

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON—I have given much study to the proposal incorporated in H. R. 10650 that withholding taxes be imposed upon dividends and interest. I have reached the deliberate conclusion that such taxes would impose intolerable record-keeping burdens upon both the government and private financial institutions, and grave hardships upon taxpayers dependent for their livelihood upon income from these sources. Consequently, I shall vote to eliminate this proposal from the pending amendments to the Internal Revenue Code.

LEGISLATION—Considering the number of major legislative proposals that have confronted the 87th Congress, in my judgment this has been the hardest working Congress in which I have served since I came to the Senate. The Congressional Record on May 1 gave a resume of Congressional activity for this session. It reported as of that date that 3,000 Congressional measures had been introduced, that 813 measures had been reported to the Senate, that 248 measures had passed the Senate, and that 79 private bills and 45 public bills had been enacted into law. This hardly tells the story of Congress in action, however. For months now Congressional committees have been working long hours on the Farm Bill, the Tax Revision Bill, the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, and the proposed Foreign Assistance Act of 1962. As these are "marked up" for consideration by the two houses, Congressional activity will begin to move at a fast and furious pace.

NC SOCIAL SECURITY—Secretary R. bicoff of the Health, Education, and Welfare Department informed me on April 28th that North Carolina had $66,961 people who received old-age, survivors, and disability insurance monthly benefits as of the end of December 1961. For the calendar year 1961 North Carolinians received more than $229 million as a result of these benefits. December 1961 payments alone totaled more than $19 million.

NC RESERVE UNITS—Eleven North Carolina Reserve even North Carolina Reserve Army units which were called into active service during the Berlin Crisis will be released during the month of August, according to information given me by the Department of Defense. These units have home stations in Wilmington, Morehead City, Fayetteville, Durham, High Point, Winston-Salem, Salisbury, Albemarle, and Charlotte.
