JOHN A. WILKINSON P.T.A. HEARS PANEL DISCUSSION

With W. F. Veasey, superintendent of Beaufort County schools, I. L. Leary, local principal, Mrs. Carolyn Lloyd, Mrs. Virginia Boger and Nicky Paul of the school faculty as panelists a program was presented on "Quality Education" by Vann Latham.

Mr. Veasey pointed out the term "quality education" indicates a trend to emphasize the intellectual development of children in view of the belief that education is our nation's number one line of defense. This is an age, he said, that makes the greatest demand for talented and educated persons. Bringing more qualified persons into the teaching field will be one of the greatest values of the program, according to Mr. Veasey.

Mr. Leary commented that education cannot be judged by the criteria of monetary value or the number of hours spent in the school building by the teachers. He stressed the danger of neglecting the masses of ordinary pupils while concentrating on a few superior students.

Mrs. Lloyd pointed out that education is a three-way effort, with the teacher willing to give his best, the pupil being willing to learn, and the parent being willing for the pupil to learn, even at the cost of sacrificing some pleasure of the parent or child or both.

Mrs. Boger warned that the pendulum of education can swing too far, resulting in too much pressure on the growing child.

Mr. Paul pointed out that an entirely new concept of vocational agriculture is being put into practice.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Dave Brown, pastor of the First Christian Church. E. W. Midyette, Jr. Mrs. Bernard Voliva reported that Barras Construction Company had agreed to pave a section of the playground for $600. Committee members appointed to investigate are Marion Dilday, Russell Johnston and Vann Latham.

The attendance awards went to Mrs. Thelma Dawson's eight grade and Mrs. Carolyn Lloyd's eleventh grade. 110 patrons were present.

A social hour followed in the luncheon room with Mrs. Russell Johnston, Mrs. C. B. Tillman and Mrs. J. T. Wright, hostesses, serving punch and cookies.

DISABLED WORKERS NOW RECEIVING SOCIAL SECURITY

Program Broadened to Include Those Under Age of 50 Who Have Become Unable to Work

Over 200,000 persons under 50 years of age — disabled workers and certain of their dependents were awarded Social Security disability benefits the first six months (November, 1960, through April, 1961) after the 1960 Amendments became effective. Prior to these amendments cash disability benefits were only payable to disabled workers age 50 and over. Benefit payments during this six months' period amounted to over twelve million dollars.

The risk of disability was the last to be covered under the Social Security system. Each legislative year since 1954 when disability coverage was enacted, amendments have broadened coverage and provided for cash benefits to disabled workers and certain of their dependents. One provision that may not be too widely known is that benefits may be paid to an adult son or daughter of a disabled, retired or deceased insured worker if the disability occurred before age eighteen. Some 34,000 childhood disability beneficiaries are in this group.

As of April, 1961, over 300,000 disabled workers and their dependents were receiving benefits totaling nearly fifty-six million dollars monthly.

To be eligible for Social Security disability benefits a worker must have worked for at least five years in the ten-year period before he became disabled. His illness or injury must be one that shows up in medical examinations and tests. It must be a long term illness or injury so severe that it prevents the worker from doing any substantial gainful work. If an illness or injury is one that is expected to improve with medical treatment, the worker is not eligible for Social Security disability benefits.

The 1961 Amendments to the Social Security law extended the time for filing for Social Security disability benefits to June 30, 1962. Workers with long standing disabilities may lose all or some of the rights to these benefits if they do not apply for them before June 30, 1962.

A disabled worker age 62 whose disability claim has been disallowed may apply for a reduced retirement benefit. If he does this he will continue to receive a reduced retirement benefit at age 65.
