Sunday. He had returned to Creswell from the Legislature in Raleigh for the weekend. The Phelps spent a great deal of their time at their beach home at Nags Head.

His wife, the former Caredwyn Thomas Sheets, was in Philadelphia attending the wedding of a niece.

A native of Washington County, Phelps attended public school there.

He attended Wake Forest College and graduated from the Wake Forest School of Medicine. Phelps then went to Jefferson Medical School in Philadelphia.

In 1926 and 1927 he received southwest recognition as a guard on Wake Forest's football team. Phelps was also a college basketball star.

House Speaker Joe Hunt Jr., at his home in Greensboro, said "I was very close to 'Doc' and thought a lot of him. He was one of the most popular members of the House."

"He served his county well and tended his business. He wasn't the type who was up on his feet all the time. He was the type of fellow who if he told you something you could depend on it."

Secretary of State Thad Eure said he and Phelps had been "intimate friends for many years. He was a highly valuable member of the General Assembly."

Eure explained that the Washington County Democratic Executive Committee would name a successor to be appointed by Gov. Terry Sanford.

A director of Branch Banking and Trust Co. in Plymouth, Phelps was a Mason and Shriner, a former member of the Creswell town board, and a member of Christ Episcopal Church. During World War II he served as captain in the Medical Corps.

Surviving besides his wife are two sons, Donald of Buies Creek and Robert of Asheville; two brothers, William of Belhaven and Lindsay of Windsor; one sister, Mrs. Alice Starr of Creswell; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 3 p.m. from Christ Episcopal Church here, conducted by the Rev. A. J. Mackie, rector. Burial was in St. David's Cemetery at Creswell.

The Washington County Democratic Executive Committee recommended Mrs. Phelps to succeed her husband in the Legislature. The Governor is required to appoint her, and she will be sworn in next Monday to fill out Dr. Phelps' term.

CONSIDER THE COMPLETE COST How much does it cost to get well these days—compared with years ago? If we figure only on the basis of Rx prices, it might seem that today's cost is greater. But the fact is that today's prescription generally cuts down on the number of doctor visits . . . and eliminates or shortens the hospital stay. As a result, the complete cost of getting better is much less now than it used to be. That's why we say . . . TODAY'S PRESCRIPTION IS THE BIGGEST BARGAIN IN HISTORY FEARING'S, INC.
