DEATH RECALLS MYSTERY OF DIAMOND SHOALS WRECK

By AYCOCK BROWN
Forty-six years ago (January 31, 1921), the five-masted schooner Carroll A. Deering foundered on the Outer Diamond of Diamond Shoals, about 12 miles south-east of Cape Hatteras here on North Carolina's Outer Banks.
When rescue crews of the Coast Guard arrived at the vessel with all or most of its sails set, the ship had been abandoned.

On Sunday, March 12, the year the man for whom that famous modern ghost ship was named—Carroll A. Deering of Bath, Maine—died at the age of 84.
The schooner's grounding and the reason for it became one of the sea's strangest and unsolved mysteries.
Skipper of the vessel, Captain Willis B. Woismell of Portland, Maine, and his crew were never found.
When the schooner was hoisted, the rescuers reported that a fire still glowed in the galley stove, and food was on the table.

Walter L. Gibbs, unable to attend the meeting, is the fifth member of the board.

IN DARE DISTRICT COURT

FRACASES, FROLICHS AND FUN PLUS OTHER CASES FRIDAY

Friday, March 31 was a busy day in Dare District Court, with a number of thievery defendants appearing plus many others charged in a variety of infractions.
First case involved Leon White and Smith White, colored brothers of Manteo, charged with breaking and entering the home of Mrs. Louise Farrow of Manteo, and stealing personal property consisting of four radios, jewelry and a camera. Additionally, they allegedly destroyed a stereo record player in Mrs. Farrow's home. They were bound over for Superior Court on the charges which are felonious, the property being valued in excess of $200. To complicate matters, Leon was charged with resisting arrest, and given a 60-day jail term for that offense.

One of the arresting officers, Chief D. F. Twyne of Nags Head, said Leon told him that "no damn officers in Dare County's going to put me in jail."
Deputy L. W. Beasley said Leon told him that if he went to jail he "would go dead." But the White boys wound up in the clink where they will be guests of Dare County at taxpayer's expense until May.
Earlier charged with felonious breaking and entering, four young defendants found themselves treated mildly as charges were reduced to forcible trespass. Sarah Dawn Vanamon, Jan Robbins, Sidney W. Hughson, Jr. and Franklin Hamilton had been charged with the more serious offense following a break-in several weeks ago at Horace Britton's property at Kitty Hawk.
The girls were assessed costs of court, and the boys were fined $100 each plus costs.
Mrs. Marjorie Virginia Coscarelli of Kitty Hawk was also charged with forcible trespass.

UNUSUAL DISCOVERY

BOBBY DUVAL of Kill Devil Hills, a telephone company employee, hunts arrowheads as a hobby. While combing the sand dunes near his village of Duck last week end he found a skeleton and in the same immediate area he also found some arrowheads and black soil indicating that the bones may have been an Indian. The crouched condition (as shown) was also an indication that it may have been the remains of an Indian, probably preserved for centuries beneath the saline sand. Teeth of the skull were worn smooth from apparent much usage. Duvall is sending the skull and bones to Smithsonian Institution in Washington for possible further identification. CANDIDATES IN NAGS HEAD MAY FILE APRIL 20

Five Commissioners To Be Elected on May 2; Edwards Seeks Office

Those seeking office in Nags Head have longer to consider than in other Dare municipalities—Thursday, April 20 at 5 p.m. the deadline.
Nags Head is unique in that it does not elect a mayor. Five commissioners are elected by popular vote and that body selects its own mayor from one of the five.

Dewey L. Hayman is now mayor, having been high man on the popular vote in 1965 and subsequently selected. Other board members are Tom McKimney, C. G. Brickle, Jesse L. Newman and Carl Nunemaker. The latter was appointed to replace Archie Burrus. Burrus was elected in 1965 but later that year was named Representative to the General Assembly.
Only one candidate had filed by Thursday morning — W. L. Edwards—a former commissioner who lost in 1965.

FEW CANDIDATES OFFER FOR POSTS TOWN OF MANTEO

Through noon Wednesday, only two candidates had filed for posts in the Town of Manteo government. Sam E. Midgett, long-time board member who recently succeeded to mayoralty through appointment, has filed for the mayor's spot.
Incumbent commissioner Wood on B. Fearing II had filed for re-election, and Dan L. Cannady, a former Manteo chief of police, seeks a seat on the board.
Filing deadline is May 15th at 5 p.m. for those who want to enter the races. Candidates may file at the town hall.
Voter registration will continue through April 21, and challenge day will follow Saturday the 22nd.

Until such time as Farmers Home Administration officials had been conferred with, Oneto stated that he felt it advisable that amounts and bidders not be identified. "We contemplate a conference with FHA officials at early date," he stated.
OBRA's course is on a tract of some 300 acres at Kitty Hawk being donated by Kitty Hawk Land Co.

SWAN QUARTER. — The Hyde County Board of Commissioners, in its regular meeting here Monday, decided to hold a public hearing to determine whether there should be a county-wide law prohibiting hunting from the roads.

The hearing is in reference to a proposal bill against hunting within the 30 foot right-of-way of highways. The bill, which specifies state road 1304, has now been tabled with action pending on results of the hearing.
An Ocracoke delegation appeared before the board to discuss the possibility of obtaining a fire station and jail for Ocracoke Island. An island air strip was also discussed.
In other business, the commissioners drew the names of 100 jurors for the Dare county court term.
Attending the meeting were Commissioners Leon G. Ballance, Tommy V. Jones, and Leonardi Smith.

EQUALIZATION & REVIEW MEET IN DARE MONDAY

Commissioners to Hear Complaints of Inequities from Taxpayers

Dare County Board of Commissioners is scheduled to meet as board of equalization and review beginning Monday, April 10. If need be to settle disputes over valuations, they may meet again on the 17th and 24th.
Inasmuch as revaluation of all property in the county has just been completed, and numerous parcels considerably upped in value, it is anticipated that many questions will arise. As a matter of explanation, but with limited authority for adjustments, the revaluation firm recently conducted hearings in the courtroom. Only a handful of complaints arose at that time; some were satisfied and a few errors corrected.
But the multitude of property owners seeking adjustment are expected to appear Monday, especially those with two- and three-fold increased valuations.

Griggs took command of the vessel Monday at ceremonies in New London, Conn. He is the sixth captain of the Nautilus.
The officer attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute and graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in June 1953.
He is a nephew of Walter Griggs and Jarvis Griggs and Mrs. Francis Morse of Point Harbor.

CRAB STEW PLANNED

MOSTLY ROUTINE BUSINESS BEFORE DARE BOARD MON.

Sheriff Tells of Problems Regarding Jurors, Arrest, Hunting

Meeting Monday, the Dare County Commissioners attended to little of earth-shaking nature, hearing a number of routine reports and requests from citizens and officials.

Hugh G. "Chick" Craddock, president of Oregon Inlet Fishing Guides Association, requested the board's help in getting a shoaly area near the marina dredged to more navigable depth. He was referred to National Park Service authorities, inasmuch as the channel into and the basin is not a matter relating to authorized Corps of Engineers projects.
Craddock also discussed two matters regarding Manna Harbor. He requested help in having a 35-m.p.h. speed zone established throughout the village. According to Craddock, zones now are 10, 35 and 45. He was told to secure a letter from fellow citizens requesting the new limit.

Craddock's other concern was the removal of a dilapidated building at the end of public canal belonging to R. D. Haywood of Matthews, Va. He was told that Haywood had been contacted and agreed to removal of the obstruction.
Nothing has been done to date relative to removal, however.

Sheriff's Requests
Frank M. Cahoon, sheriff, discussed several matters with the board, relating to jurors, arrests, personnel and indiscriminate hunting on Roanoke Island.

The sheriff told the board that the county is experiencing something of a problem in securing jurors, and may expect more in view of the new district court system. Under the new program, counties with limited population such as Dare but with heavy court dockets, may come up short. His request was that through Legislature a number of the exemptions which now disallow jurors from serving be removed.
On Monday, County Attorney W. H. McCown requested the drawing a special 18-member panel to serve on a civil session of the new court in late May.

'LOST COLONY' WILL BE FEATURED IN SATURDAY WASHINGTON PARADE

A NORTH CAROLINA FLOAT in the annual Cherry Blossom Festival Parade in Washington, D. C. on Saturday will feature "The Lost Colony" outdoor drama. Design of the float was centered around the chapel of the Waterside Theatre where Pulitzer prize winner Paul Green's pioneer outdoor symphonic drama has been presented each summer since 1937, except for four World War II years.

Thomas Hull of Durham, one of the featured performers in "The Lost Colony" in the role of Old Tom, will be among those riding on the float wearing costumes used in the Roanoke Island production. Others will be Washingtonians depicting the characters of Governor John White, Father Martin, Dame Colman, Joyce Archard, colonist women and red-coat English soldiers.

The North Carolina State Society of the National's canoist is the float sponsor. Mrs. Fred W. Morrison of Washington and Kill Devil Hills was a leader in arranging for the float. She is Producer of "The Lost Colony" and Chairman of the sponsoring Roanoke Island Historical Association.
Miss Beth Alexander, daughter of former Congressman and Mrs. Hugh Alexander, will be on the float as the Princess selected by the North Carolina Society. The parade will start at 11 a.m. Saturday and will cover 17 blocks of Washington's famed Constitution Avenue.

The central theme of the Cherry Blossom Festival is "America and the World". In choosing the christening of Virginia Dare, first child of English parents born in America (in 1587), the North Carolina Society said of the float design:
"In this theme of 'America and the World', there is none more pertinent, nor poignant, than the story of America, beginning in North Carolina, on Roanoke Island, 380 years ago. For it was here that the first Colony of men, women and children sought to carve out a new life in the New World. This was the real beginning of the American Dream.

"And although this ill-starred attempt by Sir Walter Raleigh was doomed to failure, this colony whose fate is now lost in the mystery of time paved the way for the successful colonization of America by the English in later years."

"Each summer on the site of the first colony's attempt to settle the New World, a moving drama of that experience is presented through "The Lost Colony", a symphonic drama by Pulitzer prize-winning playwright Paul Green. These are scenes from that drama, but they are more than that; they are the symbols of the brave men and women who launched the American Dream."
